Turtle Trot

Q. Is there an organized turtle race? If so, where and when is it? D.G., Long Beach

A. The National Turtle Races are held the first weekend in May in Joshua Tree. Walter Altnow, past president of the Joshua Tree Chamber of Commerce and a former Long Beach resident, said the desert tortoises are normally supplied to entrants and then returned to their natural habitat, since it is unlawful to take, sell or purchase a desert tortoise. Tortoises must be at least 8 inches measuring from the back to neck on the underside. In the contest, the reptiles are placed in the center of a circle with a 50-foot radius. The first tortoise to cross the circumference line wins. The world record is 30 seconds. Altnow added that a Joshua Tree tortoise was taken up to Calaveras County and matched with a frog, but the tortoise lost.

Q. Why isn't there a warning on hair spray cans that such spray is potentially dangerous? Not long ago, I became weak and dizzy after using a well-known hair spray, and my doctor said I had had a toxic reaction to the spray. Mrs. B. T., Long Beach

GRAFFITI by Leary

A. There is no such warning on hair spray cans because hair spray has not been shown to be generally toxic, according to Herbert Friedlander, of the division of case guidance for the U.S. Food and Drug Administration in Washington, D. C.

"Some individuals have strong toxic reactions," he said. "But our tests with beauty shop operators have not proved that any hair spray is dangerous to people in general." He said the law does not require cosmetic firms to submit their products to pre-inspection, so the burden of proof rests with the FDA. "If we feel a cosmetic product of any kind is unsafe, we must go to court to prove it," Friedlander said.

If you wish to report your case, you can call the Los Angeles FDA office at 688-3771. The American Medical Association library in Chicago has numerous AMA releases and medical journal articles on the subject of hair spray toxicity, most of which discount it. One article links hair spray with the lung disorder thesauritis, but another attacks this theory. Copies of these articles will be sent to you. A spokesman for the AMA press section said the association recommends you consult with your own physician about ways to avoid toxic reaction, since "the reactions vary in severity in each case."

No Set Back

Q. We took our television set to Card's Television Service in Los Angeles about two months ago. The owner promised to let us know when it was done. We have tried calling and visiting the shop, but have found it closed. What can we do? W.R., Inglewood

A. ACTION LINE talked with Mrs. Al Cardomenis, wife of the store owner. She explained that her husband had been quite ill and the shop had been closed. She said he is now back to work, and they will contact you to make arrangements on your set.

Synanon

Q. Can you help me obtain some information about Synanon? I think such an organization is what many people with drug problems need. C. D., Lakewood

A. A packet of Synanon information is in the mail to you. Founded in Santa Monica in 1958, the Synanon Foundation is composed of former drug addicts who help each other to recovery. Although Synanon now has seven facilities around the country and overseas, its headquarters remains at 1910 Ocean Front Walk, Santa Monica, where each Sunday at 7 p.m. visitors and prospective members are welcome to attend a lecture-discussion about the foundation, said Carolyn Williams, information officer. Synanon's closely-knit community life and therapy sessions have become famous and respected since its founding by President Charles Dederich. Despite opposition by city government, Synanon prospered and now claims that more than 90 per cent of entering members recover from addiction.

Peaked Palms

Q. It seems to me that the city has neglected the plants on Livingston Drive between Roycroft and Granada avenues. The recently planted trees are drying up, and nothing seems properly cared for. L. K. K., Long Beach

A. John Williams, assistant to the city manager, admits that the palm trees look "a little shabby," but explains that they were transplanted from another city work project and will have to re-establish themselves in the new soil. Williams said the iceplant in the area is watered regularly, although one patch failed. He explained that that area of Livingston Drive was not considered part of the beautification program until the city received matching funds from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development in 1965. "It was nothing but a dust pile, and we think improvements have been made," he said.

Sun Brings Norco Inmates Stage Million to Beaches July Fourth Rampage

Nearly one million beachgoers vied for sunning space on crowded Southland strands Friday and thousands stayed on for fireworks displays after dark.

"There were as many people out there as the beach would hold," a Long Beach lifeguard said.

More than 150,000 sunbathers were on the seven-mile Long Beach strand, and many stayed until dark for fireworks displays near the Arena.

At Seal Beach and other Orange County beaches, where individual fireworks are legal, thousands of persons detonated pyrotechnics of every size, sound and color, sending clouds of smoke floating inland.

During the day, lifeguards reported larger-than-average crowds everywhere.

Long Beach bathers enjoyed 66-degree water and air temperature of 82.

There were 33 rescues, 21 first-aid assists and 16 lost children — all found again.

More than 33,000 sunbathers visited Cabrillo Beach in San Pedro and 8,000 sunned themselves at Seal Beach.

NORCO (AP) — An estimated $10,000 damage was done by rampaging inmates Friday after security guards broke up their Fourth of July moonshine party at California Rehabilitation Center here.

"It's a holiday, we deserve something special," shouted one of the 400 inmates involved in the brief melee, which left nine prisoners and one staff member slightly injured.

The minimum-security center, where more than 2,000 drug addicts are undergoing treatment, was ringed by Riverside County Sheriff's deputies to prevent any escapes. It is about 75 miles southeast of Los Angeles.

Officials said inmates broke windows, set three or four small fires, and broke into the canteen and stole candy and cigarettes.

The disturbance broke out at about 10 a.m. in a dormitory, and quiet was restored within an hour. About 35 ringleaders were taken to the Southern Reception Guidance Center, in China, a maximum-security prison.

Most of the 35 will be transferred to other state narcotics centers, officials said.

Officials said guards went to Dormitory 2 where about 50 to 100 inmates were drinking a home brew they fermented from stolen sugar, orange juice and fruit.

The inmates gave the guards the liquor but then began ripping up bed sheets, destroying mattresses, and breaking windows.

The violence spread to other parts of the camp and ended when guards corralled the group on a baseball diamond in the recreational area.

Record for a three-day Independence Day holiday is 577, set in 1966. All-time summer holiday toll is 732, set during the four-day July 4th weekend of 1967.

The fourth of July holiday traffic death toll mounted steadily Friday as Americans celebrated the nation's 193rd birthday. One fireworks death was reported.

A United Press International count at midnight showed 190 persons killed in traffic accidents since the start of the three-day weekend at 6 p.m. Thursday.

A breakdown of accidental deaths showed:

Traffic 190
Drownings 49
Planes 12
Miscellaneous 24
Total 275

California led with 17 deaths. Texas counted 16, Michigan 15, Ohio and Virginia 11 each and Georgia 10.

The National Safety Council estimated 550 to 650 persons would be killed in holiday traffic, compared to about 500 in a similar nonholiday period of 78 hours at this season of the year.

Record for a three-day Independence Day holiday is 577, set in 1966. All-time summer holiday toll is 732, set during the four-day July 4th weekend of 1967.

Fourth of July Suburbia Style

The only thing more American than the Fourth of July is a bunch of people celebrating it.

In Suburbia, a 101-home tract northwest of Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, more than 250 small fry — and their parents — turned out for their fourth annual Independence Day parade.

The youngsters trundled homemade floats and be-decked wagons and crepe-laden trikes along Barbi Lane while the Los Alamitos-Rossmore Optimists Club decided on a float depicting Revolutionary War heroine Molly Pitcher as the winner. Runners-up were three youths who festooned their hot rod with red, white and blue.

Stories, photos of other Independence Day observances on Pages A-6 and B-1.

and placards, a scene depicting Washington Crossing the Delaware and a float titled "Wild Lion," which featured a little girl pulling a wagon with a Siamese cat in it.

"This year we had 13 floats," said Mrs. Shew Lee, who launched the parade four years ago. "Everybody got an award — a ribbon or something."

After the parade, the neighbors on Barbi Lane opened their swim pools — from 2 to 5 p.m. — to all neighborhood kids. At 5 p.m., the barbecues began appearing on front lawns as the Suburbia block party gained momentum. By 10 p.m., when exhausted fathers were supposed to start louching off the Suburbia fireworks display, some of the parade participants were already drowsy-eyed.

Which is one way of gauging the success of any birthday party.

SP FREIGHT IS DERAILED, 2 MEN DIE

GILA BEND, Ariz. (UPI) — Two persons were killed Friday night when a west-bound Southern Pacific freight train derailed 33 miles west of here.

A spokesman for SP said both were transients and were pinned beneath the wreckage.

Twenty-four cars of the 68-car "Gold Streak" jackknifed in a pile a half-mile south of U.S. 80. Six other cars also derailed but remained upright. All but five of the cars were loaded.

Urge U.N. to Decide Liability

New York Times Service

GENEVA — Japanese diplomats revealed Friday a small Japanese freighter was badly damaged and five crewmen seriously injured by wreckage from a Soviet spacecraft while cruising near the coast of Siberia.

The incident, believed to be the first authenticated case of terrestrial damage caused by falling space objects, was reported to five Western delegations on the legal subcommittee of the United Nations Committee on Outer Space.

The Japanese delegation to the subcommittee told other delegates it had just received an official report from Tokyo that a 3,000-ton freighter had been hit by the wreckage.

THE Japanese said the freighter, the Dai Chi Chin, was hit on June 5 in the narrow gulf between the Soviet island of Sakhalin and the Siberian province of Khabarovsk. They said she was outside territorial waters.

Later, Shigeo Iwai, member of the Japanese delegation to the U.N., in a statement to the subcommittee said the incident proved the subcommittee's concern with procedures for assessing liability for damage caused by space objects was "more than merely theoretical."

The Japanese government finding, as made available to other governments, said two Soviet ships turned up looking for the wreckage a short time after the freighter was hit. According to this account, the Soviet ships collected most of the wreckage, but the Japanese captain collected enough to submit to his government.

EXAMINATION by experts proved the wreckage was part of a Soviet space vehicle, Western diplomats were told.

These sources said Japan apparently had decided not to make a public disclosure of its finding because it did not want to provoke an incident with Moscow.

Damage to the freighter previously had been reported in the Japanese press but had been attributed to an unidentified object.

THE STATEMENT was made as the subcommittee

Italy Crisis Threatened

ROME — The Socialist Party, the major partner of the Christian Democrats in the coalition that has governed since 1963, split Friday, threatening Italy with a major political crisis. The Socialists split over the issue of closer cooperation with the Communists, apparently ending the unification of the right and left wings that was triumphantly proclaimed in October, 1966. The Socialist split brought the resignation of Socialist ministers of both factions in the center-left cabinet headed by the Christian Democratic premier, Mariano Rumor, since last December. If the coalition thus breaks down, it will leave Italy without a government at a time when worker and student discontent seems to be approaching a new round of violent contestation of the established order and challenge to the parliamentary regime. Strikes by civil servants already have intermittently paralyzed many public services for the last three months. The situation raised the specter of a crisis that could lead to new elections under conditions that would almost inevitably favor the left and right wing extremes.

INTERNATIONAL

Guyana Welcomes Rocky

GEORGETOWN, Guyana — More than 50,000 Guyanese turned out Friday to give Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller a warm but subdued welcome to the 19th of the 20 Latin American nations he has visited on a fact-finding tour for President Nixon. Prime Minister Forbes Burnham greeted the governor at the airport, congratulated him on the occasion of the 193rd anniversary of U.S. Independence and said Guyana would welcome further American financial assistance as long as it does not affect Guyana's sovereignty. The warm welcome was the second in a row for Rockefeller following his riot-marred visit earlier in the week to the Dominican Republic. Officials there announced Friday a final toll of five dead, six wounded and more than $1 million in damages in violence during the governor's 23-hour stay in Santo Domingo.

Soviet Visit Canceled

BUCHAREST — Informed Romanians said that a visit here by Soviet leaders later this month appears to have been canceled. Soviet Party Chief, Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorniy, who were expected here about mid-July to sign a new Soviet-Romanian friendship treaty, are believed to have decided to stay away in a gesture of displeasure over President Nixon's forthcoming visit here.

Lull Despite Terrorism

SAIGON, Saturday — Communists shelled eight Allied military bases and towns early today, and terrorists planted bombs in Saigon and a Mekong Delta province that killed nine Vietnamese civilians and wounded 34 others. U.S. military spokesmen said a unit of the 4th Infantry Division sustained light casualties when its camp 245 miles northeast of Saigon was hit by mortar fire. They said there were no fatalities. Despite the shelling and bombing attacks, however, American military officials said a lull was continuing in the ground war. Nine civilians were killed and 27 others wounded when a plastic bomb exploded late Friday in a market place near the provincial capital of Ben Tre, 44 miles south of Saigon. Shortly afterward, terrorists bombed a police check point 55 miles south of Saigon on Route 30 in the same province. Four civilians were injured. In Saigon, terrorists bombed a Korean army truck parked in the Chinese sector of Cholon.

Kennedy Clan, Guests Shoot Rapids

Sen. Edward Kennedy led 15 members of the family clan and 17 friends on a fourth of July river rapids expedition Friday near Vernal, Utah.

The Kennedy party struck off from Rippling Brook campgrounds near the mouth of Lodore Canyon. They planned to pass through the rapids of Disaster Falls and Triplet Falls in three 33-foot pontoons and one 16-foot two-man raft.

In addition, there was plenty of time for water fights, swimming, sunbathing and occasional hikes along the rugged, 2,500-foot cliffs of dark vermillion.

The trip is scheduled to end Sunday near Dinosaur National Monument, about 15 miles east of Vernal.

In addition to the Senator, the outdoor enthusiasts include his wife, Joan, Ethel Kennedy, the widow of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy; nine of her children, and Mrs. Patricia Lawford, Edward's sister.

Also on the trip were mountain climber Jim Whittaker, who climbed Canada's Mount Kennedy with the late Senator, and Reps. John Tunney, D-Calif., and John Culver, D-Iowa.

GENERAL FALLS

Gen. Mark W. Clark, who commanded the 5th Army in Italy during World War II, slipped Friday at his summer home in Leland, Mich., and broke his ankle. The retired general, 73, fell on his front porch.

MESSAGE

President Nixon messaged Norwegian explorer Thor Heyerdahl in mid-Atlantic Friday saluting his risky expedition to seek knowledge of man's past and promote peaceful cooperation among nations.

Heyerdahl and his six-man crew left Safi, Morocco in May in a papyrus boat built in Egypt, trying to establish that Egyptians could have migrated in such boats to Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula about 1200 B.C.

The explorer Thursday sent Nixon a message, of best wishes, relayed by amateur radio operator Richard W. Ehrhorn of St. Petersburg, who is in touch with the "Ra," about twice a week. Nixon used the same channel to reply.

WHO'S SICK?

Astronaut Walter Cunningham criticized his own generation Friday during an Independence Day address, saying it was "sicker" than the younger generation because it permitted the wild behavior of the young.

"Many claim we are raising a sick society," said Cunningham, a civilian astronaut who took part in the Apollo 7 flight in October, 1968. "If so, then our generation is sicker because we tolerate the tearing down of our places of learning, the exhortation of our nation's churches and the disrespect of our government."

He said the young have a right to a voice in the future, but he said it should be achieved by programming, not protesting, by offering solutions, not by criticizing, and by voting, "not by violence."

Skipper Bid for Fame

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. — Keep your eye on the horizon, aim for minimum altitude and practice, practice, practice.

Those tips, coupled with large, ultra-flat stones for maximum skim, could win you the Little David Flat Stone Trophy today in Mackinac Island's 1969 Stone Skipping and Ge-plunking Open Meet.

A retired Navy commander who once skipped a stone 17 times, will serve as a field judge. Number of skips alone will not win the trophy. "An entrant may be penalized on defects in form and style," said W. T. Rabe, provost of the island's Stone Skipping and Plunking Club and marshal of the 1969 open.

"An accomplished stone skipper is poetry in motion. He skips a stone with one continuous movement of his entire body, holding his breath throughout, and ending with a great and audible exhale."

Ge-plunking is primarily for children under four who have not mastered the art of skipping. Height of splash and volume of noise are the main factors in judging ge-plunkers.

HE DROPPED IN

James Mullarkey, 30, parachuted from a private plane into a New York city park this Fourth of July to show the troops in Vietnam that "someone cared" about them.

Mullarkey also learned that someone cared about him. A policeman was on the ground to arrest him on charges of violating the city's administrative code by parachuting in the city limits and Park Department regulations by parachuting into Van Cortlandt Park in the Bronx.

Mullarkey said the son of a friend of his was killed in Vietnam last year and he wanted to make a gesture to show someone cared about the war. He carried an American flag which he ran up one of the parachute shrouds as he floated to earth at the park's parade ground.

HARRY'S PARADE

Looking chipper and appearing to be in good spirits, the 85-year-old former president sat on the porch next to his wife Bess.

Truman stood each time a color guard passed to give the hand-over-heart salute. He waved to Sen. Stuart Symington and Rep. William J. Randall, both Missouri Democrats, as their car passed the house.

The congressmen spoke at the traditional Fourth of July observance at the Truman Library in Independence, located less than one mile from the former chief executive's home. Truman did not go to the library.

DELAYED?

Bad weather over the North Atlantic Friday delayed the departure of 77-year-old Marion R. Hart on the second leg of her planned transatlantic flight in a single-engine aircraft.

An official at the Goose Bay, Labrador airbase said the weather was fine but apparently unsuitable for light planes on Mrs. Hart's proposed route to Iceland.

Mrs. Hart, from Washington, D.C., landed her Beechcraft Bonanza Thursday after a flight from Presque Isle, Maine. She was scheduled to leave Friday for an Iceland stop-over before heading for London. She has postponed takeoff until today. Mrs. Hart has been flying since 1945 and made her first solo transatlantic hop in 1963.

WATERED

Actors Jack Palance and Lee Marvin and 50 crewmen working on the film "Monet Walsh" Friday shipped 50,000 gallons of water to thirsty cattle on the drought-plagued Papago Indian reservation.

Palance and Marvin helped load two 5,000-gallon tanker trucks, then joined in distributing the water at the tribal headquarters at Sells, Ariz.

The trucks made 10 trips to the reservation. They also took hay and salt and water troughs that had been used in filming the Western movie.

ASTRONAUT'S WIFE GETS SAMOVAR FROM MRS. NINA POPOVA Official Russian Greeter, left, With Mr. and Mrs. Frank Borman in Moscow

Spacemen Steal Show

American Astronaut Frank Borman and four Soviet spacemen stole the show Friday at a huge American Embassy reception honoring the Fourth of July in Moscow.

Borman, the first U.S. spaceman to visit the Soviet Union, stood in the reception line for 30 minutes with U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Beam. He spent most of the rest of the two-hour party autographing photographs and Apollo 8 envelopes for Soviet and Western guests.

Cosmonauts Gherman Titov, Konstantin Feoktistov, Vladimir Shatalov, and Georgy Beregov added their autographs to Borman's, munched American hot dogs, and kept silent about reported Soviet plans to send unmanned craft to collect a sample of the moon's surface and bring it back to Earth.

Borman, his wife, and two teenage sons — "They're already too big to be astronauts," he joked — returned to Moscow Friday by train from Leningrad and went on to a busy official program.

It included a visit with the deputy mayor of Moscow, Vasili Isayev, whom Borman counseled not to put a roof on the Moscow football stadium.

"In Houston," he said, "we have an indoor stadium but we also have the worst team in the league. They can't even catch a fly."

SILENCED

Natoly Marchenko, a dissident Soviet intellectual, has been sentenced to three years in prison for allowing a manuscript to be published abroad, friends of his family said Friday.

Marchenko's manuscript, a memoir of his experiences in a Soviet penal camp, was published recently in England.

WHO WON?

Custer lost again but it was the Indians who sustained the injuries in the annual re-enactment of the Custer Battle on the Crow Reservation in southeastern Montana Friday.

A crowd of 2,000, witnessed the show. Two shows are on tap for today and Sunday.

In the first injuries in six years, Robert Little Light, Crow Agency, suffered a broken collarbone when he was dumped from his horse while attacking a wagon train.

Italy Crisis Threatened

ROME — The Socialist Party, the major partner of the Christian Democrats in the coalition that has governed since 1963, split Friday, threatening Italy with a major political crisis. The Socialists split over the issue of closer cooperation with the Communists, apparently ending the unification of the right and left wings that was triumphantly proclaimed in October, 1966. The Socialist split brought the resignation of Socialist ministers of both factions in the center-left cabinet headed by the Christian Democratic premier, Mariano Rumor, since last December. If the coalition thus breaks down, it will leave Italy without a government at a time when worker and student discontent seems to be approaching a new round of violent contestation of the established order and challenge to the parliamentary regime. Strikes by civil servants already have intermittently paralyzed many public services for the last three months. The situation raised the specter of a crisis that could lead to new elections under conditions that would almost inevitably favor the left and right wing extremes.

INTERNATIONAL

Guyana Welcomes Rocky

GEORGETOWN, Guyana — More than 50,000 Guyanese turned out Friday to give Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller a warm but subdued welcome to the 19th of the 20 Latin American nations he has visited on a fact-finding tour for President Nixon. Prime Minister Forbes Burnham greeted the governor at the airport, congratulated him on the occasion of the 193rd anniversary of U.S. independence and said Guyana would welcome further American financial assistance as long as it does not affect Guyana's sovereignty. The warm welcome was the second in a row for Rockefeller following his riot-marred visit earlier in the week to the Dominican Republic. Officials there announced Friday a final toll of five dead, six wounded and more than $1 million in damages in violence during the governor's 23-hour stay in Santo Domingo.

Soviet Visit Canceled

BUCHAREST — Informed Romanians said that a visit here by Soviet leaders later this month appears to have been canceled. Soviet Party Chief, Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorniy, who were expected here about mid-July to sign a new Soviet-Romanian friendship treaty, are believed to have decided to stay away in a gesture of displeasure over President Nixon's forthcoming visit here.

Lull Despite Terrorism

SAIGON, Saturday — Communists shelled eight Allied military bases and towns early today, and terrorists planted bombs in Saigon and a Mekong Delta province that killed nine Vietnamese civilians and wounded 34 others. U.S. military spokesmen said a unit of the 4th Infantry Division sustained light casualties when its camp 245 miles northeast of Saigon was hit by mortar fire. They said there were no fatalities. Despite the shelling and bombing attacks, however, American military officials said a lull was continuing in the ground war. Nine civilians were killed and 27 others wounded when a plastic bomb exploded late Friday in a market place near the provincial capital of Ben Tre, 44 miles south of Saigon. Shortly afterward, terrorists bombed a police check point 55 miles south of Saigon on Route 30 in the same province. Four civilians were injured. In Saigon, terrorists bombed a Korean army truck parked in the Chinese sector of Cholon.

Kennedy Clan, Guests Shoot Rapids

Sen. Edward Kennedy led 15 members of the family clan and 17 friends on a fourth of July river rapids expedition Friday near Vernal, Utah.

The Kennedy party struck off from Rippling Brook campgrounds near the mouth of Lodge Canyon. They planned to pass through the rapids of Disaster Falls and Triplet Falls in three 33-foot pontoons and one 16-foot two-man raft.

In addition, there was plenty of time for water fights, swimming, sunbathing and occasional hikes along the rugged, 2,500-foot cliffs of dark vermilion.

The trip is scheduled to end Sunday near Dinosaur National Monument, about 15 miles east of Vernal.

In addition to the Senator, the outdoor enthusiasts include his wife, Joan, Ethel Kennedy, the widow of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy; nine of her children, and Mrs. Patricia Lawford, Edward's sister.

Also on the trip were mountain climber Jim Whittaker, who climbed Canada's Mount Kennedy with the late Senator, and Reps. John Tunney, D-Calif., and John Culver, D-Iowa.

GENERAL FALLS

Gen. Mark W. Clark, who commanded the 5th Army in Italy during World War II, slipped Friday at his summer home in Leland, Mich., and broke his ankle. The retired general, 73, fell on his front porch.

MESSAGE

President Nixon messaged Norwegian explorer Thor Heyerdahl in mid-Atlantic Friday saluting his risky expedition to seek knowledge of man's past and promote peaceful cooperation among nations.

Heyerdahl and his six-man crew left Safi, Morocco in May in a papyrus boat built in Egypt, trying to establish that Egyptians could have migrated in such boats to Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula about 1200 B.C.

The explorer Thursday sent Nixon a message, of best wishes, relayed by amateur radio operator Richard W. Ehrhorn of St. Petersburg, who is in touch with the "Ra," about twice a week. Nixon used the same channel to reply.

Says Miners Intimidated

WASHINGTON — Organizers of a miners' rally made their pleas Friday for federal help in combating "black lung" disease before a handful of men instead of the throng they had hoped for.

Dr. I. E. Buff of the Physicians Committee of Miners Health and Safety, the Charleston, W. Va., organization which set up the Independence Day rally, accused the United Mine Workers Union of keeping its members away. Buff had said 1,000 miners from five states were expected for the session on the steps of the Jefferson Memorial. About 30 retired Pennsylvania miners afflicted with disease showed up.

He said more miners were killed in the last 60 years than soldiers in the Korean and Vietnam wars. "This I call industrial slaughter," he said.

Monument for 'Taps'

CHARLES CITY, Va. (AP) — The mournful tune drifted across historic Berkeley Plantation just as it did the July evening in 1862 denoting the end of day, the fond farewell to those who had fallen. It was "Taps" as composed by Gen. Daniel Butterfield, but Friday, it was played for dignitaries and hundreds of members of the American Legion who gathered at the site where Gen. Butterfield wrote the music during the Civil War. Members of the legion have donated a monument—built on the site where the general's tent was pitched when he wrote the tune. American Legion National Commander William C. Doyle told the story of the music. "Taps," he said, "is music's Gettysburg Address. For with so little, it says so much."

Comic Books Are Back

NEW YORK — Remember those Captain Marvel comic books that used to sell for a dime? Shazam! They have turned into objects of value, bringing $100 an issue. Comic book buffs gathered at the Statler Hilton Hotel Friday for the 1969 Comic Art Convention. The talk was of heroes of yesterday — Sub-Mariner, Plastic Man, the Human Torch and others. Vintage comic books were bought and sold for up to $100.

HE DROPPED IN

James Mullarkey, 30, parachuted from a private plane into a New York city park this Fourth of July to show the troops in Vietnam that "someone cared" about them.

Mullarkey also learned that someone cared about him. A policeman was on the ground to arrest him on charges of violating the city's administrative code by parachuting in the city limits and Park Department regulations by parachuting into Van Cortlandt Park in the Bronx.

Mullarkey said the son of a friend of his was killed in Vietnam last year and he wanted to make a gesture to show someone cared about the war. He carried an American flag which he ran up one of the parachute shrouds as he floated to earth at the park's parade ground.

HARRY'S PARADE

Looking chipper and appearing to be in good spirits, the 85-year-old former president sat on the porch next to his wife Bess.

Truman stood each time a color guard passed to give the hand-over-heart salute. He waved to Sen. Stuart Symington and Rep. William J. Randall, both Missouri Democrats, as their car passed the house.

The congressmen spoke at the traditional Fourth of July observance at the Truman Library in Independence, located less than one mile from the former chief executive's home. Truman did not go to the library.

Skipper Bid for Fame

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. — Keep your eye on the horizon, aim for minimum altitude and practice, practice, practice.

Those tips, coupled with large, ultra-flat stones for maximum skim, could win you the Little David Flat Stone Trophy today in Mackinac Island's 1969 Stone Skipping and Ge-plunking Open Meet.

A retired Navy commander who once skipped a stone 17 times, will serve as a field judge.

Number of skips alone will not win the trophy. "An entrant may be penalized on defects in form and style," said W. T. Rabe, provost of the island's Stone Skipping and Plunking Club and marshal of the 1969 open.

"An accomplished stone skipper is poetry in motion. He skips a stone with one continuous movement of his entire body, holding his breath throughout, and ending with a great and audible exhale."

Ge-plunking is primarily for children under four who have not mastered the art of skipping. Height of splash and volume of noise are the main factors in judging ge-plunkers.

Vacation for Heyns Suggested

Associated Press

Chancellor Roger W. Heyns of the offtroubled University of California at Berkeley wants a three month trip to Europe with his wife — and his boss thinks he should have it.

University President Charles J. Hitch recommended a combination leave-vacation to the Board of Regents Friday, citing pressures on Heyns.

"I realize that all administrators are under great pressure," he said in a letter, "but I believe there are limits beyond which we cannot expect continued effective leadership without providing opportunity for a respite from the highly unusual pressure and work schedule."

"In Chancellor Heyns' case, these limits have been reached and I urge approval of the recommendation."

A UNIVERSITY spokesman said Heyns requested a two-month leave plus his one-month vacation before regents rejected his proposal for interim park use of the disputed "People's Park" land owned by the university.

He opposed the regents' June 20 decision to advance the date of construction of student housing on the land.

A bloody clash between police and street people and students last May 15 when the land, which had been taken over and made into a "park" without permission, was fenced in for development as a sports field and for student housing.

Request for 'Pad' Canceled

Associated Press

The Telegraph Avenue Concerned Committee has withdrawn its application to the Berkeley Board of Education to create a "People's Pad," because of opposition of Negro residents in the area.

The school board indicated earlier it would lease seven Navy surplus buildings to a group of "street people" and merchants for a summer youth hostel only if the South Berkeley Model Cities Neighborhood Council approved.

The council complained to the school board after nearly 1,000 youths entered the barracks in Sava Island Village for a cleanup, without permission. The council claimed it was never consulted about the proposed project.

Formal withdrawal of the request was made in a letter to Dr. Richard Foster, Berkeley schools superintendent. Susan Cady, a Berkeley graduate student who made the original application, wrote that the group needed more time to plan an effective hostel program.

Art Goldberg, a "People's Pad" organizer, said, "We didn't talk to the community as we should have. We didn't explore what their needs were."

FEED-IN AT BEACH CALM; ARREST 28

About 1,500 persons turned up Friday for a "feed-in" advertised as "the world's greatest free barbecue," at the Venice beach and 28 of them were arrested.

However, the feed-in was peaceful, and police, who had turned out in force anticipating trouble, attributed the calm to signs posted in the area reading: "police trap on Venice Beach. Please stay away."

The signs were put up by the Free Venice Organizing Committee, which feared a melee similar to one last April 20 when more than 100 persons were arrested during a rock-and-bottle throwing clash between youths and police at a love-in.

Those arrested were booked on a variety of charges ranging from suspicion of illegal distribution of literature to possession of marijuana. One girl wearing a peek-a-boo blouse, was arrested for indecent exposure.

Taffeta and Buckskins at Wedding in the Park

By HAL LOWE

A costume party?
A love-in?
The second American revolution?
People living on Parkcrest Street near Heartwell Park weren't sure what was coming Friday when oddly attired young people began decorating trees with red, white and blue streamers on Independence morn.

At least one resident called the police.
But when officers arrived, they found a wedding in progress—the bride and groom were being married in the park where they used to walk and recite poetry when they first met.

UNITED IN holy wedlock were Tony Sanger, 20, student body president of Millikan High School in 1967, and Susan Katherine Baldwin, 22, of San Marino. The couple's friends wore garb ranging from American Indian to Colonial American to mod.

Parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. DeForrest Baldwin of San Marino, were dressed more conservatively—in late Brooks Brothers.

The bride and groom, married by Stanford graduate Joseph Brooks, recited passages from Ecclesiastes and the Song of Solomon in the double-ring ceremony.

THE BRIDE wore a long white taffeta gown and carried a bouquet of daisies and carnations. Her bridesmaid, sister Pam, was dressed in a multi-colored muu-muu.

The groom, who wore a swallow-tail coat, pin-striped trousers and a top hat, was attended by his best man, Ted Mouldenhauer IV, wearing a suede jacket and buckskin shoes.

The couple plans an extended honeymoon in Mexico. Their later plans are indefinite.

U.S. Approves San Pedro Renewal of Beacon Street

San Pedro's $14-million Beacon Street Redevelopment Project has received approval of federal officials and land purchase will begin immediately, Project Manager Jerry Trimble said Friday.

First purchases by the Los Angeles Community Redevelopment Agency will include vacant property in the northwest corner of the 50-acre project.

Land will be used for low- to moderate-income housing, Trimble said.

The project, as approved by the San Francisco regional office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, also calls for restoration or reconstruction of part of the San Pedro central business district, including the once-notorious Beacon Street.

Pair Charged With Slaying Informer

Charges of kidnapping and robbery have been dismissed against two Los Alamitos men, but they still face a charge of murdering a federal narcotics informer in the garage of one of their homes.

Raymond Graves Jr., 24, of 12322 Martha Ann Drive, was ordered to face preliminary hearing on the charge July 10. The paraplegic had his arraignment Thursday.

ARRAIGNMENT of Roy A. Thurman III, 24, of 2752 Rostonian Way, was delayed until July 7, also in West Orange County Municipal Court. Deputy Dist. Atty. John Cronin said he would ask Thurman's preliminary hearing be set for July 10 so the pair can be tried together.

The two originally were charged with abducting Bruce Beck, 30, from his Los Angeles home, robbing him and then handcuffing him to a pipe in the garage of Graves' home.

Police said Graves told them he set fire to the garage in order to attract attention since the pair had told him they intended to murder him for giving information on narcotics activities.

OFFICERS said Graves told them where to find 2,008 amphetamine tablets and disclosed other "secrets" of Southland dope trafficking.

Beck died June 21 of burns suffered before firemen were able to extinguish the garage blaze.

The kidnap and robbery charges were dismissed in Los Angeles Municipal Court for lack of evidence.

Ask Church Money for Minorities

Up to 100 "concerned Catholics" will drive in a motorcade to Fresno today to demand of Archbishop Timothy Manning that the Los Angeles Catholic Diocese pay $10 million to Negroes and Mexican-Americans, a spokesman for the group said Friday.

The spokesman said the group will include most of the 30 persons who peacefully paraded in protest last Sunday as James Francis Cardinal McIntyre dedicated the $15-million St. Basil's Catholic Church on Wilshire Boulevard.

THEY WILL call on Manning, archbishop-elect of the Los Angeles diocese, because attempts in the past to win Cardinal McIntyre's support have "proven fruitless," the spokesman said.

The $10 million would be given to "black and brown grassroots community organizations for the development of programs conducive to communities taking control of their own institutions, to be followed by a yearly allocation of the same amount," the group said in a statement.

"The Catholic Church, especially, is being put to the test for its lack of commitment to the principles of justice and equality for all people," the statement said.

Hunt Girl Lost in Sequoia

Associated Press

Searchers using bloodhounds, a helicopter and an airplane failed to find a trace Friday of a 9-year-old Northridge girl missing overnight from a crowded campground in Sequoia National Park.

The search was to be resumed today with the aid of the experienced Sierra Madre Rescue Team.

Irene was vacationing at the 8,700-foot elevation Dorst campground with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hofke, and two other of their four children.

WHEN SHE disappeared she wore only jeans, a light checkered shirt and cowboy boots. The temperature Thursday night and Friday morning dipped into the 30s.

A creek runs past the campground and for a time searchers concentrated on it.

"But the waters aren't very swift," said ranger Mack Shaver. "And while we aren't discounting that she could have fallen into it somewhere, we think she probably just walked off into the woods and became lost."

"We're told that she's a strong, self-reliant little girl, so we're optimistic."

PARK rangers, fire guards and conservation crewmen using bloodhounds searched the rugged mountain area around the campground during the night. A helicopter and a search plane joined the hunt Friday morning.

The campground was filled to capacity for the Fourth of July holiday and many vacationers volunteered in the search.

Some of the searchers had helped hunt for a small boy earlier in the season in the same area, rugged terrain with pines and some sequoias but fairly open country.

Shaver recalled that the boy was missing five days and that when found "he was just fine."

Gals Off in 'Puff' Air Race

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Led by two blonde housewives from Georgia, 92 planes soared into an azure sky Friday and pointed east in the 23rd Powder Puff Derby.

They took off at 30-second intervals on the three-day, daylight-hours-only race to Washington, D.C., after a two-hour delay due to fog and low clouds.

Visibility was near perfect, however, when Esther Wright of Thomasville and copilot Betty McNabb of Albany took off from Linbergh Field.

"It looks good all the way," said meteorologist Ross LaPorte, who gave the 168 female fliers ranging in age from 17 to 60 the go-ahead.

There are mandatory stops in Salt Lake City, Utah, and Mt. Vernon, Ill. There are eight refueling stops, the first at Las Vegas, Nev.

Final destination is Dulles International Airport. The planes must finish by Monday night or be scratched. A celebration brunch at the White House is planned by Mrs. Richard M. Nixon.

The 2,515-mile race is the longest of its kind. The 99s, an organization for women fliers, is the sponsor, and offers a $2,000 first prize.

$300 TV Stolen

A $300 television set was stolen from the home of David Holzboog of 1209 Walnut Ave. by prowlers who forced open a living room window to enter, Long Beach police said Friday.

Sub Sinking at Vallejo Blamed on Yard Crews

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Culpable negligence by civilian shipyard workers was blamed by congressional investigators Friday for the embarrassing sinking last May 15 of the nuclear submarine Guitarro while docked in Vallejo.

"Its sinking could have been prevented by the timely exercise of very little common sense and the taking of a few simple precautions," three congressmen who investigated the incident said in a report to the House Armed Services Committee.

"Although the sinking of the USS Guitarro was accidental, the immediate cause of the sinking was the culpable negligence of certain shipyard employees."

The three-man subcom-

Indict Westminster Man on Extortion

Chadwick Miller, 49, of 7561 Wyoming St., Westminster, was under Federal Grand Jury indictment Friday for the $50,000 extortion-by-mail of a former part-owner of a Las Vegas casino.

Postal inspectors said Miller is charged with sending Robert Van Santen of Marina Del Rey a letter threatening to damage his reputation unless given the cash.

mittee said its investigation showed that for about three hours on the late afternoon of the 15th, two crews of civilian workers pumped water into the forward and after sections of the ship — neither aware of tests the other was conducting.

All that water simply caused the $50-million Guitarro to go to the bottom of the bay shortly before 9 p.m.

The cost to taxpayers: Anywhere from $15.2 million to about twice that. The Navy has estimated the cost of raising the sub and getting her back in shape at $15.2 million to $21.8 million. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., head of the investigating panel, said he felt $30 million was a more accurate estimate.

The Stratton group completely cleared the skeleton crew of the Guitarro of blame. At the time of the sinking, the Navy bore the brunt of criticism for the "humiliation."

Stratton and his colleagues, Reps. William J. Randall, D-Mo., and John E. Hunt, R-N.J., did have some implied criticism of Navy higher-ups in their report. They said the Navy secretary and other ranking officials should establish clear lines of responsibility and authority for ships under construction.

Friday's report retold with a few additional flourishes the story the group narrated in an interim report issued May 29 following a three-day visit to the Vallejo facility.

Simply stated, it discovered that a "nuclear" civilian construction group was pumping water into the aft part of the ship in connection with a test.

A "nonnuclear" civilian team at the same time was pumping water into the forward section as part of another test.

"Neither group knew what the other was doing nor were they apparently aware of each other's presence," commented the lawmakers.

Vacation for Heyns Suggested

Associated Press

Chancellor Roger W. Heyns of the offtroubled University of California at Berkeley wants a three month trip to Europe with his wife — and his boss thinks he should have it.

University President Charles J. Hitch recommended a combination leave-vacation to the Board of Regents Friday, citing pressures on Heyns.

"I realize that all administrators are under great pressure," he said in a letter, "but I believe there are limits beyond which we cannot expect continued effective leadership without providing opportunity for a respite from the highly unusual pressure and work schedule."

"In Chancellor Heyns' case, these limits have been reached and I urge approval of the recommendation."

A UNIVERSITY spokesman said Heyns requested a two-month leave plus his one-month vacation before regents rejected his proposal for interim park use of the disputed "People's Park" land owned by the university.

He opposed the regents' June 20 decision to advance the date of construction of student housing on the land.

A bloody clash between police and street people and students last May 15 when the land, which had been taken over and made into a "park" without permission, was fenced in for development as a sports field and for student housing.

Request for 'Pad' Canceled

Associated Press

The Telegraph Avenue Concerned Committee has withdrawn its application to the Berkeley Board of Education to create a "People's Pad," because of opposition of Negro residents in the area.

The school board indicated earlier it would lease seven Navy surplus buildings to a group of "street people" and merchants for a summer youth hostel only if the South Berkeley Model Cities Neighborhood Council approved.

The council complained to the school board after nearly 1,000 youths entered the barracks in Sava Island Village for a clean-up, without permission. The council claimed it was never consulted about the proposed project.

Formal withdrawal of the request was made in a letter to Dr. Richard Foster, Berkeley schools superintendent. Susan Cady, a Berkeley graduate student who made the original application, wrote that the group needed more time to plan an effective hostel program.

Art Goldberg, a "People's Pad" organizer, said, "we didn't talk to the community as we should have. We didn't explore what their needs were."

FEED-IN AT BEACH CALM; ARREST 28

About 1,500 persons turned up Friday for a "feed-in" advertised as "the world's greatest free barbecue," at the Venice beach and 28 of them were arrested.

However, the feed-in was peaceful, and police, who had turned out in force anticipating trouble, attributed the calm to signs posted in the area reading: "police trap on Venice Beach. Please stay away."

The signs were put up by the Free Venice Organizing Committee, which feared a melee similar to one last April 20 when more than 100 persons were arrested during a rock-and-bottle throwing clash between youths and police at a love-in.

Those arrested were booked on a variety of charges ranging from suspicion of illegal distribution of literature to possession of marijuana. One girl wearing a peek-a-boo blouse, was arrested for indecent exposure.

A costume party?

A love-in?

The second American revolution?

People living on Parkcrest Street near Heartwell Park weren't sure what was coming Friday when oddly attired young people began decorating trees with red, white and blue streamers on Independence morn.

At least one resident called the police.

But when officers arrived, they found a wedding in progress—the bride and groom were being married in the park where they used to walk and recite poetry when they first met.

UNITED IN holy wedlock were Tony Sanger, 20, student body president of Millikan High School in 1967, and Susan Katherine Baldwin, 22, of San Marino. The couple's friends wore garb ranging from American Indian to Colonial American to mod.

Parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. DeForrest Baldwin of San Marino, were dressed more conservatively—in late Brooks Brothers.

The bride and groom, married by Stanford graduate Joseph Brooks, recited passages from Ecclesiastes and the Song of Solomon in the double-ring ceremony.

THE BRIDE wore a long white taffeta gown and carried a bouquet of daisies and carnations. Her bridesmaid, sister Pam, was dressed in a multi-colored muu-muu.

The groom, who wore a swallow-tail coat, pin-striped trousers and a top hat, was attended by his best man, Ted Mouldenhauer IV, wearing a suede jacket and bucksin shoes.

The couple plans an extended honeymoon in Mexico. Their later plans are indefinite.

U.S. Approves San Pedro Renewal of Beacon Street

San Pedro's $14-million Beacon Street Redevelopment Project has received approval of federal officials and land purchase will begin immediately, Project Manager Jerry Trimble said Friday.

First purchases by the Los Angeles Community Redevelopment Agency will include vacant property in the northwest corner of the 50-acre project. Land will be used for low- to moderate-income housing, Trimble said.

The project, as approved by the San Francisco regional office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, also calls for restoration or reconstruction of part of the San Pedro central business district, including the once-notorious Beacon Street.

Pair Charged With Slaying Informer

Charges of kidnaping and robbery have been dismissed against two Los Alamitos men, but they still face a charge of murdering a federal narcotics informer in the garage of one of their homes.

Raymond Graves Jr., 24, of 12322 Martha Ann Drive, was ordered to face preliminary hearing on the charge July 10. The paraplegic had his arraignment Thursday.

ARRAIGNMENT of Roy A. Thurman III, 24, of 2752 Bostonian Way, was delayed until July 7, also in West Orange County Municipal Court. Deputy Dist. Atty. John Cronin said he would ask Thurman's preliminary hearing be set for July 10 so the pair can be tried together. The two originally were charged with abducting Bruce Beck, 30, from his Los Angeles home, robbing him and then handcuffing him to a pipe in the garage of Graves' home.

Police said Graves told them he set fire to the garage in order to attract attention since the pair had told him they intended to murder him for giving information on narcotics activities.

OFFICERS said Graves told them where to find 2,008 amphetamine tablets and disclosed other "secrets" of Southland dope trafficking.

Beck died June 21 of burns suffered before firemen were able to extinguish the garage blaze.

The kidnap and robbery charges were dismissed in Los Angeles Municipal Court for lack of evidence.

Associated Press

Searchers using bloodhounds, a helicopter and an airplane failed to find a trace Friday of a 9-year-old Northridge girl missing overnight from a crowded campground in Sequoia National Park.

The search was to be resumed today with the aid of the experienced Sierra Madre Rescue Team.

Irene Hofke wandered away from her family's vacation tent in midafternoon Thursday.

Irene was vacationing at the 6,700-foot elevation Dorst campground with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hofke, and two other of their four children.

WHEN SHE disappeared she wore only jeans, a light checkered shirt and cowboy boots. The temperature Thursday night and Friday morning dipped into the 30s.

A creek runs past the campground and for a time searchers concentrated on it.

"But the waters aren't very swift," said ranger Mack Shaver. "And while we aren't discounting that she could have fallen into it somewhere, we think she probably just walked off into the woods and became lost."

"We're told that she's a strong, self-reliant little girl, so we're optimistic."

PARK rangers, fire guards and conservation crewmen using bloodhounds searched the rugged mountain area around the campground during the night. A helicopter and a search plane joined the hunt Friday morning.

The campground was filled to capacity for the Fourth of July holiday and many vacationers volunteered in the search.

Some of the searchers had helped hunt for a small boy earlier in the season in the same area, rugged terrain with pines and some sequoias but fairly open country.

Shaver recalled that the boy was missing five days and that when found "he was just fine."

Gals Off in 'Puff' Air Race

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Led by two blonde housewives from Georgia, 92 planes soared into an azure sky Friday and pointed east in the 23rd Powder Puff Derby.

They took off at 30-second intervals on the three-day, daylight-hours-only race to Washington, D.C., after a two-hour delay due to fog and low clouds.

Visibility was near perfect, however, when Esther Wright of Thomasville and copilot Betty McNabb of Albany took off from Linbergh Field.

"It looks good all the way," said meteorologist Ross LaPorte, who gave the 168 female fliers ranging in age from 17 to 60 the go-ahead.

There are mandatory stops in Salt Lake City, Utah, and Mt. Vernon, Ill. There are eight refueling stops, the first at Las Vegas, Nev.

Final destination is Dulles International Airport. The planes must finish by Monday night or be scratched. A celebration brunch at the White House is planned by Mrs. Richard M. Nixon.

The 2,515-mile race is the longest of its kind. The 99s, an organization for women fliers, is the sponsor, and offers a $2,000 first prize.

Sub Sinking at Vallejo Blamed on Yard Crews

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Culpable negligence by civilian shipyard workers was blamed by congressional investigators Friday for the embarrassing sinking last May 15 of the nuclear submarine Guitarro while docked in Vallejo.

"Its sinking could have been prevented by the timely exercise of very little common sense and the taking of a few simple precautions," three congressmen who investigated the incident said in a report to the House Armed Services Committee.

"...Although the sinking of the USS Guitarro was accidental, the immediate cause of the sinking was the culpable negligence of certain shipyard employees."

The three-man subcommittee said its investigation showed that for about three hours on the late afternoon of the 15th, two crews of civilian workers pumped water into the forward and after sections of the ship — neither aware of tests the other was conducting.

All that water simply caused the $50-million Guitarro to go to the bottom of the bay shortly before 9 p.m.

The cost to taxpayers: Anywhere from $15.2 million to about twice that. The Navy has estimated the cost of raising the sub and getting her back in shape at $15.2 million to $21.8 million. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., head of the investigating panel, said he felt $30 million was a more accurate estimate.

The Stratton group completely cleared the skeleton crew of the Guitarro of blame. At the time of the sinking, the Navy bore the brunt of criticism for the "humiliation."

Stratton and his colleagues, Reps. William J. Randall, D-Mo., and John E. Hunt, R-N.J., did have some implied criticism of Navy higher-ups in their report. They said the Navy secretary and other ranking officials should establish clear lines of responsibility and authority for ships under construction.

Friday's report retold with a few additional flourishes the story the group narrated in an interim report issued May 29 following a three-day visit to the Vallejo facility.

Simply stated, it discovered that a "nuclear" civilian construction group was pumping water into the aft part of the ship in connection with a test.

A "nonnuclear" civilian team at the same time was pumping water into the forward section as part of another test.

"Neither group knew what the other was doing nor were they apparently aware of each other's presence," commented the lawmakers.

Astromonk Displaying Laziness

MOUNTAIN VIEW (UPI) — America's lazy space monkey slumbered through his seventh day in orbit Friday, displaying little interest in the tasks assigned him by scientists.

Bonny, a 14-pound pig-tail monkey, was reported in good condition by experimenters at National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames research center.

But they said the "astromonk" had "shown a disinterest in performing his tasks"—tests designed to determine his memory and his eye-hand coordination.

BONNY ate only 22 food pellets during the sixth day in space, which ended Friday with the 82nd orbit. He gets 20 "free" pellets daily and is expected to earn up to 40 more by performing the tasks. But only bothered to work for two.

NASA experimenters said the monkey's body was functioning at a slightly lower metabolic rate—reflecting his lack of activity—but brain records showed he was alert when awake. Bonny, who is strapped to a small couch, started sleeping during the day on Thursday.

The Biosatellite III has been given a "go" by officials for a full 30-day mission. The space capsule, launched last Saturday from Cape Kennedy, is in orbit 225 to 245 miles above Earth. The $92-million experiment is designed to determine the effects of long space voyages.

Deny Easing School Integration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, apparently disturbed by reaction to its new statement on school desegregation guidelines, denied Friday the 1969-70 target dates for full compliance have been lifted or that Southern school districts will be allowed to renegotiate desegregation plans.

It had been interpreted by various groups as relaxing the desegregation deadline for a large number of school districts and possibly weaker enforcement of desegregation requirements.

Leon Panetta, director of the HEW office of civil rights, said this interpretation is incorrect. A clarifying letter is being prepared for distribution to Southern school districts by HEW secretary Robert H. Finch.

Tentative draft of the letter makes these points:

—Existing March 1968 school desegregation guidelines, which in general require all school districts to abolish segregation by the 1969-70 school year, or risk loss of any Federal funds, still are in effect.

—Districts already desegregated or which already have submitted acceptable plans for complete desegregation by September 1969 or 1970 will be required to meet their commitments. Panetta said nearly 3,000 districts already were desegregated and 630 others had plans already approved or close to approval and would be required to comply with them.

—Approximately 440 districts which do not yet have acceptable desegregation plans, or which already have lost Federal aid because of segregation policies, will be required to end segregation by the fall of 1969 or 1970, except where they have "extreme and valid reasons related solely to administrative feasibility."

In that case, they would be given added time, provided they proved the September 1969 date was impossible to meet and put into effect "interim steps in 1969 leading to complete desegregation immediately thereafter."

Waterproof Process a Boon to Roadwork

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A swift, adaptable technique in building roads "by wrapping them in a plastic raincoat" is being tested by the Army, it was announced Friday.

The process also may be helpful in civilian road and airport runway construction.

Use of a plastic wrapper makes it possible for roadbuilders to substitute locally available clay soils or other fine-grain materials for quarried and crushed rock as a roadbase, it was explained.

This eliminates the need for expensive and cumbersome crushing equipment and time-consuming truck hauls from the quarry to the roadside, an Army spokesman said.

between the asphalt-plastic membrane and another strip of plastic. The upper and lower plastic strips are then sealed, fully enclosing the roadbase.

Another layer of asphalt is placed on the sealed roadbase, which is dusted with sand if available.

A spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers, which is conducting the tests, said the plastic-asphalt membrane prevents moisture under the roadbed from seeping into the road and causing damage.

Top layer of plastic helps to reinforce and waterproof the asphalt surface, he said.

Tests at the Army Engineer Waterways Experiment Station in Vicksburg, Miss., have shown such roads are able to carry traffic of 2½ to 5 ton cargo trucks.

Other tests at Dyess AFB, Tex., showed the membrane was useful in waterproofing landing strips for a six-month period, the Army said.

Delay Pickup of 3 U.S. Fliers in Hanoi

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — A flight to Hanoi to pick up three supposedly freed American prisoners has been delayed at least until Tuesday by bad weather.

North Vietnam had promised to free the men as a U.S. Independence Day gesture. The regular Vientiane-to-Hanoi flight operated by the International Control Commission took off as scheduled Friday, but monsoon rains forced it to turn back before reaching the North Vietnamese capital.

The ICC said Friday the next flight probably would be scheduled Tuesday.

Hanoi, which announced its intention to free the men Thursday and rebroadcast the same announcement Friday, was silent about further developments.

brought to a close another unsuccessful attempt to reach agreement on two vital provisions of the proposed treaty on liability for damage caused by space objects.

After four months of negotiations, differences between the United States and Soviet Union remain unchanged. The U.S. favors compulsory arbitration in case of disagreement, while Moscow insists this should be left to bilateral negotiations.

Teachers Group 'Insists' on Early Desegregation

New York Times Service. PHILADELPHIA — The National Education Association, a 1-million-member organization of teachers and school administrators, voted overwhelmingly Friday to "insist" that the Nixon Administration restore the September deadline for desegregation by all Southern school teachers.

In a telegram to President Nixon after the vote, the association president, George D. Fischer, said the politically influential association was "shocked to learn of the change" in the timetable for implementation of school desegregation guidelines.

"We are convinced that any school district which had approached the problem of school desegregation in good faith would have found a solution to the problem of integration before this time and therefore the September 1969 date is reasonable," Fischer said.

Activists Outline Antiwar Strategy

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—About 500 peace activists from throughout the country met Friday in the opening session of a two-day national conference of antiwar groups to plan protest activities.

Jerry Gordon of Cleveland, a member of the steering committee for the conference, said he did not know what would come out of the meeting, but that the agenda included discussion of plans for a big antiwar demonstration in Washington, D.C., Nov. 8.

Gordon is chairman of the Cleveland area Peace Action Council, a coalition of about 30 antiwar groups.

"ANOTHER purpose of the meeting, Gordon said, is to escalate efforts to end the war in Vietnam "and bring the boys home."

Gordon said the delegates also would be asked to decide what action, if any, the conference should take on a day of protest planned by some antiwar groups for Sept. 27 in Chicago. That date, he explained, coincides with the opening of the trial of some of the people indicted in connection with demonstrations during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in August.

"MODIFICATION of the timetable," he added, "merely provides extra time for those districts that have not attempted to solve the problem."

The Administration announced Thursday that districts with "bona fide educational and administrative problems, such as space, financial or faculty shortages, would be temporarily exempted from the deadline. The easing was denounced by civil rights leaders and some liberals in Congress.

The voice vote among 7,000 members of the policy-setting NEA Representative Assembly was taken at the civic center on the fourth day of the association's 112th annual convention, scheduled to adjourn today.

In other action, delegates committed the association to "fully" support the "struggle for equal treatment" of migrant workers, including the union negotiating efforts of grape growers' employees in California. However, the NEA rejected a recommendation by some delegates that association members refuse to patronize stores selling California and Arizona grapes.

THE unscheduled vote on the new administration move came as an amendment to a continuing NEA resolution backing desegregation in public schools. In that resolution, which was not otherwise altered Friday, the association has recommended that "policies and guidelines for school desegregation should be in keeping with the intent and provisions of civil rights legislation and judicial decisions and should be uniformly applicable throughout the nation's schools."

Fireworks Blast in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — A large quantity of fireworks blew up Fourth of July evening about a block from Manhattan's central police headquarters. The blast shattered about 100 apartment and store windows and injured three persons, police said.

Officers said they found hundreds of unexploded firecrackers in the building where the explosion took place. Unlicensed possession, sale and use of firecrackers are illegal in New York State.

Apollo II Section Gets New Coat of 'Protective' Paint

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Space officials decided Friday to repaint the upper stage of Apollo 11's Saturn 5 rocket after the old coating—needed to help protect super-cold fuel from the sun—was discovered to be peeling.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the task could be completed without affecting the July 16 launch date for man's first landing on the moon.

were conducted on paint samples that peeled off a one-by-two foot area of the rocket's exterior and that there was speculation that the wrong kind of primer was used.

The thermal paint on the outside of the upper stage is used to reflect the sun's heat and help keep cool super-cold hydrogen fuels stored inside the tank at temperatures of minus 423 degrees Fahrenheit.

The paint would be especially critical during a 2½-hour period Apollo 11 is to be in Earth orbit, still attached to the Saturn 5's upper stage. At the end of that period, high over the mid-Pacific just south of the equator, the stage must restart to kick Apollo 11 out of Earth orbit and toward the moon.

"MODIFICATION of the timetable," he added, "merely provides extra time for those districts that have not attempted to solve the problem."

The Administration announced Thursday that districts with "bona fide educational and administrative problems, such as space, financial or faculty shortages, would be temporarily exempted from the deadline. The easing was denounced by civil rights leaders and some liberals in Congress.

The voice vote among 7,000 members of the policy-setting NEA Representative Assembly was taken at the civic center on the fourth day of the association's 112th annual convention, scheduled to adjourn today.

In other action, delegates committed the association to "fully" support the "struggle for equal treatment" of migrant workers, including the union negotiating efforts of grape growers' employees in California. However, the NEA rejected a recommendation by some delegates that association members refuse to patronize stores selling California and Arizona grapes.

THE unscheduled vote on the new administration move came as an amendment to a continuing NEA resolution backing desegregation in public schools. In that resolution, which was not otherwise altered Friday, the association has recommended that "policies and guidelines for school desegregation should be in keeping with the intent and provisions of civil rights legislation and judicial decisions and should be uniformly applicable throughout the nation's schools."

Activists Outline Antiwar Strategy

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—About 500 peace activists from throughout the country met Friday in the opening session of a two-day national conference of antiwar groups to plan protest activities.

Jerry Gordon of Cleveland, a member of the steering committee for the conference, said he did not know what would come out of the meeting, but that the agenda included discussion of plans for a big antiwar demonstration in Washington, D.C., Nov. 8.

Gordon is chairman of the Cleveland area Peace Action Council, a coalition of about 30 antiwar groups.

ANOTHER purpose of the meeting, Gordon said, is to escalate efforts to end the war in Vietnam "and bring the boys home."

Gordon said the delegates also would be asked the decide what action, if any, the conference should take on a day of protest planned by some antiwar groups for Sept. 27 in Chicago. That date, he explained, coincides with the opening of the trial of some of the people indicted in connection with demonstrations during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in August.

Apollo 11 Section Gets New Coat of 'Protective' Paint

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Space officials decided Friday to repaint the upper stage of Apollo 11's Saturn 5 rocket after the old coating—needed to help protect super-cold fuel from the sun—was discovered to be peeling.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the task could be completed without affecting the July 16 launch date for man's first landing on the moon.

A space agency spokesman said laboratory tests were conducted on paint samples that peeled off a one-by-two foot area of the rocket's exterior and that there was speculation that the wrong kind of primer was used.

The thermal paint on the outside of the upper stage is used to reflect the sun's heat and help keep cool super-cold hydrogen fuels stored inside the tank at temperatures of minus 423 degrees Fahrenheit.

The paint would be especially critical during a 2½-hour period Apollo 11 is to be in Earth orbit, still attached to the Saturn 5's upper stage. At the end of that period, high over the mid-Pacific just south of the equator, the stage must restart to kick Apollo 11 out of Earth orbit and toward the moon.

Astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., spent the holiday with their families at their homes near the Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston, Tex.

PRINCE OF WALES GREET'S WELSH GIRL IN GLOMORGAN
Heir to British Throne Received Rousing Welcome on Tour of Wales

Schoolchildren Give Prince Big Welcome

CARDIFF, Wales (AP) — The schoolchildren of Wales gave Prince Charles an overwhelming welcome Friday that overshadowed more bomb scares.

Everywhere the new Prince of Wales went on this third day of his meet-the-people tour of the principality the boisterous greeting of school children and teenagers kept security men on their toes.

"He's a regular Pisd Piper," one security man commented at Aberdare.

THE SOMBER run of security alerts and bomb scares continued.

The first came at Swansea, on Wales' south coast, where Prince Charles had spent the night aboard the royal yacht Britannia. An anonymous telephone caller said the Swansea post office would be blown up. An attic-to-cellar search turned up nothing.

Security men making a routine check of a bridge near Aberbeeg found a suspicious package. Explosive experts rushed to the scene only to find a hoax. The package was empty.

Another package found at Hirwaun bore the initials of the Free Wales Army. It contained straw and an alarm clock.

HIGH SPOT for Charles came at Aberdare in the heart of the coal-mining district. Cheering and applauding school children squirmed between the legs of policemen to cluster around the prince's car.

Worried security men scanned the scene closely for signs of hostility. The prince laughed, joked and waved throughout until the procession moved off toward Merthyr Tydfil, near the scene of the 1966 Aberfan disaster in which 144 children died in the crushing, smothering sweep of tons of coal waste.

The prince was invited to visit Aberfan and he promised to do so at a later date.

Welsh nationalist extremists have threatened violence in their opposition to the investiture of Charles, Britain's future King, as Prince of Wales. They seek a Wales independent from Britain.

SINCE THE investiture ceremony Tuesday there have been a number of bomb scares throughout Charles' tour of Wales. But there have been no serious incidents. The prince has received warm cheering welcomes from crowds all along the way.

The investiture has been so well received that one prominent Labor politician — an ardent antiroyalist — commented: "It's all been the most appalling success. We shall have them all now for at least another 50 years."

Agent's Stories Unravel East-West Spy Mystery

New York Times Service

BONN — An East-West spy mystery linking Dr. Otto John, former West German counterespionage chief, to H.A.R. Philby, the onetime British Secret Service official who worked for the Russians for 30 years, has come to light.

The mystery originated in the German resistance movement's abortive plot of July 20, 1944, to assassinate Hitler, and in the attitude of the Russians toward that plot. Dr. John had been a key member of the conspiracy.

In 1954, on the 10th anniversary of the plot, Dr. John went from West Berlin to East Berlin—by his own account after being drugged by a Soviet Agent, by other accounts as a defector. He escaped to the West in December 1955 and was charged with treason and held for 32 months.

HE HAS BEEN struggling for full rehabilitation ever since. This week he presented a copy of his soon-to-be-published autobiography, "I Came Home Twice," to the federal parliament's library.

He concludes his 376-page story with the thesis Soviet agents kidnapped him solely to determine whether Philby was a double agent betraying the Russians to the British.

Philby had been dismissed from his senior post in the British Secret Intelligence Service in 1951 on suspicion of working for Moscow. But he was given 4,000 pounds severance pay and, after lengthy interrogation in 1952, left alone.

THE WEST German points out Philby, in his 1958 book, "My Secret War," admitted the Soviet Intelligence Service did not resume contact with him after his dismissal until 1954, when the Russians already had completed interrogation of Dr. John. Philby, who wrote his own book in the Soviet Union, where he fled from the Midwest in 1963, never mentioned Dr. John in his text and was extremely vague in his description of the 1951-54 period.

However, Dr. John maintains throughout his 18 months behind the iron curtain his interrogators never once asked for details about his work as head of West Germany's counterespionage office for protection of the constitution.

Rather, he writes, the only subject of interest to his chief interrogator was Dr. John's former connection with the British Secret Service.

DR. JOHN discloses that after his escape to Lisbon in summer 1944 aboard a plane of Lufthansa—of which he was chief of the legal department—he began to work for British intelligence. He supplied London mainly with reports about the size and quality of the German resistance movement. His chief was Kim Philby.

According to his autobiography, Philby dismissed Dr. John's Lisbon reports as "lacking credibility" and refused to pass them to higher officials. This has been confirmed by Hugh Trevor-Roper, British historian who worked with Philby at the time.

Dr. John surmises now the Soviet Intelligence Service, reflecting Stalin's fear of a possible alliance between the British and an anti-Hitler conspiracy, was determined to block any step in that direction.

The author's treason case still is pending and it is expected his book will play a role in his appeal to the Supreme Court in Karlsruhe later this month.

BRANDT PREDICTS EARLY EEC MEET

BONN, Germany (AP) — West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt returned Friday night from talks with France's new leaders and predicted a summit meeting of the six Common Market countries before year's end.

He said he had found President Georges Pompidou's government "no opponent in principle" of expansion and extension of the European community. Pompidou's predecessor, Gen. Charles de Gaulle, had long blocked Britain's entry into the Common Market.

"I consider that an EEC Common Market summit conference is probable before year's end and possible in the fall," he told newsmen at Bonn airport.

HE SAID the summit would be aimed at "strengthening and extending the Common Market." In his one-day Paris visit, Brandt met with Pompidou and Prime Minister Jacques Chaban-Delmas and held long talks with Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann.

Brandt recently called for a summit of Britain and the six Common Market nations, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, to discuss the membership issue.

CHILEAN BEAUTY

Charles Puts Latin in Dance

By LEONARD KIRSCHEN

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles' current dancing partner is a beautiful Chilean with a broken romance in her life.

Lucia Santa-Cruz, 25, daughter of Chilean Ambassador Victor Santa-Cruz is a slim 5-foot, 4-inch Latin beauty with greenish-brown eyes.

She is among the best-dressed women in London and holds two university degrees which she captured before she was 23.

Lucia was once engaged to Michael Goodhuis, son of a Dutch diplomat, but three years ago they parted. Michael now works in a New York bank.

Then, after Charles' investiture as Prince of Wales this week, Lucia was among the guests at a dinner dance given by the prince and his younger sister, Princess Anne, aboard the royal yacht Britannia.

Close friends rule out any possibility of marriage. Lucia is nearly five years older than Charles and is a Roman Catholic. Charles, by law, must choose a Protestant.

When the stories of the friendship first leaked to the papers, Lucia told friends that all this speculation was "sheer nonsense" and embarrassing for the daughter to a diplomat.

It was her work as a student historian that led to closer acquaintance with the heir to the throne. On the strength of her two degrees, Lucia was commissioned by Lord Butler, a former Conservative deputy prime minister and now master of Trinity College, Cambridge, to search state archives on the period preceding World War II in preparation for the memoirs he is writing.

PRINCE CHARLES, who was studying at Cambridge University, was a resident at Trinity. When Butler decided to give a straight for her and asked included Lucia among his guests.

When the prince was invited to the Northumbrian ball, he knew practically no one among the guests. But he recognized the Chilean beauty dressed in green.

The prince is somewhat shy. So once he saw a familiar face he made straight for her and asked her to dance with him, and they just kept dancing.

Santa-Cruz describes his daughter as a liberal Catholic and a deeply serious girl. But Lucia likes the swinging side of life as well.

IN 1959, Santa-Cruz, professor of civil law at the University of Santiago and a lawyer, was named ambassador to London, a post he has held ever since.

When Lucia arrived in England she was 15 and already spoke fluent English, French, Italian and her native Spanish.

She spent three years until 1964 studying history at King's College, London University, and gained a bachelor of arts degree.

THEN SHE took a two-year postgraduate course at St. Anthony's College, Oxford, studying under Prof. Raymond Carr, an authority on Spanish and Latin-American history.

High Court Overruled in Greece

ATHENS (UPI) — The Greek government Friday overruled all decisions taken by its own supreme court since June 1 — including the reinstatement of 21 judges which the government had purged.

The government also was reported to have arrested one of the judges and the three lawyers who had defended the judges. Other reports said the ambassadors to London and Paris had been recalled because they warned that the purge of the judges would "damage Greece's position abroad."

WHEN THE 21 judges were fired last spring, they took their case to the council of state, which acts as the nation's supreme court. The council reinstated the judges, whereupon Premier George Papadopoulos proclaimed the decision intolerable and demanded the resignation of council President Michael Stassinopoulos.

Stassinopoulos refused and Papadopoulos fired him. Nine other council members resigned in sympathy with Stassinopoulos.

The government order Friday overturned the reinstatement of the 21 judges. And families of one judge and the three lawyers said all four men had been arrested.

Years for Bounce Over Niagara Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Jean Lussier, who yearns for the old bounce that carried him over Niagara's Horseshoe Falls in a rubber ball 41 years ago, says a look at the dry American Falls has convinced him he could have made it there, too.

Lussier, 77, aged 150,000 tourists in 1928 on the Fourth of July when he sealed himself in a 1,037-pound ball and plunged to the bottom of the Niagara River. He studied the bottom of the American Falls, and claims a ball similar to the one he used would bounce harmlessly off the huge boulders and into the lower Niagara River.

Nixon Leads the Nation in July 4th Observance

Associated Press

President Nixon led the nation in a low key celebration of its 193rd birthday Friday.

The vacationing president was grand marshal of a small Fourth of July parade near his summer home in Key Biscayne, Fla. He said the turnout of several thousand in sweltering heat showed that "the great majority of people haven't lost faith in this country."

Americans streamed from the cities to beaches and mountains, and there were few formal programs and little of the usual oratory.

Brooklyn's Coney Island reported a record million people on the beach by 2 p.m.

In a speech outside Philadelphia's Independence Hall, astronaut Walter R. Cunningham criticized student protesters and war dissenters, saying they should be more constructive.

In Bardstown, Ky., about 750 people attended memorial services for four Kentucky soldiers killed in Vietnam. A military burial unit en route from Ft. Knox to the ceremony was involved in an auto accident in which one man was killed and two injured.

In Vietnam there were only scattered skirmishes interrupting a continued lull in the fighting.

Reagan Talks on 'Freedom' at Knott's Berry Farm Event

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

Gov. Ronald Reagan keynoted a "Cavalade of Freedom" patriotic pageant Friday at Independence Hall in Buena Park, calling for a rededication to the ideals of freedom.

He urged the citizens "to go forward with collective might, or there can be no freedom."

Reagan observed not all people in this country cherish independence.

"The radicals don't seem to understand the moral lessons of our freedoms—or they don't care."

THE GOVERNOR offered his "thoughts on freedom" at the colorful ceremony at Knott's Berry Farm, which constructed the Independence Hall replica.

In the Mekong Delta, 840 GIs, who will be the first among 25,000 troops to return to the United States, celebrated with a steak fry and beer bust on army pontoons bobbing in the muddy My Tho River.

GRAND CAY, Bahamas (AP)—President Nixon flew to this tiny British Commonwealth island Friday after participating in a traditional July 4th parade in Florida celebrating America's independence from Britain. He was to stay overnight at the hill-top home of Robert Abplanalp, president of Precision Valve Corp. of Bronxville, N.Y.

They couldn't hold it on their barracks ship because of a Navy ban on drinking.

In West Berlin, where the U.S. Army staged a parade celebrating its 24th anniversary in the city as well as Independence Day, police were out in force to prevent anti-American demonstrations, but there were only minor incidents.

Tricia Nixon, the President's daughter helped 200 celebrate at the U.S. Embassy in London. About 20 demonstrators against the Vietnam war paraded quietly outside and one read aloud a list of American war dead as the guests arrived.

In Bucharest, Commun-

The program drew hundreds of spectators.

"Militants," Reagan said, "have not been properly taught, or perhaps they haven't sought to learn or to grow in a mature manner and to understand the responsibilities that go with individual freedom."

He scored those who blamed America for the world's ills, and said this nation "desires only peace—and the chance to help all others."

He did not mention the Vietnam war by name, but said he challenged "those who would call us warlike, or who say that war is by our choice and is solely of our doing. 'Men die today,' he said, 'because...there is force threatening the dignity of man.'" ist Romania's President Nicolae Ceausescu sent "cordial congratulations and best wishes to President Nixon, who will visit there next month."

In Athens, a square was named for former U.S. President Harry S. Truman, whose Truman doctrine has been credited with preventing a Communist take-over of Greece 22 years ago.

For the sixth Fourth of July, about 200 square dancers greeted the dawn by dancing to "Turkey in the Straw" atop Maine's Cadillac Mountain, near Bar Harbor.

There were two celebrations in Berkeley, one traditional affair at Civic Center Park, and another featuring sod-laying and kite flying at a "people's park."

In Bound Brook, N.J., where George Washington is said to have unfurled the first Stars and Stripes, there was a slight change in the customary celebration.

Instead of having someone read the entire Declaration of Independence, the crowd of 300 recited its final sentence, ending in "we mutually pledge our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

Near Shiloh, Tenn., about 800 Civil War buffs started a three-day commemoration of the 1862 Battle of Shiloh with a march and memorial service.

REAGAN upbraided those who decry the nation's imperfections.

"We are not perfect," he told his listeners, "but we are not tolerant of imperfections either. We tax ourselves heavily to care for the less fortunate."

"We grumble as we do so and then we contribute $14 billion voluntarily each year to good causes."

Walter Knott founder-owner of the Berry Farm and builder of the Independence Hall replica, presented the governor with the Richard Henry Lee award "for outstanding service to his country, stressing the ideals of independence."

Lee was the patriot who called for "free and independent states," a move that led to the Declaration of Independence.

IN DENMARK

Seize Firebombs at HHH Speech

REBILD BAKKER Denmark (UPI)—A young Dane armed with a molotov cocktail was arrested Friday while approaching the platform from which former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was addressing the annual Danish-American Independence Day Rally.

Five other homemade molotov cocktails were confiscated by police in the crowd of 10,000. Nine persons, including one woman, were arrested on charges of disturbing public order. Demonstrators also scattered nails on the highway leading here from Copenhagen. Humphrey's car got through, but three other cars were stopped by punctures.

Humphrey, who ignored demonstrators, was half way through his speech when a man, identified only as a 25-year-old Copenhagen resident, tried to approach the platform with the bottle in his hand. Police arrested him. The bottle dropped to the ground and caught fire but was quickly extinguished.

Ironically, Humphrey's

speech praised student demonstrations.

American students today are "more sensitive and concerned" than earlier generations, he said. "We must listen to what they are trying to say, even if we may sometimes disapprove of the way they say it... this is why I returned to the campus as a teacher."

Since leaving Washington, Humphrey has taught at Macalester college in Minnesota.

Humphrey, who will go to Russia later, was principal speaker at the Rebild rally, which has been held here annually for 57 years. Overcast skies held this year's crowd to less than one-third normal.

Five hundred policemen guarded Humphrey and patrolled the park as he spoke from the same rostrum Richard M. Nixon used in 1962.

As Humphrey spoke, members of Danish anti-war groups gathered before the U.S. embassy in Copenhagen to read the names of 33,000 American soldiers killed in Vietnam.

9 Revelers Booked at Berkeley

BERKELEY (AP)—Nine persons were arrested Friday as about 30 Berkeley policemen cleared an estimated 3,000 youthful revelers off Telegraph Avenue.

The youths, who were celebrating a Fourth of July festival, had taken over a three-block section of the avenue without permission, earlier in the afternoon.

The festival was originally assigned to local parking lots, which proved too small.

Fire hydrants were opened, drenching hundreds before police turned them off.

Helmets police forced the youths onto sidewalks. Previous efforts by young monitors to clear the streets failed.

Television Stolen

Burglars forced a kitchen window at Paul Liakos' home, 1837 Cedar Ave., and removed a TV set worth $425, Long Beach police said Friday.

NAACP Honors Rights Martyrs

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Negro leaders observed Independence Day here by honoring civil rights martyrs, touring slum areas and posting desegregation demands on the doors of state and federal offices.

"Today, July 4, 193 years after the Declaration of Independence was proclaimed, the black people of Mississippi are still not free," said the statement taped to the doors of two buildings in downtown Jackson.

The action came during the annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. State NAACP officials took part in the symbolic ceremonies while the convention proceeded with its business.

Mayor-elect Charles Evers of Fayette, the NAACP state field director and the first black mayor in Mississippi, mentioned the new school desegregation policy of the Nixon Administration, which has come under strong criticism at the convention on charges of softening requirements for school integration and trying to wreck the voting rights law.

"We've been knocked down before, Nixon" Evers said, "but we're coming back at you." He concluded: "Guidelines or no lines... we're going to win."

Generals Hitchhike to NATO Meeting

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Hitchhikers are common on Belgian roads but Spec 4 Joseph P. Holmes did a double-take when three men flagged him down last week. They were all four star generals.

One was retiring Supreme Allied Commander in Europe Lyman L. Lemnitzer. The others were Air Force Gen. Horace M. Wade, the chief of staff of the Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe, and Lemnitzer's deputy, British army Gen. Sir Robert M. Bray.

They were on their way to an important NATO meeting in Brussels when fog forced their helicopter to land at the side of a road. Holmes, of Orlando, Fla., was the first motorist to appear and the high-ranking hitchhikers flagged him down.

The generals piled into his small sedan and he took them to SHAPE headquarters at Casteaux. Holmes asked his passengers for a note to give his superiors at the NATO dispensary to which he is attached.

The generals did better. They posed with Holmes for a photograph.

The story was reported in the armed forces newspaper Stars and Stripes.

Hoist Old Glory Briskly, Lower It Ceremoniously; That's the Law

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — That American flag you fly ought to be hoisted briskly and lowered ceremoniously. It's the law.

Don't raise it before sunrise and please take it down before sundown. That's also the law. If it's raining, don't fly it — against the law.

Public law 623, adopted in 1942, contains other guidelines on flag etiquette. The sunrise, sunset and rain rules are part of this federal flag code.

THE FLAG should be clean and untattered. If you've replaced a worn and torn one with a flag, there's always the question of how to dispose of the old one. Don't make a duster out of it. That's against the law, too.

You're supposed to dispose of the flag in a dignified way, preferably burning it and burying the ashes.

When displayed the flag should always have stars to the left.

Other tips from the flag code:

- Don't drape it over hood, top, sides or back of a vehicle or boat. When displayed on a car the flagstaff should be fixed firmly to the chassis.
- No other flag or pennant should be placed above the American flag.
- The flag never should be displayed with the union (stars on blue field) down except as a signal of dire distress.

—The flag should not touch anything beneath it, ground, floor, water, merchandise, shrubs.

—The flag should never be used as a receptacle for receiving, holding, carrying or delivering anything.

—It should never be fastened, displayed, used or stored in such a manner as will permit it to be easily torn, soiled or damaged.

—The flag should not be used as any portion of a costume or athletic uniform.

—The flag should never be used for advertising

Satchmo Relaxes on 69th Birthday

By MARK SCHEINBAUM

NEW YORK (UPI) — Not since the Pied Piper has one horn player had so many followers.

To the children of 107th Street in the Corona section of Queens who gather with their parents and grandparents in the afternoon to listen to Louis Armstrong play, "Ambassador Satch" who was 69 years old Friday is a living god.

FOR THE neighborhood, when Louie's home (it's the first time he's been home for his Independence Day birthday) the two-story brick house becomes a temple for Satchmo worshippers.

His birthday this year

found Armstrong relaxing in a manner most of his fans would have thought impossible. As he put it: "I've never had a rest like this in my life."

SATCH, WHO got his name from Mississippi riverboat patrons in the early '20s who called him "satchelmouth" and "Dippermouth," was hospitalized earlier this year for a slight kidney infection. His wife of 29 years, the former Lucille Wilson, keeps a careful eye on Armstrong's diet and schedule, but refuses to admit she pampers the man some call the greatest trumpet player of all time.

The Association at Melodyland

Six gold records, six Grammy nominations, being named the nation's Number One pop group, unseating the Beatles for the first time in four years — these are just a few of the accomplishments on the record of the hit recording group, The Association.

Slated to appear in person at Melodyland Tuesday through July 13, the group can also boast SRO crowds at such classical music spas as the Chicago Opera House, Massachusetts' Tanglewood and Cleveland's Blossom Music Center, each of which chose The Association to star in the first rock concerts they had ever presented.

NUDITY IN FILMS IS OK WITH ACTRESS ANAJETTE COMER
'If Public Wants It, I say Yes; If Sex Is Commercial, Let's Do It'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — To some of today's film actresses, no nudes, is good news. Others seem to have no objection to shedding clothes on screen.

One thing is certain in a survey of today's film world: More and more female stars are being required to bare all. Nudity is already an issue on Broadway, and Actors Equity last month established firm rules for members.

AMONG THE Equity decrees: No nudity at open interviews for stage roles; no nudity until after the member has been auditioned as a performer; actors must be informed if "acts of a sexual nature" are included in the script; members cannot perform sex acts on stage.

So far the Screen Actors Guild has no rules. "There's nothing in our contract that covers nudity," Guild President Charlton Heston has remarked. He indicated that it would be a personal matter for individual performers.

How do actresses feel? I asked several who have been faced with nude scenes. Their reactions:

JACQUELINE BISSETT — "I hate it. Most other actresses love to take their clothes off, but I find it painfully embarrassing. I'm not being moralistic; I just find it terribly uncomfortable. When I first arrived here from England for 'The Sweet Ride,' I was told my first scene would show me nude in the ocean, then I was to be raped by 25 members of a motorcycle gang. I told my agent I was going back home. They cut the rape down to one person, but I still had to do the nude scene.

I was supposed to hold my arms over my chest, but it was all I could do to stand up as the cold waves hit me. Finally I was knocked down and I even lost the bottom part of my bikini. Oh, it was miserable!"

ANJANETTE COMER — "If the public wants it, I say yes, an actress should do a nude scene in a motion picture. That's exactly the situation I faced while filming 'Rabbit, Run.' My feeling was if it makes money for the people producing the film, it's good for me. If sex is commercial and we know it is, then I say let's do it."

ROSEMARY FORSYTH — "Basically I'm a very shy person, so doing a film scene in the nude is very nerve-racking. Nudity for nudity's sake is exploitation, and I would want no part of it. However, I would not object to a nude scene if it were an integral part of a picture, if it made a story point, and if it were filmed in an unobtrusive way. I detest vulgarity and crudity on or off the screen."

JOAN HACKETT — "Maybe it's because we're new at it — but for the most part, the nude scenes in American movies never give me a feeling that I'm glad to be a member of the human race. We're so heavy-handed and adolescent about it. . . . It seems to me that nudity should happen naturally on film. It's got to flow with the action. It should be graceful, erotic — even sweet, as in the nude scene in the stage production of 'Hair' . . . Actors should take a good look at the motivation for nudity on film, and then decide whether it's worth doing."

For her answer, Inger Stevens composed a poem, which she titled "NAKED AS A JAY!" Jane, Charlton, Catherine, too. Have all been asked Why they do. What they do. Me, too.

"For the sake of art, For heaven's sake. And, of course, reality. What other reason could there be?" Now we don't argue — Jay and me. Always thought 'twas beautiful being born naked and free. Artistic — see?"

Royal Ballet Provides Proof of Its Strengths

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

Celebrating the 20th anniversary of its first American tour, the Royal Ballet is holding forth in Shrine Auditorium this weekend with a varied repertory: novelties, revivals, and bread-and-butter ballets.

The good, if not unexpected, news for those of us lucky enough to be able to attend every one of the seven performances — the British troupe returns to Hollywood Bowl for an additional three, a fortnight hence — is that the company's many strengths are consistently maintained, its roster of soloists perpetuated almost without interruption.

THE PRESENT production of "Giselle," that most Romantic of Romantic ballets, is an example of those strengths in perpetuity: at its single showing Thursday this "Giselle" could boast nine of the eleven solo dancers who performed it during the company's last visit in 1967.

More important, the artistic standards and dramatic interplay of that last viewing remain, intact.

Thus, Margot Fonteyn's definitive dancing of the name-role — which, backstage gossip insists, will be her last Giselle before us — exerts its timeless charms of femininity, plastic grace, and dramatic fluency.

Rudolf Nureyev's Albrecht retains the subtleties of characterization, as well as the brilliance of elevation, we admired the first time he essayed the part here. Thursday, as always, his partnering of Fonteyn lived up to the legend that has surrounded this artistic coupling since its inception.

LED BY Deanne Bergsma as Myrthe and Deirdre

O'Conaire as Moyna, the balance of the cast often exceeds its own standard. Ann Jenner and Michael Coleman, who danced a superb peasant pas de deux in 1967, have added notable color and elegance to their scene. Only Leslie Edwards, repeating his two-dimensional Hilarion, is a disappointment. Christine Beckley is the new Zulme, fitting into the trio of Willi captains effortlessly.

John Lanchbery's tempos remain brisk but functional. Thursday, he seemed to be conducting for some remembered performance inside his mind; his usual spontaneity and rapport with his colleagues was missing. Alas, the perils of long tours in repertory. . . .

MOVIE GUIDE

As a guide to moviegoers, this newspaper on Wednesdays and Saturdays lists capsule contents of major motion pictures playing in Long Beach area. Most classifications represent the judgment of the Film Board of National Organizations.

ROMEO AND JULIET — Inspired performances by two youngsters as the lovers of Verona, spirited direction by Franco Zeffirelli and Oscar-winning cinematography of the original "West Side Story." (G)

IF IT'S TUESDAY THIS MUST BE BELGIUM — A lighthearted romp through Europe with a busload of American tourists. Stars Suzanne Pleshette, London, Amsterdam, the Rhine and Rome. (G)

THE SHOES OF THE FISHERMAN — Novelist Morris L. West's drama of a simple Russian priest who became the Pope and must deal with the problem of possible war by a famine-beset China. (G)

WHERE EAGLES DARE — Richard Burton and a team of adventurers parachute into World War II Germany to rescue a top Allied officer and to expose a Nazi spy network. (M)

THE SOUTHERN STAR — George Segal and Ursula Andress and Orson Welles, backed with bird and animal footage, in an African jungle adventure dealing with the theft of a huge diamond. (M)

OLIVER — Fagin's gang of young hoodlums star in this lavish musical that has won six Academy

THE LOVE BUG — Herbie, a Volkswagen, the "love bug" with a mind of its own, takes off on a winning streak for discouraged race car driver Dean Jones and mechanic Buddy Hackett. (G)

CHE! — Omar (Mr. Funny Girl) Shariff as Dr. Ernesto (Che) Guevara, and Jack Palance as Castro, fiddle around as Cuban revolutionaries in this semi-documentary. (M)

ICE STATION ZEBRA — A chiller. An American nuclear sub swishes through the silent Arctic seas with skipper Rock Hudson facing a Russian task force. (G)

MACKENNA'S GOLD — Only the town marshal, Gregory Peck, know the route to the "Valley of Gold," but he is captured by a bandit gang as the Apaches rampage. (M)

Satchmo Relaxes on 69th Birthday

By MARK SCHEINBAUM

NEW YORK (UPI) — Not since the Pied Piper has one horn player had so many followers.

To the children of 107th Street in the Corona section of Queens who gather with their parents and grandparents in the afternoon to listen to Louis Armstrong play, "Ambassador Satch" who was 69 years old Friday is a living god.

FOR THE neighborhood, when Louie's home (it's the first time he's been home for his Independence Day birthday) the two-story brick house becomes a temple for Satchmo worshippers.

His birthday this year

found Armstrong relaxing in a manner most of his fans would have thought impossible. As he put it: "I've never had a rest like this in my life."

SATCH, WHO got his name from Mississippi riverboat patrons in the early '20s who called him "satchelmouth" and "Dippermouth," was hospitalized earlier this year for a slight kidney infection. His wife of 29 years, the former Lucille Wilson, keeps a careful eye on Armstrong's diet and schedule, but refuses to admit she pampers the man some call the greatest trumpet player of all time.

The Association at Melodyland

Six gold records, six Grammy nominations, being named the nation's Number One pop group, unseating the Beatles for the first time in four years — these are just a few of the accomplishments on the record of the hit recording group, The Association.

Slated to appear in person at Melodyland Tuesday through July 13, the group can also boast SRO crowds at such classical music spas as the Chicago Opera House, Massachusetts' Tanglewood and Cleveland's Blossom Music Center, each of which chose The Association to star in the first rock concert they had ever presented.

NUDITY IN FILMS IS OK WITH ACTRESS ANAJETTE COMER
'If Public Wants It, I say Yes; If Sex Is Commercial, Let's Do It'
—AP Wirephoto

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — To some of today's film actresses, no nudes is good news. Others seem to have no objection to shedding clothes on screen.

One thing is certain in a survey of today's film world: More and more female stars are being required to bare all. Nudity is already an issue on Broadway, and Actors Equity last month established firm rules for members.

AMONG THE Equity decrees: No nudity at open interviews for stage roles; no nudity until after the member has been auditioned as a performer; actors must be informed if "acts of a sexual nature" are included in the script; members cannot perform sex acts on stage.

So far the Screen Actors Guild has no rules. "There's nothing in our contract that covers nudity," Guild President Charlton Heston has remarked. He indicated that it would be a personal matter for individual performers.

How do actresses feel? I asked several who have been faced with nude scenes. Their reactions:

JACQUELINE BISSETT — "I hate it. Most other actresses love to take their clothes off, but I find it painfully embarrassing. I'm not being moralistic; I just find it terribly uncomfortable. When I first arrived here from England for 'The Sweet Ride,' I was told my first scene would show me nude in the ocean, then I was to be raped by 25 members of a motorcycle gang. I told my agent I was going back home. They cut the rape down to one person, but I still had to do the nude scene.

I was supposed to hold my arms over my chest, but it was all I could do to stand up as the cold waves hit me. Finally I was knocked down and I even lost the bottom part of my bikini. Oh, it was miserable!"

ANJANETTE COMER — "If the public wants it, I say yes, an actress should do a nude scene in a motion picture. That's exactly the situation I faced while filming 'Rabbit, Run.' My feeling was if it makes money for the people producing the film, it's good for me. If sex is commercial and we know it is, then I say let's do it."

ROSEMARY FORSYTH — "Basically I'm a very shy person, so doing a film scene in the nude is very nerve-racking. Nudity for nudity's sake is exploitation, and I would want no part of it. However, I would not object to a nude scene if it were an integral part of a picture. If it made a story point, and if it were filmed in an unobtrusive way, I detest vulgarity and crudity on or off the screen."

JOAN HACKETT — "Maybe it's because we're new at it — but for the most part, the nude scenes in American movies never give me a feeling that I'm glad to be a member of the human race. We're so heavy-handed and adolescent about it . . . It seems to me that nudity should happen naturally on film. It's got to flow with the action. It should be graceful, erotic — even sweet, as in the nude scene in the stage production of 'Hair' . . . Actors should take a good look at the motivation for nudity on film, and then decide whether it's worth doing."

For her answer, Inger Stevens composed a poem, which she titled "NAKED AS A JAY!"
Jane, Charlton, Catherine, too.
Have all been asked
Why they do.
What they do.
Me, too.
"For the sake of art,
For heaven's sake.
And, of course, reality.
What other reason could there be?"
Now we don't argue —
Jay and me.
Always thought 'twas beautiful being born naked and free.
Artistic — see?

Royal Ballet Provides Proof of Its Strengths

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

Celebrating the 20th anniversary of its first American tour, the Royal Ballet is holding forth in Shrine Auditorium this weekend with a varied repertoire: novelties, revivals, and bread-and-butter ballets.

The good, if not unexpected, news for those of us lucky enough to be able to attend every one of the seven performances — the British troupe returns to Hollywood Bowl for an additional three, a fortnight hence — is that the company's many strengths are consistently maintained, its roster of soloists perpetuated almost without interruption.

THE PRESENT production of "Giselle," that most Romantic of Romantic ballets, is an example of those strengths in perpetuity: at its single showing Thursday this "Giselle" could boast nine of the eleven solo dancers who performed it during the company's last visit in 1967.

More important, the artistic standards and dramatic interplay of that last viewing remain, intact.

Thus, Margot Fonteyn's definitive dancing of the name-role — which, backstage gossip insists, will be her last Giselle before us — exerts its timeless charms of femininity, plastic grace, and dramatic fluency.

Rudolf Nureyev's Albrecht retains the subtleties of characterization, as well as the brilliance of elevation, we admired the first time he essayed the part here. Thursday, as always, his partnering of Fonteyn lived up to the legend that has surrounded this artistic coupling since its inception.

LED BY Deanne Bergsma as Myrle and Deirdre

O'Conaire as Moyna, the balance of the cast often exceeds its own standard. Ann Jenner and Michael Coleman, who danced a superb peasant pas de deux in 1967, have added notable éclat and elegance to their scene. Only Leslie Edwards, repeating his two-dimensional Hilarion, is a disappointment. Christine Beckley is the new Zolme, fitting into the trio of Willi captains effortlessly.

John Lanchbery's tempos remain brisk but functional. Thursday, he seemed to be conducting for some remembered performance inside his mind; his usual spontaneity and rapport with his colleagues was missing. Alas, the perils of long tours in repertoire. . .

MOVIE GUIDE

As a guide to moviegoers, this newspaper on Wednesdays and Saturdays lists capsule contents of major motion pictures playing in Long Beach area. Most classifications represent the judgment of the Film Board of National Organizations.

ROMEO AND JULIET — Inspired performances by two youngsters as the lovers of Verona, spirited direction by Franco Zeffirelli and Oscar-winning cinematography of the original "West Side Story." (G)

IF IT'S TUESDAY THIS MUST BE BELGIUM — A lighthearted romp through Europe with a busload of American tourists. Stars Suzanne Pleshette, London, Amsterdam, the Rhine and Rome. (G)

THE SHOES OF THE FISHERMAN — Novelist Morris L. West's drama of a simple Russian priest who became the Pope and must deal with the problem of possible war by a famine-beset China. (G)

WHERE EAGLES DARE — Richard Burton and a team of adventurers parachute into World War II Germany to rescue a top Allied officer and to expose a Nazi spy network. (M)

THE SOUTHERN STAR — George Segal and Ursula Andress and Orson Welles, backed with bird and animal footage, in an African jungle adventure dealing with the theft of a huge diamond. (M)

OLIVER — Fagin's gang of young hooligans star in this lavish musical that has won six Academy

THE LOVE BUG — Herbie, a Volkswagen, the "love bug" with a mind of its own, takes off on a winning streak for discouraged race car driver Dean Jones and mechanic Buddy Hackett. (G)

CHE! — Omar (Mr. Funny Girl) Sharif as Dr. Ernesto (Che) Guevara, and Jack Palance as Castro, fiddle around as Cuban revolutionaries in this semi-documentary. (M)

ICE STATION ZEBRA — A chiller. An American nuclear sub swishes through the silent Arctic seas with skipper Rock Hudson facing a Russian task force. (G)

MACKENNA'S GOLD — Only the town marshal, Gregory Peck, know the route to the "Valley of Gold," but he is captured by a bandit gang as the Apaches rampage. (M)

A Search for Identity

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

"Today's teen-agers can't identify with tradition while they're growing up, so they have to make it on their own," says 22-year-old novelist Robert Westbrook. "The world used to be saner. In World War II, for instance, issues were reasonably clear. There was a sense of tradition to help young people find their way," Westbrook adds. "The lack of tradition — lack of some past you can identify with — may be the main reason my generation is so neurotic."

Westbrook is in the Southland to talk about his first novel, "The Magic Garden of Stanley Sweetheart."

IT'S THE STORY of a young man's effort to break out of the fantasy cocoon he's spun around himself in order to escape an American society that is increasingly traditionless, ugly and meaningless to many of its young.

Westbrook's book — somewhat autobiographical, like most first novels — is receiving acclaim by literary critics and film rights have been purchased by producer Martin Poll.

"Magic Garden" is a book most members of the older generations won't approve of, but Westbrook strikes a responsive chord in his own generation.

"There's a basic fear that's almost universal in America today," he says. "People are scared politically, socially, in every way. They're frantic in searching for solutions."

Many teen-agers, faced with parents who try to force them into accepting their values — including an obsession with making money — retreat into a day-dream world.

"At 16, you do this ethereal thing, and say 'I am a poet.'"

"You don't want to look at the ugliness in the world. You don't want a 9-5 job. You want to stay a child poet forever," Westbrook says.

"The trouble is, your daydreams keep you away from intimacy with other people, something you desperately need."

In "Magic Garden," Stanley Sweetheart, a Columbia student and amateur film-maker, tries a variety of ways to make his childish fantasies come true — including drugs, sex and destroying his draft card.

"In his isolation, he believes sex will solve all his problems," Westbrook says. "But he's no Hugh Hefner. What he's really looking for is love, and he finds sex without love plastic and disgusting."

Stanley — and Westbrook — are apolitical, but they feel the tension most young people feel between "the hippie solution and the activist solution."

"But politics are too fleeting," Westbrook says. "I really can't get my whole mind into who gets control of People's Park in Berkeley. SDS and political activists are too much like a fraternity or any other group — you know, you have to be popular to really make it."

"PEOPLE GET INVOLVED in student politics because they feel safe within a certain ideological structure — there's more certainty when you know all the right catch-phrases."

"I'm closer to the hippie thing," Westbrook says. "It's a lonelier thing. It's a constant struggle to live without a viable political philosophy."

What kind of generation is coming after Westbrook's?

"I look at these 10-and-12-year-old kids and think, wow. They're going to have more problems than we have, and at an earlier age. I think there's going to be lots of wise old 20-year-olds . . . if they survive."

Residents, County Tangle Over Roads

Nine homeowner groups in the Orange-Villa Park area proposed a new highway into Irvine Park — and quickly ran into stubble County Road Commission County Road Commissioner Allen S. Koch.

They requested a new highway through Weir Canyon, flanking Irvine Park on the east, saying it would be better than improving local roads which go through cities and residential areas.

Koch said the Weir Canyon proposal "does not meet the requirements of a state highway, and no state funds can be obtained."

However, the county plans to open a road in Weir Canyon linking Santa Ana Canyon Road with the Santa Ana Freeway at Myford Road, by way of Irvine Park.

Koch said it is master-planned for the county's future arterial highway system.

The homeowners said local road improvements should be delayed indefinitely, for emphasis on the Weir Canyon project.

Koch replied a contract for $250,000 work on Newport Avenue in Lemon Heights has been let to provide a bypass from Crawford Canyon.

His department spent $50,000 on plans to straighten Chapman Avenue at El Modena Grade, and will spend an added $750,000 on the project. The county also plans to improve Santiago Boulevard through Villa Park — which for years was the only route to Irvine Park.

Also in planning stages are the widening of Villa Park Road and the extension of Lakeview Avenue through Peralta Hills into Villa Park. Demands of the homeowners' groups that the work on the local roads be deferred in favor of a Weir Canyon Road "cannot be seriously considered," Koch said.

Orange Co. OKs Library Pact

Trustees of the Orange County Law Library have signed to finance construction of an $830,000 building at the Civic Center providing the county will maintain it and supply utilities.

County supervisors accepted the pact and claimed it saved $400,000, the amount the county intended to contribute in 1972 for the construction.

Falling Bricks Kill Tot as Dad Climbs Up Wall

A 2-year-old girl was killed in a freak accident when bricks dislodged from a wall her father was climbing and struck her on the head, police reported Friday.

Barry Lodge, 28, watched in horror as his daughter Rhonda slumped to the ground when the bricks hit her at the rear of their home in Rowland Heights late Thursday.

Lodge's daughter was directly below the wall when the freak accident occurred.

POLICE COURSE AT CSLB

By BILL GAGNON
Staff Writer

California State College at Long Beach is expected to join a federal program to train servicemen as police officers.

The program, offered by the U.S. Office of Education under the Manpower and Training Act, is designed to help relieve the shortage of police manpower.

Soon-to-be-released servicemen will be offered training in facilities at the school of police science here.

Dr. John P. Kenney, professor of criminology at CSLB, said although he is unfamiliar with details of the program, he is sure CSLB will be involved in it "somewhere along the line."

The Office of Education has signed a contract for $100,000 with the International Association of Chiefs of Police Inc., to conduct the program.

The IACP will subcontract with police science institutions to train recruits and will set standards for screening applicants and placing trainees. Police recruits will receive 240 hours of instruction to develop judgement and police skills.

The program will be under "Project Transition," a Department of Defense program which trains unskilled servicemen to prepare them for civilian life.

A Search for Identity

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

"Today's teen-agers can't identify with tradition while they're growing up, so they have to make it on their own," says 22-year-old novelist Robert Westbrook.

"The world used to be safer. In World War II, for instance, issues were reasonably clear. There was a sense of tradition to help young people find their way," Westbrook adds.

"The lack of tradition — lack of some past you can identify with — may be the main reason my generation is so neurotic."

Westbrook is in the Southland to talk about his first novel, "The Magic Garden of Stanley Sweetheart."

IT'S THE STORY of a young man's effort to break out of the fantasy cocoon he's spun around himself in order to escape an American society that is increasingly traditionless, ugly and meaningless to many of its young.

Westbrook's book — somewhat autobiographical, like most first novels — is receiving acclaim by literary critics and film rights have been purchased by producer Martin Poll.

"Magic Garden" is a book most members of the

Residents, County Tangle Over Roads

Nine homeowner groups in the Orange-Villa Park area proposed a new highway into Irvine Park — and quickly ran into stubborn County Road Commission Allen S. Koch.

They requested a new highway through Weir Canyon, flanking Irvine Park on the east, saying it would be better than improving local roads which go through cities and residential areas.

Koch said the Weir Canyon proposal "does not meet the requirements of a state highway, and no state funds can be obtained."

However, the county plans to open a road in Weir Canyon linking Santa Ana Canyon Road with the Santa Ana Freeway at Myford Road, by way of Irvine Park.

Koch said it is master-planned for the county's future arterial highway system.

The homeowners said local road improvements should be delayed indefinitely, for emphasis on the Weir Canyon project.

Koch replied a contract for $250,000 work on Newport Avenue in Lemon Heights has been let to provide a bypass from Crawford Canyon.

His department spent $50,000 on plans to straighten Chapman Avenue at El Modena Grade, and will spend an added $750,000 on the project.

The county also plans to improve Santiago Boulevard through Villa Park — which for years was the only route to Irvine Park.

Also in planning stages are the widening of Villa Park Road and the extension of Lakeview Avenue through Peralta Hills into Villa Park.

Demands of the homeowners' groups that the work on the local roads be deferred in favor of a Weir Canyon Road "cannot be seriously considered," Koch said.

Orange Co. OKs Library Pact

Trustees of the Orange County Law Library have signed to finance construction of an $830,000 building at the Civic Center providing the county will maintain it and supply utilities.

County supervisors accepted the pact and claimed it saved $400,000, the amount the county intended to contribute in 1972 for the construction.

Falling Bricks Kill Tot as Dad Climbs Up Wall

A 2-year-old girl was killed in a freak accident when bricks dislodged from a wall her father was climbing and struck her on the head, police reported Friday.

Barry Lodge, 28, watched in horror as his daughter Rhonda slumped to the ground when the bricks hit her at the rear of their home in Rowland Heights late Thursday.

Lodge's daughter was directly below the wall when the freak accident occurred.

older generations won't approve of, but Westbrook strikes a responsive chord in his own generation.

"There's a basic fear that's almost universal in America today," he says. "People are scared politically, socially, in every way. They're frantic in searching for solutions."

Many teen-agers, faced with parents who try to force them into accepting their values — including an obsession with making money — retreat into a day-dream world.

"At 16, you do this ethereal thing, and say 'I am a poet.'"

"You don't want to look at the ugliness in the world. You don't want a 9-5 job. You want to stay a child poet forever," Westbrook says.

"The trouble is, your daydreams keep you away from intimacy with other people, something you desperately need."

In "Magic Garden," Stanley Sweetheart, a Columbia student and amateur film-maker, tries a variety of ways to make his childish fantasies come true — including drugs, sex and destroying his draft card.

"In his isolation, he believes sex will solve all his problems," Westbrook says. "But he's no Hugh Hefner. What he's really looking for is love, and he finds sex without love plastic and disgusting."

Stanley — and Westbrook — are apolitical, but they feel the tension most young people feel between "the hippie solution and the activist solution."

"But politics are too fleeting," Westbrook says. "I really can't get my whole mind into who gets control of People's Park in Berkeley. SDS and political activists are too much like a fraternity or any other group — you know, you have to be popular to really make it."

"PEOPLE GET INVOLVED in student politics because they feel safe within a certain ideological structure — there's more certainty when you know all the right catch-phrases."

"I'm closer to the hippie thing," Westbrook says. "It's a lonelier thing. It's a constant struggle to live without a viable political philosophy."

What kind of generation is coming after Westbrook's?

"I look at these 10-and-12-year-old kids and think, wow. They're going to have more problems than we have, and at an earlier age. I think there're going to be lots of wise old 20-year-olds . . . if they survive."

POLICE COURSE AT CSLB

By BILL GAGNON
Staff Writer

California State College at Long Beach is expected to join a federal program to train servicemen as police officers.

The program, offered by the U.S. Office of Education under the Manpower and Training Act, is designed to help relieve the shortage of police manpower.

Soon-to-be-released servicemen will be offered training in facilities at the school of police science here.

Dr. John P. Kenney, professor of criminology at CSLB, said although he is unfamiliar with details of the program, he is sure CSLB will be involved in it "somewhere along the line."

The Office of Education has signed a contract for $100,000 with the International Association of Chiefs of Police Inc., to conduct the program.

The IACP will subcontract with police science institutions to train recruits and will set standards for screening applicants and placing trainees.

Police recruits will receive 240 hours of instruction to develop judgement and police skills.

The program will be under "Project Transition", a Department of Defense program which trains unskilled servicemen to prepare them for civilian life.

Lawrence Welk Still Going Strong

By TERRY VERNON
For Vacationing George
Eres

When Lawrence Welk launched his former KTLA show on the ABC network, back in 1955, several critics conceded him little chance of surviving more than two weeks — much less the normal 13-week cycle allotted to new shows.

"Who in the world wants to watch or listen to a dance band show?" This was the consensus, and a logical one since the popularity of dance bands had then reached a very low ebb.

As time passed, reviewers, unable to account for the success, consoled themselves with a comment which became widely quoted: "Nobody like Welk but the public."

RECALLING this, fourteen years later, Welk puts it this way: "We were, and in fact still are, more than happy to accept that appraisal.

"We feel very strongly about being liked by the public, and we work at maintaining that close, friendly relationship with our audience. We make it a point to know just what kind of entertainment the viewers prefer.

"In order to do this we read and analyze our fan mail, cataloging the likes and dislikes, comments and criticisms of over a quarter of a million fans.

"We try to keep the personal touch and maintain close contact with our audience by making at least two personal appearance tours a year with our entire musical family.

"We find the great Midwest, the heartland of America, to be an excellent barometer of the country's tastes in music and entertainment. Consequently, many of our trips are to this area.

"We do not neglect other parts of the nation, however. This summer we shall cover a good part of the Pacific Northwest, the South, Southwest and the East.

"We have frequently noted that the entertainer who fails to keep a sensitive finger on the pulse of the public finds himself out in the cold.

"So now we start our fifteenth year.

"And to you wonderful folks who have watched us, and yes, occasionally chided us — to you good people who are the real reason for our existence, our heart-felt gratitude.

BUFFY Sainte-Marie, a full-blooded Cree Indian who is one of Johnny Cash's guests on his 9:30 p.m. (7) hour today, once would have preferred appearing as a blonde.

The copper-skinned singer says, "I spent nearly all four years in high school trying to become a blonde. I streaked my hair. I frosted it.

"I tried everything to change the color, but the texture of an Indian's hair doesn't take to tints or peroxide."

Lo, the poor Indian.

But after Buffy was graduated — still black-haired — her foster parents gave her the choice of attending college or having her nose bobbed.

She chose college, and soon learned to be what

God intended her to be — certainly not a blonde with a turned-up nose.

Born in Saskatchewan, Miss Sainte-Marie was adopted when a baby by a part Micmac Indian couple.

She grew up in Massachusetts, studied at Smith, Mount Holyoke and Amherst colleges.

Lawrence Welk
Still Going StrongBy TERRY VERNON
For Vacationing George Eres

When Lawrence Welk launched his former KTLA show on the ABC network, back in 1955, several critics conceded him little chance of surviving more than two weeks — much less the normal 13-week cycle allotted to new shows.

"Who in the world wants to watch or listen to a dance band show?"

This was the consensus, and a logical one since the popularity of dance bands had then reached a very low ebb.

As time passed, reviewers, unable to account for the success, consoled themselves with a comment which became widely quoted: "Nobody like Welk but the public."

RECALLING this, fourteen years later, Welk puts it this way: "We were, and in fact still are, more than happy to accept that appraisal.

"We feel very strongly about being liked by the public, and we work at maintaining that close, friendly relationship with our audience. We make it a point to know just what kind of entertainment the viewers prefer.

"In order to do this we read and analyze our fan mail, cataloging the likes and dislikes, comments and criticisms of over a quarter of a million fans.

"We try to keep the personal touch and maintain close contact with our audience by making at least two personal appearance tours a year with our entire musical family.

"We find the great Midwest, the heartland of America, to be an excellent barometer of the country's tastes in music and entertainment. Conse-

Lo, the poor Indian.

But after Buffy was graduated — still black-haired — her foster parents gave her the choice of attending college or having her nose bobbed.

She chose college, and soon learned to be what

Parades, pageantry, pyrotechnics, picnics and paddleboards shared the Fourth of July sun and spotlights, with Old Glory waving everywhere on the nation's most patriotic holiday. Southland samples include the Ft. MacArthur Color Guard (left), heading the Independence Day parade at Huntington Beach; high-kicking parade performers prancing to the bebop blasts of a bouncy band (right), and dine-in-the-park celebrants (below) who ate their way through the big day. Also, of course, the beaches and waterways, busy with boats and paddle-your-own craft, surf-dipping mothers with tiny tots and, as at the edge of Alamitos Bay, slightly-clad masses of humanity almost outnumbering the grains of sand they walked, played, posed, lounged or sat on.

Order of Big Day: Celebrate!

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

"It's just another Fourth of July," the policeman said as he stood on the Ocean Boulevard parkway watching cars prowling the crowded beach lot for parking space.

But to thousands of Long Beach-area residents—treated to sunshine, sea breezes, parades and fireworks displays—Independence Day wasn't quite "like any Sunday."

In Long Beach, thousands watched fireworks displays Friday night at Veterans Stadium and on the beachfront near the Long Beach Arena.

Country-western singer Molly

Dee headed a list of performers in the Veterans Stadium show emceed by Jerry Van Dyke.

In Huntington Beach's 65th Annual Fourth of July Parade, Long Beach horsemen took three of more than 40 awards.

The Long Beach Mounted Police unit was named top riding group, while Ward Thurston and Bud McKnight, both of Long Beach, earned first and second honors in the silver mounted division.

The float of the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Society edged the entry of the John Birch Society in the general nontheme float division.

A FIREWORKS DISPLAY at the Huntington Beach Municipal Pier concluded the day's celebration.

In Seal Beach, the Naval Weapons Station held open house, inviting area residents—plus casual Pacific Coast Highway travelers—to view a display of Navy ordnance, a Marine Corps combat helicopter and a minesweeper, the USS Illusive.

The event, which drew more than 3,500 persons in 1968, exceeded that figure this year, Navy officials said.

During open house, visitors gaped as a civilian helicopter cruised overhead towing a balloon shaped in the form—and with easily distinguishable markings—of a popular brand of beer.

Southland residents also viewed fireworks displays and programs at Knott's Berry Farm, Anaheim Stadium, Disneyland and in Carson, Cypress and Downey.

Sunny weather kept many Long Beach residents in town, where they took advantage of the city's recreation areas—in their own particular styles.

The green at Recreation Park was jammed with picnickers, while boat-racing fans filled parking lots at the Long Beach Marine Stadium for the 20th Annual All-Inboard Sweepstakes.

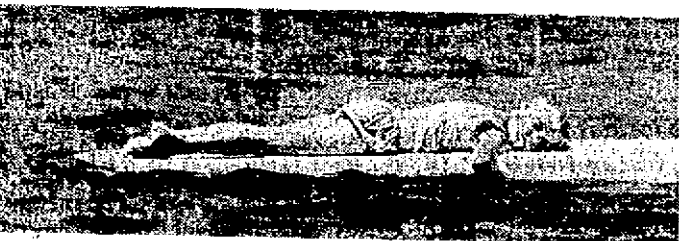

A CASUAL ATMOSPHERE prevailed along the beaches of Belmont Shore and at Alamitos Bay, despite crowds of young, lanned sun-bathers.

A few residents of the Belmont peninsula appeared not to be enjoying themselves as they sat watching bathers from their porches.

One woman with a lifeguard's tan had a painted sign on her front window: "SLOB—Stop Littering Our Beaches."

But at the beaches near Belmont Pier and along the city's shoreline, celebrants worried only about enjoying their holiday.

Happy families set up tents and umbrellas that sheltered food, ice-creams and children throughout the day.

City Building Permits Total $69,088,998 for Half Year

Construction valuation in Long Beach for the first six months of 1969 was more than $6 million greater than for the entire year of 1968, according to Building Superintendent Edward M. O'Connor.

Valuation of permits issued through the end of June this year was $69,088,998, O'Connor said.

"During the 12 months of 1968, permits issued totaled only $62,903,887.

If construction for the balance of the year continues at anywhere near an average pace, the total seems certain to break the record of $96.2 million set in 1963, O'Connor pointed out.

The Building Department issued 1,904 building, electrical and plumbing permits in June, valued at $7,481,192.

New construction accounted for $4,934,505, while alterations and repairs totaled $1,284,065. Plumbing permits were valued at $789,356, and electrical permits totaled $513,266.

The June permits included 188 new dwelling units valued at $2,013,830. This involved 16 single-family dwellings totaling $502,580, four duplexes valued at $110,000, and 16 apartment buildings containing 164 units and valued at $1,401,250.

Permits also were issued for three industrial buildings, with a total value of $1,261,700; a $300,000 hospital facility; three office buildings valued at $147,000, and five stores totaling $487,900.

'Airport Ditch' to be Replaced by $45,000 Cement Storm Drain

Plans for construction of a storm drain, to replace the old "airport ditch" west of Lakewood Boulevard, have been approved by the City Council.

The city manager's office was authorized to advertise for bids on the project, to cost an estimated $45,000.

Aero Commuter, a Long Beach Airport lessee whose property adjoins the existing ditch, will contribute $21,000 of the cost.

The work will consist of installing approximately 1,000 feet of reinforced concrete pipe to replace the ditch, north from Donald Douglas Drive.

Accident Victim Trapped, Dies in Flaming Truck

A twenty-two-year-old Hawaiian Gardens man was trapped and died in the wreckage of his burning pickup truck Friday.

Robert A. Dennis, of 20826 Elaine Ave., was the third to die in Long Beach area holiday traffic accidents.

Police said Dennis was killed about 5:30 a.m. when his truck collided with a car driven by Harley Dahnke, of 4131 Decoy St., Lakewood, at Paramount Boulevard and Cover Street, near the sprawling Douglas Aircraft Company plant. Dahnke was not injured.

Two others died earlier as the holiday weekend got underway. A 13-year-old bicycle rider was killed in Downey, and a 2-year-old boy was struck by a car in Santa Ana.

Firemen Rescue Two After Plunges Down Steep Cliffs

A Mar Vista man and a Los Angeles woman who plunged down steep cliffs in separate accidents were rescued by daredevil firemen dangling from ropes and ladders Friday.

George Albert Henry, 31, was reported in critical condition in Harbor General Hospital after he dropped down a cliff in the 2100 block of Paseo del Mar on the Palos Verdes Peninsula about 3:10 p.m.

The woman, Barbara Jean Jones, 29, was in fair condition in the same hospital after she spent more than two hours on rocks at the foot of Lookout Point in San Pedro, after her fall.

Henry, found on a rock-encircled slope near Rocky Point, was lowered to the bottom of the cliff by Capt. Richard Wendt and Fireman Tom Cook of the Palos Verdes Fire Department.

Rescuers lowered themselves to Henry, then used ropes to drop him to the rocky floor below from where a Coast Guard helicopter flew him to the hospital.

Capt. Wendt said Henry

probably would have been killed if the 70-foot slope hadn't broken his fall.

Mrs. Jones, who plunged 150 feet off Lookout Point about 2:30 a.m., was spotted two hours later by Fireman James

Fisherman Drowns in L.B. Marina

A 23-year-old Los Angeles man drowned in the Long Beach Marina Friday after apparently falling from a pier while fishing.

The body of John McElmore was found floating in the marina by lifeguards patrolling Alamitos Bay in a boat.

McElmore was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital shortly after 4 p.m., police said.

Officers said he had been in the water only a short time. No one saw him fall, they said.

Police said the incident still is under investigation.

Leake, who had carried floodlights down an aerial ladder from a fire truck.

Police said the woman, her sister and four others had driven to San Pedro for an early Fourth of July outing at Cabrillo Beach.

They parked at Lookout Point and the woman apparently was searching for a path down to the beach when she tumbled down the cliff in the dark.

One of her friends reported hearing a woman's scream shortly after their arrival. It was first believed Mrs. Jones had been kidnapped or thrown from the cliff.

Police searched the area fruitlessly for two hours before calling the fire department.

The Defense Department Friday listed Army 1st Lt. Alan M. Horn, husband of Mrs. Sharon R. Horn, 4255 N. Josie Ave., Lakewood, in its latest tally of U.S. servicemen killed in action in Vietnam.

Parades, pageantry, pyrotechnics, picnics and paddleboards shared the Fourth of July sun and spotlights, with Old Glory waving everywhere on the nation's most patriotic holiday. Southland samples include the Ft. In Huntington Beach's 65th Annual Fourth of July Parade, Long Beach horsemen took three of more than 40 awards.

The Long Beach Mounted Police unit was named top riding group, while Ward Thurston and Bud McKnight, both of Long Beach, earned first and second honors in the silver mounted division.

The float of the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Society edged the entry of the John Birch Society in the general nontheme float division.

A FIREWORKS DISPLAY at the Huntington Beach Municipal Pier concluded the day's celebration.

In Seal Beach, the Naval Weapons Station held open house, inviting area residents—plus casual Pacific Coast Highway travelers—to view a display of Navy ordnance, a Marine Corps combat helicopter and a minesweeper, the USS Illusive.

The event, which drew more than 3,500 persons in 1968, exceeded that figure this year, Navy officials said.

During open house, visitors gaped as a civilian helicopter cruised overhead towing a balloon shaped in the form—and with easily distinguishable markings—of a popular brand of beer.

Southland residents also viewed fireworks displays and programs at Knott's Berry Farm, Anaheim Stadium, Disneyland and in Carson, Cypress and Downey.

Sunny weather kept many Long Beach residents in town, where they took advantage of the city's recreation areas—in their own particular styles.

The green at Recreation Park was jammed with picnickers, while boat-racing fans filled parking lots at the Long Beach Marine Stadium for the 20th Annual All-Inboard Sweepstakes.

A CASUAL ATMOSPHERE prevailed along the beaches of Belmont Shore and at Alamitos Bay, despite crowds of young, tanned sun-bathers.

A few residents of the Belmont peninsula appeared not to be enjoying themselves as they sat watching bathers from their porches.

One woman with a lifeguard's tan had a painted sign on her front window: "SLOB—Stop Littering Our Beaches."

But at the beaches near Belmont Pier and along the city's shoreline, celebrants worried only about enjoying their holiday.

Happy families set up tents and umbrellas that sheltered food, ice-chests and children throughout the day.

City Building Permits Total $69,088,998 for Half Year

Construction valuation in Long Beach for the first six months of 1969 was more than $6 million greater than for the entire year of 1968, according to Building Superintendent Edward M. O'Connor.

Valuation of permits issued through the end of June this year was $69,088,998, O'Connor said.

I, P-T Ad Sells TV in a Flash

"I never believed classified ads could get such results. My phone was ringing off the hook. I sold my color TV for the asking price," said Gary Thompson, 2185 E. 21st St., Long Beach.

Selling a television set, radio or stereo can be easy with an ad in Independent Press-Telegram classified pages. Call our HOT LINES today. In Long Beach, JE 2-5950; Lakewood, ME 3-0764; Bellflower, TO 6-1721; Orange County, JE 7-7441.

taled only $62,903,887.

If construction for the balance of the year continues at anywhere near an average pace, the total seems certain to break the record of $96.2 million set in 1963, O'Connor pointed out.

The Building Department issued 1,904 building, electrical and plumbing permits in June, valued at $7,481,192.

New construction accounted for $4,934,505, while alterations and repairs totaled $1,264,065. Plumbing permits were valued at $769,356, and electrical permits totaled $513,266.

The June permits included 188 new dwelling units valued at $2,013,830. This involved 16 single-family dwellings totaling $302,580, four duplexes valued at $110,000, and 16 apartment buildings containing 164 units and valued at $1,401,250.

Permits also were issued for three industrial buildings, with a total value of $1,261,700; a $300,000 hospital facility; three office buildings valued at $147,000, and five stores totaling $487,900.

'Airport Ditch' to be Replaced by $45,000 Cement Storm Drain

Plans for construction of a storm drain, to replace the old "airport ditch" west of Lakewood Boulevard, have been approved by the City Council.

The city manager's office was authorized to advertise for bids on the project, to cost an estimated $45,000.

Acro Commuter, a Long Beach Airport lessee whose property adjoins the existing ditch, will contribute $21,600 of the cost.

The work will consist of installing approximately 1,000 feet of reinforced concrete pipe to replace the ditch, north from Donald Douglas Drive.

Accident Victim Trapped, Dies in Flaming Truck

A twenty-two-year-old Hawaiian Gardens man was trapped and died in the wreckage of his burning pickup truck Friday.

Robert A. Dennis, of 20826 Elaine Ave., was the third to die in Long Beach area holiday traffic accidents.

Police said Dennis was killed about 5:30 a.m. when his truck collided with a car driven by Harley Dahnke, of 4131 Deebay St., Lakewood, at Paramount Boulevard and Cover Street, near the sprawling Douglas Aircraft Company plant. Dahnke was not injured.

Two others died earlier as the holiday weekend got underway. A 13-year-old bicycle rider was killed in Downey, and a 2-year-old boy was struck by a car in Santa Ana.

Firemen Rescue Two After Plunges Down Steep Cliffs

A Mar Vista man and a Los Angeles woman who plunged down steep cliffs in separate accidents were rescued by daredevil firemen dangling from ropes and ladders Friday.

George Albert Henry, 31, was reported in critical condition in Harbor General Hospital after he dropped down a cliff in the 2100 block of Paseo del Mar on the Palos Verdes Peninsula about 3:10 p.m.

The woman, Barbara Jean Jones, 29, was in fair condition in the same hospital after she spent more than two hours on rocks at the foot of Lookout Point in San Pedro, after her fall.

Henry, found on a rock-encircled slope near Rocky Point, was lowered to the bottom of the cliff by Capt. Richard Wendt and Fireman Tom Cook of the Palos Verdes Fire Department.

Rescuers lowered themselves to Henry, then used ropes to drop him to the rocky floor below from where a Coast Guard helicopter flew him to the hospital.

Capt. Wendt said Henry

probably would have been killed if the 70-foot slope hadn't broken his fall.

Mrs. Jones, who plunged 150 feet off Lookout Point about 2:30 a.m., was spotted two hours later by Fireman James

Fisherman Drowns in L.B. Marina

A 23-year-old Los Angeles man drowned in the Long Beach Marina Friday after apparently falling from a pier while fishing.

The body of John McElmore was found floating in the marina by lifeguards patrolling Alamitos Bay in a boat.

McElmore was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital shortly after 4 p.m., police said.

Officers said he had been in the water only a short time. No one saw him fall, they said.

Police said the incident still is under investigation.

Leake, who had carried floodlights down an aerial ladder from a fire truck.

Police said the woman, her sister and four others had driven to San Pedro for an early Fourth of July outing at Cabrillo Beach.

They parked at Lookout Point and the woman apparently was searching for a path down to the beach when she tumbled down the cliff in the dark.

One of her friends reported hearing a woman's scream shortly after their arrival. It was first believed Mrs. Jones had been kidnapped or thrown from the cliff.

Police searched the area fruitlessly for two hours before calling the fire department.

The Defense Department Friday listed Army 1st Lt. Alan M. Horn, husband of Mrs. Sharon R. Horn, 4255 N. Josie Ave., Lakewood, in its latest tally of U.S. servicemen killed in action in Vietnam.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Your path through the year ahead is full of responsibility and adjustments, as you literally pick your way through toward the life situations you want. Bridges catch fire as you come to them rather than being there for you to burn behind you. Your friends are good at figuring out, but finding or selling, but seldom for very long.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your self-discipline improves your chances of winning it with the people you care about. Stay clear of those who test your patience.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Do what is expected of you this morning, then make a getaway from all vacation of the rest of the day. Put your energy in an exercise review what you have done in the past six months.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): This day you can probably do much as you please -- except there's very little to do. Nobody is ready to cooperate.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): You are quite visible to your community today -- so take your share of the community's expression of faith and customs gracefully. The new acquaintances.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 20): This is an odd day in which nothing develops as quickly as you like. You are urged to meditate. Relationships thin out a bit. Short journeys are better postponed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your personal homefront needs all your attention today, but not strict supervision. Relax through the day. Make tentative plans for the week.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): This is a placid day. Color to the whims of a long time, very congenial associate. Pull over the coming week and let activity; put yourself into proper perspective.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Settle back and let everybody else speak out. Listen carefully and learn many subtle things that will come in handy later.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Nothing goes according to plan. The tendency is to take action on half the story. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The morning is tense, but the later hours are easier. Abandon any set quota of things to do, go on an unburied course. Reading and serious study can be very productive.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The less complex your course today the better. Take care of your obligations without fuss. Then some time. Romantic ideas are better put off.

FOR HANDICAPPED CHILDREN Swimming Class Planned

Eight Los Angeles city lifeguards will teach swimming this summer, as nonpaid volunteers, at the Harlan Shoemaker School for handicapped children, 424 Weymouth Ave., San Pedro.

The school is one of 15 in the Los Angeles City Schools system where attendance is restricted to the handicapped. Its 225 pupils aged 3 to 18 years are crippled by polio, cerebral palsy, diabetes or other diseases.

The lifeguards will teach from 9 a.m. to noon Thursdays and Fridays, assisting Sid Hallburn, the school's swimming instructor. Only regularly-enrolled handicapped children may use the 20-by-40-foot pool, which has hydraulic lifts and 90-degree water.

Lifeguard Lt. Eddie Hoffman heads the volunteers assigned to Cabrillo Beach at San Pedro.

PLAN FLOOD CHANNEL REPAIRS

From Our L.A. Bureau
A $175,000 patchup job is on the way for damaged sections of the Los Angeles River channel and Los Cerritos drain in the Long Beach area. County supervisors have approved plans and specifications and fixed July 25 to open bids.

The river channel will need repairs from its junction with Compton Creek for a distance of about 900 feet heading south. In the drain, the contractor will replace an old channel wall in Heartwell Park damaged for about 630 feet by fire.

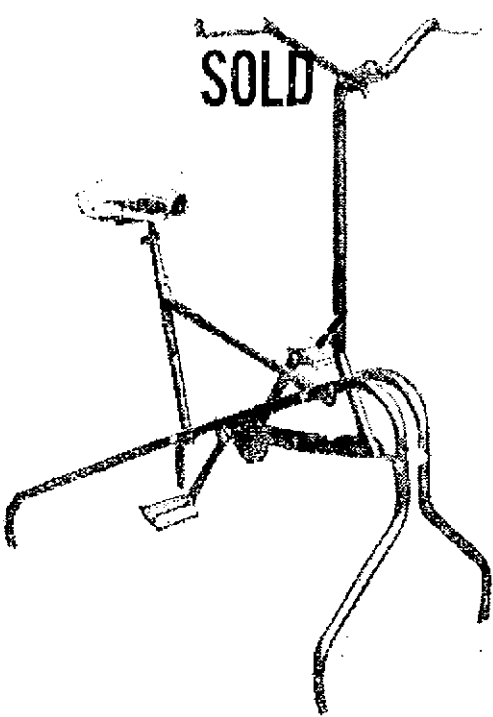

Target date for completion of both jobs is Oct. 15.

Water Dept. Says 'No'

The Long Beach Water Department is a citywide operation, and could not affiliate with one neighborhood business association without joining them all, according to the Water Commission.

Commissioners declined an invitation to join Downtown Long Beach Associates.

Commissioner Robert McNulty pointed out the DLBA is organized to promote the downtown area, and similar association exist in other parts of the city.

Dissent vs. Christianity

"Taunts of being an 'Uncle Tom' or a tool of the ruling class should not deter us from proclaiming an aspect of the Christian message that is basic to all else Jesus taught," states Dr. John L. Davis, president of Chapman College in Orange, in a recently published essay, "Some Christian Aspects of Dissent."

Citing nonviolence and "love your enemies" as basic aspects of the Christian message which are "not in vogue today in... militant church circles," the veteran educator writes: "... it is precisely at such a time when one needs to proclaim them (since) each generation (tends) to lift out of the Gospel those elements that are especially germane to its own problems and to forget the rest."

The essay, published by the college in a series titled "This We Believe," was originally presented by Dr. Davis as a Senior Chapel sermon in May.

Dr. Davis is sharply critical of the consultation on racism of the World Council of Churches which, he states, recently "proposed that violence should receive church support 'if it is the last way to overthrow political and economic tyranny.'"

He writes:

"This illustrates, I think, the confusion which exists in thinking about the respective roles of church and state, of Christianity and dissent. Who is to decide just what 'political and economic tyranny' is to receive the church's violent opposition?"

And what horrors of human callousness will be blessed in the name of Jesus if we cover political expediency with a false religious and spiritual concept which omits love?"

The essay stresses that

Assembly President Retires

Following the ceremony of closing the 78th Assembly of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) of Southern California and Southern Nevada at Chapman College in Orange, June 28, the retiring president, Dr. Enoch Henry of Los Angeles presented the gavel to Mrs. H. G. Wilkes of North Hollywood, the newly elected moderator of the Regional Assembly of the Christian Church.

This change in official titles and terminology came about when the assembly unanimously voted for the new provisional bylaws in order to coordinate with the bylaws and terminology of the International General Assembly of the restructured Disciple denomination.

Also elected with Mrs. Wilkes were first vice-moderator Dr. Wesley P. Ford of Pasadena and second vice-moderator Rev. Karl W. Tuttle of Santa Barbara.

Other Assembly concerns involved the unanimous approval of Resolution No. 1 which called for the Congressional delegations of Southern California and Southern Nevada and the U.S. Senators from the two states to seek passage of federal farm labor legislation that would define procedures and regulations under which farm workers could select organized representation if they so desired.

One of the features of the Assembly were four forums conducted for discussion and debate, out of which will come resolutions for the Regional Church to consider in the future. The forums were on "Disciples' Views in Church Union," "Should Ministers Change?" "Is Social Action First?" and "Area Church and Local Survival."

dissent is basic to Christianity, pointing out that "Christianity itself... represented dissent from the Judaism of the time" but contrasts violent and nonviolent forms of dissent.

Dr. Davis asks, "Which... would have greater effect on (police dealing with militants) — vituperation, obscene language, and hurled missiles and filth — or followers of Christ who endure all and bless their attackers?"

He adds, "How striking is the contrast between civil rights marchers enduring insults, threats, and jail sentences and Columbia University students masking their faces and hiding from photographers, even as they laid siege in buildings and halted the education of their classmates."

Dr. Davis, who received his Ph.D. at the University of Cincinnati, has been president of Chapman College since 1957 and is a former executive secretary of the Board of Higher Education of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

'Unbeliever' Sees Closed Society

THE STRUGGLE OF THE UNBELIEVER. By James J. Kavanaugh. Trident, $7.95.

James J. Kavanaugh is the Father Kavanaugh who wrote "A Modern Priest Looks at His Outdated Church," and who, after its publication, left that church and married. "The Struggle of the Unbeliever" was written when Kavanaugh was a candidate for his doctoral degree at Catholic University.

"If a community cannot tolerate outbursts and opposition, even of a dramatic kind, then it is not a community," he writes, "only a closed society."

This then, is the modern apologetic problem: to say something for the unbeliever.

The author selects Cardinal Newman of England, Max Scheler of Germany, and Maurice Blondel of France as among the most thoughtful spokesmen for the unbelievers, and summarizes the problems they faced and the answers they found.

These were men, who like Dr. Kavanaugh himself, saw no relevance to the unbeliever in the traditional arguments for belief; to them faith was a personal search for a real God, not belief in moral principles apart from man.

Jehovah's Witnesses to Meet

Russell J. Dixon, circuit supervisor of Jehovah's witnesses in Long Beach, has been selected to direct an hour-long presentation during the "Peace on Earth" International Convention being held at Dodger Stadium July 11 to 20.

The demonstration, entitled "Rights or Duties — Which?" will be shown to an expected audience of over 60,000 persons during the Thursday afternoon session of the seven-day Bible conference.

Dixon entered the ministry in 1949 and has traveled extensively for the past 11 years as a representative of the Watchtower Society. His wife, Nancy, travels with him. In his present assignment as circuit minister he has oversight of 18 congregations in the Long Beach, Bellflower, Compton and Lynwood areas.

In addition to appearing on the assembly program, Dixon has been appointed to the administrative staff as an assistant supervisor of the cafeteria department. Among the staff's duties is the planning of menus, purchasing food supplies and overseeing the 1,500 volunteers who will prepare, cook and serve the tasty well-balanced meals to the 60,000 attending delegates.

$10,000 Installment Given for Community Building

A $10,000 check, first installment of a $110,000 contribution for a community building at Rancho Los Alamitos, has been presented to the city by the Assistance League of Long Beach.

Mrs. Courtland S. Prowell Jr., president of the league; Mrs. Harry Fulton, immediate past president, and Mrs. David Eagleson, president-nominee.

The $10,000 was presented at this time so it can be used to pay for architectural plans for the proposed community building. The City Council is scheduled to award an architectural contract on Tuesday.

The remaining $100,000 of the Assistance League's gift will be delivered to the city at the time the contract is awarded for construction of the building.

The Assistance League offered to give the city $110,000 toward construction of the community building, in exchange for a lease to operate the facility. Any profits from such operation will be used in the league's philanthropic work with girls in local schools.

Fewer Priests Seek Marriage

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A Vatican press spokesman said today the number of priests seeking Vatican dispensation to marry is decreasing despite various reports of a widespread revolt against the church's celibacy rule.

The spokesman, Msgr. Fausto Vallain, was commenting on reports from Vatican sources that a survey recently completed by the Holy See shows more than 7,000 men have asked Vatican dispensation to marry in the past five years and figures this year may be the highest in history.

Vallain said the figures were "substantially correct," but many of those seeking dispensation are men who left the priesthood many years ago without dispensation and are now seeking "to regularize their position with the church."

The number of men still active in the priesthood seeking dispensation is actually tending to decrease, he said, although he gave no figures.

Vallain did not say whether the number of men leaving the ministry to marry is up or down.

But it is known that many priests leave the ministry to marry without seeking dispensation.

Vatican sources said the survey on the question was ordered by Pope Paul VI and completed March 20 — two weeks before the Pope said in a Holy Week sermon that rebellious priests were "crucifying" the church.

The sources said the survey showed 7,370 priests asked Vatican dispensation to marry between 1963 and 1968, with the Vatican granting dispensation to 5,652. The requests came from 3,563 secular priests and 3,807 priests who are members of religious orders, the sources said.

In the period Jan. 1 to March 20 of this year, 675 secular priests have asked dispensation to marry, an all-time high for such a period, the sources said. If this rate continues throughout the year at least 3,000 secular priests alone will have asked dispensation in 1969, they added.

No figures were available on the number of requests made this year by priests belonging to religious orders.

THE SOUND GENERATION

Choral group from John Brown University will appear at 8 tonight at the Commissioned Officers Open Mess at the Long Beach Navy Station. A second weekend performance is set for 7 p.m. Sunday at First Brethren Church, 3601 Linden Ave., Long Beach. Programs during the week are planned Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at Knott's Berry Farm, and Thursday noon before Long Beach Optimists.

Revolutionary Experiment in Interfaith Worship Is Under Way in Maryland

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

In Columbia, Md., the new city which is rising midway between Baltimore and Washington, ground was broken last week for a building that has revolutionary significance for the future of religion in America.

The 25,000 square foot building will house under one roof congregations of the Roman Catholic, Jewish, Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Baptist and Unitarian faiths.

Each congregation will have its own clergy, conduct its own worship services and carry on its own pastoral ministry, just as if it were operating in a building of its own.

By sharing one physical plant, however, the seven religious bodies will be able to save an enormous amount of money which otherwise would be spent on mortgage payments, utilities, insurance and maintenance.

This money will be available for community service projects, religious education, youth activities and counseling programs.

The Columbia experiment points a way out of one of the most deplorable situations in American religious life — the preoccupation of most congregations with real estate.

America's Christians and Jews now have an estimated $80 billion tied up in buildings, most of which are used only a few hours a week. And they are adding to this massive investment in bricks and mortar at a rate of $1 billion a year.

Because it costs upwards of $200,000 to build even a modest church, many congregations find themselves struggling with heavy burdens of debt. Energy and concern which ought to be channeled into the service of humanity are diverted instead into building fund drives.

The interfaith venture in Columbia shows how wasteful and unnecessary it is for every congregation to erect its own building.

The Columbia structure — known simply as a "religious facilities center" — will be constructed and maintained by a jointly owned non-profit corporation.

The pioneering design by Boston Architect A. Anthony Tappe provides four multi-use worship spaces, with seating capacities ranging from 70 to 600.

The center also will provide office space for all of the participating congregations, and joint-use facilities for suppers, social events, education, drama and community functions.

The shared facilities concept obviously is easier to apply in an area such as Columbia where a brand new community is being built. But with imagination and daring, it also could be applied in established communities, particularly downtown areas where land values are high enough to enable churches entering a point facility arrangement to dispose of their surplus real estate at a good price.

The United Church Makes Policy Probe

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The United Church of Christ, which grew out of a tradition of congregational independence, has weighted controversial proposals for strengthening its national policy-making organs.

One sharply challenged feature of the proposed changes would give professional departmental executives a vote on the church's interim governing body, its executive council.

It would be contrary to "the historic practice in our fellowship" to give policy-making power to hired staff officials with a "vested interest of employment," said the Rev. C. Shelby Rooks, of Princeton, N.J.

He said such authority always has been reserved to "elected representatives of our membership."

The proposals, the result of a four-year study of church structure by a committee headed by Maine State Supreme Court Judge Donald W. Webber, of Auburn, were under consideration at the church's biennial general synod.

Representatives of the 2-million-member denomination also took up a hotly debated recommendation that it launch a $10 million "United Church Black Appeal" to fund Negro development projects.

The plan, which would retain church supervision over the monetary outlays with advice of a special all-Negro unit, was strongly opposed by sympathizers with an outside movement led by black militant James Forman.

Fewer Priests Seek Marriage

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A Vatican press spokesman said today the number of priests seeking Vatican dispensation to marry is decreasing despite various reports of a widespread revolt against the church's celibacy rule.

The spokesman, Msgr. Fausto Vallance, was commenting on reports from Vatican sources that a survey recently completed by the Holy See shows more than 7,000 men have asked Vatican dispensation to marry in the past five years and figures this year may be the highest in history.

Vallance said the figures were "substantially correct," but many of those seeking dispensation are men who left the priesthood many years ago without dispensation and are now seeking "to regularize their position with the church."

The number of men still active in the priesthood seeking dispensation is actually tending to decrease, he said, although he gave no figures.

Vallance did not say whether the number of men leaving the ministry to marry is up or down.

But it is known that many priests leave the ministry to marry without seeking dispensation.

Vatican sources said the survey on the question was ordered by Pope Paul VI and completed March 20 — two weeks before the Pope said in a Holy Week sermon that rebellious priests were "crucifying" the church.

The sources said the survey showed 7,370 priests asked Vatican dispensation to marry between 1963 and 1968, with the Vatican granting dispensation to 5,652. The requests came from 3,563 secular priests and 3,807 priests who are members of religious orders, the sources said.

In the period Jan. 1 to March 20 of this year, 675 secular priests have asked dispensation to marry, an all-time high for such a period, the sources said. If this rate continues throughout the year at least 3,000 secular priests alone will have asked dispensation in 1969, they added.

No figures were available on the number of requests made this year by priests belonging to religious orders.

Revolutionary Experiment in Interfaith Worship Is Under Way in Maryland

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

In Columbia, Md., the new city which is rising midway between Baltimore and Washington, ground was broken last week for a building that has revolutionary significance for the future of religion in America.

The 25,000 square foot building will house under one roof congregations of the Roman Catholic, Jewish, Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Baptist and Unitarian faiths.

Each congregation will have its own clergy, conduct its own worship services and carry on its own pastoral ministry, just as if it were operating in a building of its own.

By sharing one physical plant, however, the seven religious bodies will be able to save an enormous amount of money which otherwise would be spent on mortgage payments, utilities, insurance and maintenance.

This money will be available for community service projects, religious education, youth activities and counseling programs.

The Columbia experiment points a way out of one of the most deplorable situations in American religious life — the preoccupation of most congregations with real estate.

America's Christians and Jews now have an estimated $80 billion tied up in buildings, most of which are used only a few hours a week. And they are adding to this massive investment in bricks and mortar at a rate of $1 billion a year.

Because it costs upwards of $200,000 to build even a modest church, many congregations find themselves struggling with heavy burdens of debt. Energy and concern which ought to be channeled into the service of humanity are diverted instead into building fund drives.

The interfaith venture in Columbia shows how wasteful and unnecessary it is for every congregation to erect its own building.

The Columbia structure — known simply as a "religious facilities center" — will be constructed and maintained by a jointly owned non-profit corporation.

The pioneering design by Boston Architect A. Anthony Tappe provides four multi-use worship spaces, with seating capacities ranging from 70 to 600.

The center also will provide office space for all of the participating congregations, and joint-use facilities for suppers, social events, education, drama and community functions.

The shared facilities concept obviously is easier to apply in an area such as Columbia where a brand new community is being built. But with imagination and daring, it also could be applied in established communities, particularly downtown areas where land values are high enough to enable churches entering a joint facility arrangement to dispose of their surplus real estate at a good price.

Earth View Is Inspiring

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

In past weeks, it's become the habit of many of us to sit in front of a television screen and stare in astonishment at our planet Earth as it looks from over 260,000 miles away in space. Those courageous astronauts have been able to send back color television pictures of our world as it revolves through space, day replacing darkness, clouds forming over whole continents and the entire Earth reduced to a globe the size of a basketball.

For the first time in history man can look at his home as a tiny revolving piece of matter, colored with clouds, the brown of earth, and the green of seas.

Do the dramatic views from those thousands of miles away overshadow the beauty of our Earth in "close-up"? The astronauts have shown us the glory and wonder of the Earth from far away. But we could very well take a new look and see and understand the beauty of the marvelous world which surrounds us: the change of seasons, the ripening of fruits, the blooming of flowers, the great rhythm of life itself.

One of the astronauts in Apollo 9 said, as he traveled in his space capsule and looked at the Earth he'd come from, "I'd wonder if I hadn't been there, whether there was life on it at all."

The adventure of space travel can only be surpassed by the adventure of living on this earth. Hal Borland, in an interesting new book called "A Report from the Country," describes the changes in the seasons in the beautiful Housatonic Valley in Connecticut. He talks about the constant movements in life: planting, weeding, haying, picking apples or readying up things against the winter. But he always describes the changes of seasons as a sense of moving forward, of creation, of work done and work yet to be accomplished. His book is a statement of faith in the always fascinating life of the natural world, ever moving forward, ever developing, always mysterious and lovely.

I'm sure, from listening to the words of the moon travelers coming from those thousands of miles in space, that they cannot completely communicate to us the glory and wonder of the Earth observed from outer space. That is no discredit to them. Actually the greatest poets of the past, if they were faced with that awesome spectacle, could not perfectly communicate it to us earthbound mortals either.

But there's more to it than just taking for granted what we have here on Earth. The mysteries and excitements of life on Earth are inexhaustible. The author of the book just mentioned describes an old man who each winter said he had to renew his belief. "Belief in what?" "My belief in believing," the old man replied. In this time of crisis, of war, of man turned against man, that is a renewal of faith we might make in any season.

When you are seeing the glory of the earth from afar, revealed by the astronauts, remember too the wonderful "close-up" view of that same earth. Think not only of the earth as a remote ball revolving in space, but of the great near and familiar world, our home for our lifetime. Think of that world in close-up as if touches our lives in a thousand ways; of things like dawn and twilight, of snow and rain, the cold of winter and the warmth of summer.

Pass in mental view great snowy mountain peaks shouldering out the sky, vast rolling plains and green hills and tumbling brooks and mighty rivers flowing to the sea. Savor the aroma of lilacs in springtime, of honeysuckle on a summer night and the burning of leaves in autumn when the hazy Indian summer enhances the beauty of the American landscape.

And remember too the people you know, the dear ones and friends whose happy faces enrich your lives. They may live on a ball rolling in space, but they are near and precious to you; without them your life would be poor indeed.

TRADITIONAL TRIBAL DANCING WILL HIGHLIGHT CHURCH PROGRAM
Hope to Raise Funds for Biafran Relief Project

FOOD, FASHION, DANCE

Biafran Benefit Banquet

By BARBARA FRYER
Staff Writer

The starving nation of Biafra has a heritage rich in taste, sight and sound, and St. Thomas of Canterbury Episcopal Church plans to show it to the Long Beach community Friday and Saturday.

At that time the church at 5306 Arbor Road will transform its hall into the besieged west African country.

The Biafra Night program will get under way at 7 p.m. with a buffet of exotic Biafran dishes.

Films explaining the conditions in Biafra will follow, supplemented by commentary from visitors recently returned from the war-torn country.

Also scheduled is a fashion show of ethnic finery with exhibitions of genuine tribal dancing slated for intermissions. A brief instruction session on some of the dances will be available to interested persons following the formal program.

More than a million of Biafra's countrymen have died of starvation the past year because the civil war there has disrupted the country's ability to produce food.

A like number is expected to die again this year unless aid is forthcoming.

Admission to Biafra Night is $4 for adults and $3 for students. The admission price includes dinner and the program.

Proceeds from the event will be forwarded to the Church World Service to help finance food airlifts to the country. The airlifts are one of the few ways relief shipments can be delivered to Biafra under conditions of a blockade imposed by the Nigerian armed forces. Reservations can be made by calling the church office.

Compton Jewish Center to Join Temple Beth Shalom

Compton Jewish Community Center has dissolved and its membership has joined Temple Beth Shalom, according to a joint communication issued by Compton Center President Howard Freitag and Beth Shalom President Henry Schultz.

Boards of directors of both groups approved the action July 1, and membership meetings of both have overwhelmingly ratified the consolidation.

For over 20 years the Compton Jewish Community Center has had an active congregation. In addition to Sabbath services and holiday observances, there has been a very active sisterhood, men's club, and youth group.

New Satan? Ask Critics

By GODFREY ANDERSON
AP Religion Writer

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Hugh Schonfield, the British biblical scholar who aroused a furore in 1965 by suggesting Christ's crucifixion was faked to fulfill Old Testament prophecies about the Messiah, is now questioning the whole authority of the Christian church.

His earlier book, "The Passover Plot," held that the events of Passion Week in Jerusalem were an organized conspiracy "of which the victim himself was the principal instigator." Now in "Those Incredible Christians" — published by Bantam Books in the United States April 1 — he strikes a new blow at what he calls vested beliefs and ecclesiastical rubbish.

The book is hardly likely to win him friends among orthodox churchmen. It may well bury him under fresh shoals of letters denouncing him roundly as "Satan's stooge."

But there's nothing particularly satanic-looking about the shy, 68-year-old Jewish scholar who has made his claims after more than 45 years of studying ancient texts.

Dr. Schonfield says he subscribes to no religious creed himself, though he believes in God as pure spirit. His books, he insists, are written in an honest search for truth and not to create sensation.

"The whole position of the papacy and the Vatican, the very nature of all church authority, is being questioned today. At the same time there is this desire to get together, as exemplified in the ecumenical movement. But people are just not content to leave this whole matter to be treated on an academic level by theologians discussing fine points of ritual."

"The only way it is possible for people to get to grips with reality is if they are aware of how Christianity originated and what is its mandate. All this has been whittled away in the course of history and now suddenly, in this technological age, we are thrust against it head-on."

"The things that the church prizes are not the things that Jesus Christ stood for. I feel that only by studying the beginnings of the church can we put our finger on the vital thing which is really the matter — what the church has lost. It's on this that new thinking must be based. It's this that could be the new reformation."

Schonfield suggests in his new book that much of what the church has taught as doctrine through the centuries was the product of pressures or human ingenuity much later than the time of Jesus.

Week's Wall Street Trend

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market shot off its fireworks of its own volition during the holiday-shortened past week as it ended weeks of steady decline by launching an early rally and keeping it burning through four straight sessions.

The closely-watched Dow Jones industrial average, for example, which fell nearly 100 points in the previous six weeks, picked up a total of 16.36 points in the week's four sessions to close at 886.12.

The exchanges closed Friday in observance of Independence Day.

"The performance by the Dow, which closed the previous week at a new low of $69.76, was the first time the DJ index had a week in the plus column since the week ending May 16. The indicator reached its 1969 highs of 908.85 on May 14."

The market's rebound, analysts said, "largely was technical in nature and long overdue." The market appears overextended after retreating for a month and a half, all the while shaking out nervous investors.

"When it got to a point where it was so deeply oversold that the prices of many issues were down to a point where they looked very attractive," the barometer hunters decided to move in and start buying.

This bargain buying continued under way Monday, although as it continued following the session it encouraged more than the sideline sitters to get back into the action."

Investors also drew a dose of encouragement during the week, analysts said, from:

- Secretary of State William P. Rogers' report that hostile activity in Vietnam in the last week might have dropped to the lowest level of the war,
- his indication this would increase U.S. troop withdrawals if the full conduct
- And, reports that the board of the Federal Reserve Board had expressed confidence that we can check inflation and eventually bring down interest rates without using controls on allocation of credit among borrowers. Williams, McChesney Martin, chairman, thinks interest rates will decline swiftly once people are convinced prices won't go up and
- How long will the market advance continue?
- Shearson, Hammill & Co., Inc., noted:
- "The market now seems to have a still tentative but encouraging base from which to try to work higher. How far it goes depends upon the support received from peace news, well as the possibility of endorsement to be provided monetary developments."
- We believe a great many stocks have already seen the worst of the decline and can be bought. Similarly, there are companies that are well enough financed not to have to worry too much about the availability of credit and that have good intermediate-term outlooks, despite the likelihood, despite the likelihood of a general corporate profits squeeze."

By GEOFFREY PARKINSON Technical Analyst for Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis

The shorter term outlook has improved. A small trading base has been established. Minor resistance at the 880 level has been overcome. This clears the way for a test of the $90-900 level. The initial attempt to surmount this level is expected to have some difficulty. But, the ability to maintain and consolidate its gains after testing this level would suggest the basis for still higher prices over the shorter term.

INSTITUTIONAL reinvestment normally makes July a bullish month. This should be especially true after a period of pronounced weakness. This factor, in particular, should further enhance the potential and prospects of a summer rally. No significant upside projection can be made beyond the 800-900 level for the initial upturn. However, a normal retracement after an intermediate downturn would be in the area of 50 percent. Such a recovery would lead to a rebound of approximately 50 points or a rally to the 920 level. At this time, this can only be considered a rule of thumb projection, and cannot be considered the basis for trading commitment. Until more of a base of consolidation is evident or until the 860-870 low has been tested, only very aggressive and nimble trading can be recommended.

Larger block transactions continued to maintain a slightly negative bias. Nevertheless, there has been steady improvement in that buying continues to increase while selling declines. This gradual improvement should begin to accelerate to suggest more than a technical recovery by the market. While this area is not yet clearly bullish, it is no longer definite bearish. Among the stocks under significant accumulation last week which are regarded favorably on a technical basis are Ampex-APX-44-Ashland-ASH-4G, Brunswick-B-C-22, Control Data-CDA-154, Sperry Rand-SY-54, Western Union-WU-52.

Selective Reinforcement

SELECTIVE REINFORCEMENT is expected in the more depressed groups: i.e., Aerospace, and Conglomerates over the shorter term. Few of the issues in these groups have consolidated their very sharp declines. Few have regained more than trading interest, and most are still under more significant selling than buying pressure. Therefore, only limited and shallow rallies can be projected over the shorter term. The stocks could be held for additional recovery potential but there is no technical basis for new trading commitments at this time.

IBM-351, is an uptrend stock, the particular relative strength in both this stock and its group have carried this leading issue to a new recovery high. This issue has been in a downtrend pattern since mid 1968. The recent rally has not only reversed that pattern but has carried the stock out of a significant base pattern in the low 300's. This base provides the basis for an upside objective to the 400-425 over the medium to longer term.

Shorter Term, IBM stock is up sharply, as it has advanced 37 points in the last two weeks. Such an upshot is expected to be consolidated and corrected. Until another shorter term trading base is established, the stock cannot now be considered more than a hold and buy on weakness into the 320-330 level.

White House Issues Formal Conduct Code

The memorandum issued Tuesday by President Richard M. Nixon states it is "important to avoid even the mere appearance of interest or influence."

It also said any executive interference with the quasijudicial functions of the regulatory agencies—such as rates, license renewals and route awards—would be "highly improper."

Since the White House does much legitimate business with these agencies such as administration and policy-making, the memorandum sets guidelines for these dealings.

The warning was seen as an attempt to avoid controversies such as the 1958 case involving Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's chief assistant.

CLUB NOTES

The seventh annual Fiesta de Flores, sponsored by the Department of Arboreta and Botanic Gardens as well as the South Coast Botanic Gardens Foundation, is slated to begin Friday.

Ribbon cutting by the outgoing president of the foundation, Frances Young, and the new president, Glen Mackenzie, will open the show at 1 p.m.

The show will be open until 7 p.m. Friday. On July 19, the hours will be from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., and on July 20, from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The Fiesta de Flores is represented as the largest show of its kind in the Southland. Entries will include cut flowers, floral arrangements, potted plants, fruits and vegetables, landscape designs and educational exhibits.

The Long Beach Amateur Orchid Society will hold its regular meeting Monday in the Wardlow Park Club House, Stanbridge Ave. and Wardlow Road.

The meeting will start at 8 p.m.

PLANTING SUGGESTIONS

Set out ground covers, trees, vines and shrubs. Sow grass and dichondra lawns, or plant dichondra from flats or sod.

Plant perennials: chrysanthemums, primavera mums — only one color, yellow, carnations, day lilies, pinks, agapanthus, vinca rosea achillea, tritoma, artotis, pentstemon, shasta daisy, felicia, foxy foxgloves, marguerite, agathe, nierenbergia. Also plant shade perennials such as columbine, begonias, fuchsias — though actually shrubs — coral bells also for partial sun and shade, English primroses, saxifrage sarmontosa, bergenia, helleborus, thalictrum, coleus for half shade and half sun, and impatiens pronounced (im-pai-ti-enz).

Divide, replant young new plants of iris, gerbera, day lilies, agapanthus, clivia (if you hurry and do it) — yes — even old clumps of mums.

Plant (sun) annuals of marigolds, amaranthus (but very young plants) — asters, petunias, ageratum, litchonia, gloriosa daisies.

Sow flower seed of sweet alyssum, ageratum, arctotis, gaillardia, gypsophila, gerbera, hollyhock, marigold, zinnias, mignonette, annual phlox.

Plant vegetables of tomatoes, peppers, egg plants, artichoke.

Sow vegetable seeds of beans, beets, carrots, celery, corn, cucumber, parsley, radish squash, swiss chard, tomato, turnip.

Male Leopard Kills His Mate at L.A. Zoo

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A black leopard and his spotted mate, who had shared the same display compound for more than three years, fought viciously Friday morning before a dozen zoo visitors. When it was over, the female lay dead with a broken neck.

When the 4-year-old cats began scuffling, spectators at the Los Angeles Zoo thought they were playing. The pawing grew rougher and a man ran to a zoo keeper for help.

He arrived too late. The zoo acquired the cats when they were six months old. The male weighed about 75 pounds and his mate about 65.

GARDENING

CISTUS PURPUREUS . . . Minimum Care Pink or Orchid Rock Rose Hedge

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

DO IT NOW

Hedges now are not popular as they were in the past. This may be due to our being brainwashed about minimum-care gardens. It is due to the fact that we lack gardening time to keep hedges trim and neat.

The usual hedges were privet, boxwood, azura, viburnum, eugenia, bush cherry, pittosporum, and several others. The unusual hedges still are of camellias and gardenias, more beautiful and more desirable.

One of the unusual ones we recently saw in bloom, and learned to be truly a minimum-care hedge is the Cistus purpureus, an "Orchid Rock Rose" hedge of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton C. Moen.

THEIR 40-FOOT long rock-rose hedge about five feet tall in a three foot wide flower bed space adjoins the driveway. It burgeons forth into attractive, rose-color blossoms with maroon dots at the centers of the flowers in the spring and continues blooming for about two months.

It is drought resistant, doesn't get any watering at all, excepting a minute bit when the driveway is washed off, except from the rains.

The rich green foliage is densely set and creates an attractive compact effect. The foliage casts off a noticeable herb-like scent after a rainfall. The hedge is trimmed twice a year in stages. These drought resistant plants are also fire resistant and stand lots more cold weather inland.

(Deer and rabbits leave it alone, and it seems to be pest free!)

GARDEN bush roses sometimes suffer from orange rust, a parasitic fungus that causes orange spots and discoloration on plant foliage. It is more likely to occur on roses growing in heavy soil in coastal areas, because the gardener keeps the soil constantly moist. This doesn't mean that "constantly moist soil" provides sufficient water down to 18 to 20 inches depth. It occurs in dry localities, too.

The first corrective action towards elimination of the rust fungus is to water the roses deeply, then no more till they need it. Depending upon the soil structure and locality, whether along the coast where it is cooler and more humid, or inland where it is hotter and drier, roses in heavy-clay soil may not need to be watered oftener than once a week to 10 days or even

New oncoming green gardenia plant foliage can be improved by applying one of the "irons" materials as per directions on the container label. The "irons" may be iron sulphate, chelate of iron, stabilized iron, or sequestrine iron.

For longer lasting dahlia blossoms, cut them when outside of flower-bud petals are brownish color. Do it early in the morning before the sun is up much, or cut them late evening. Put them in container of water, but don't put the leaves on stems in water. Cut off some of the lower leaves. Next morning put them in the arrangement container.

Plant chrysanthemums for late summer and fall color. Primavera mum is a cushion form of mum, yellow in color, and blooms twice year. Good container plant too.

Spray grass lawn with stomach type insecticide when patches of lawn turn brown, if within the brown patches there are some wisps or small clumps of green grass.

longer. Roses in medium texture soil may need watering about once a week, those in coarse-sandy soils may need water at about four to five day intervals. It takes much longer and more water to soak through a heavy-clay soil, less time and water through the medium type soil, and least time and water through a coarse-sandy soil.

Next step is to hand pick off the bush and ground all the infested leaves, then spray with a fungicide the nurseryman recommends. Spray all parts of the infested rose bushes above the soil, then finish spraying the soil all around the plants. Repeat the sprayings as recommended on the fungicide container directions label.

TOMATOES, too, are susceptible to fungus and bacterial diseases. That's why one of the farm advisors, (bless them for all the good they do to help agriculturists and horticulturists solve their growing problems to improve crop yields,) dusted his tomatoes at weekly intervals with a vegetable dust containing insecticide and fungicide recommended for food crops use. His plants were pest-fungus free.

Dr. Fritz Went when at Cal-Tech in Pasadena, some years ago, conducted test plantings of tomatoes for Sunset Magazine. This was done along the coast, inland, and foothill areas. His final results were reported in that magazine. It summed it up but not in exact wording as ours — tomatoes thrive on warm nights and hot days.

GARDEN CLINIC

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q. Enclosed are leaves from columbine. Please explain why they are turning this color.

Those brown color mildew-like spots indicate leaf miners, which are grubs of a small fly that makes winding tunnels, (mines) between upper and lower epidermis of leaves. Spray with a stomach type spray, and also spray the ground.

Q. For the first time in seven years that we've live at this location, our 20-year-old apricot tree labeled "Royal" has finally produced a fair quantity of apricots. Years ago in Pomona we had three acres of Royal apricots, they were freestone. Our tree produces a cling variety which very much surprised us. Could location, or lack of treatment cause this condition? Size and color of fruit seem to be the same, however.

A. Yes, lack of treatment, sparse deep waterings, and lack of nutrients can cause this condition. Our "Royal" acts similarly. The fruit is like a cling variety. Our tree's condition is due to intentional neglect. Its purpose is to provide summer shade for container plants.

Q. My tangerine tree doesn't seem to set flower buds for the fruit setting. A man sprayed it, but it doesn't seem to be doing too well. I fed it, and hope it will help. Should I put a mulch around the trees? I also have two lemons, two juke oranges, one tangerine, an apple and a fig. I would appreciate your advice.

A. Yes, fertilizing the trees would help them all. "Mulch" means to put a layer of manure over the top of the ground. Soil must be watered well around the trees a day or two before applying the mulch. Water well after the mulching.

Q. Enclosed is sample of my tomato plant. Can you tell me if this is the result of inferior plants, soil, or disease? I have dusted with tomato dust, sprayed to keep aphids off, yet the leaves don't mature; they look curled. What can I do for them?

A. Look for my answer in my garden column in this issue. Briefly, tomatoes must be dusted with a vegetable dust that contains insecticide and fungicide, and should be dusted at least once each week, until the fruit is well formed. Water deeply, but don't keep the soil constantly wet. Tomatoes planted at this time produce the most bumper crops of fruit, due to warm nights and hot days! plants are susceptible to nematode infestation.

Q. Our hillside lot overlooks Lake Elsinore. It is hot, sunny, dry, sometimes very windy, gets practically no rain. It is covered with tan weeds, and southwest exposure. Until we can sell it or build on it, we would like to plant a few shrubs, or trees, and some groundcover, preferably colorful. We could water it about once a month, (or more at first). What are your suggestions?

A. Your best bet ground cover that is drought resistant, deep rooted, and has white flowers, is Cistus coriariensis (hybridus). It is also listed as fire retardant!

Also plant shade perennials such as columbine, begonias, fuchsias — though actually shrubs — coral bells also for partial sun and shade, English primroses, saxifrage sarmentosa, bergenia, helleborus, thalictrum, coleus for half shade and half sun, and impatiens pronounced (im-pay-ti-enz).

Divide, replant young new plants of iris, gerbera, day lilies, agapanthus, clivia (if you hurry and do it) — yes — even old clumps of mums.

Sow flower seed of sweet alyssum, ageratum, arctotis, gaillardia, gypsophila, gerbera, hollyhock, marigold, zinnias, mignonette, annual phlox.

Plant vegetables of tomatoes, peppers, egg plants, artichoke.

Sow vegetable seeds of beans, beets, carrots, celery, corn, cucumber, parsley, radish squash, swiss chard, tomato, turnip.

Male Leopard Kills His Mate at L.A. Zoo

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A black leopard and his spotted mate, who had shared the same display compound for more than three years, fought viciously Friday morning before a dozen zoo visitors. When it was over, the female lay dead with a broken neck.

When the 4-year-old cats began scuffling, spectators at the Los Angeles Zoo thought they were playing. The pawing grew rougher and a man ran to a zoo keeper for help.

He arrived too late. The zoo acquired the cats when they were six months old. The male weighted about 75 pounds and his mate about 65.

CISTUS PURPURELLS . . . Minimum Care Pink or Orchid Rock Rose Hedge

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

DO IT NOW

Hedges now are not popular as they were in the past. This may be due to our being brainwashed about minimum-care gardens. It is due to the fact that we lack gardening time to keep hedges trim and neat.

The usual hedges were privet, boxwood, azura, viburnum, eugenia, bush cherry, pittosporum, and several others. The unusual hedges still are of camellias and gardenias, more bloomful and more desirable.

One of the unusual ones we recently saw in bloom, and learned to be truly a minimum-care hedge is the Cistus purpureus, an "Orchid Rock Rose" hedge of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton C. Moen.

THEIR 40-FOOT long rock-rose hedge about five feet tall in a three feet wide flower bed space adjoins the driveway. It burges forth into attractive rose-color blossoms with maroon dots at the centers of the flowers in the spring and continues blooming for about two months.

It is drought resistant, doesn't get any watering at all, excepting a minute bit when the driveway is washed off, except from the rains.

The rich green foliage is densely set and creates an attractive compact effect. The foliage casts off a noticeable herb-like scent after a rainfall. The hedge is trimmed twice a year in stages. These drought resistant plants are also fire resistant and stand lots more cold weather inland. (Deer and rabbits leave it alone, and it seems to be pest free!)

GARDEN hush roses sometimes suffer from orange rust, a parasitic fungus that causes orange spots and discoloration on plant foliage. It is more likely to occur on roses growing in heavy soil in coastal areas, because the gardener keeps the soil constantly moist. This doesn't mean that "constantly moist soil" provides sufficient water down to 18 to 20 inches depth. It occurs in dry localities, too.

The first corrective action towards elimination of the rust fungus is to water the roses deeply, then no more till they need it. Depending upon the soil structure and locality, whether along the coast where it is cooler and more humid, or inland where it is hotter and drier, roses in heavy-clay soil may not need to be watered oftener than once a week to 10 days or even

New oncoming green gardenia plant foliage can be improved by applying one of the "irons" materials as per directions on the container label. The "irons" may be iron sulphate, chelate of iron, stabilized iron, or sequestrine iron.

For longer lasting dahlia blossoms, cut them when outside of flower-bud petals are brownish color. Do it early in the morning before the sun is up much, or cut them late evening. Put them in container of water, but don't put the leaves on stems in water. Cut off some of the lower leaves. Next morning put them in the arrangement container.

Plant chrysanthemums for late summer and fall color. Primavera mum is a cushion form of mum, yellow in color, and blooms twice year. Good container plant too.

Spray grass lawn with stomach type insecticide when patches of lawn turn brown, if within the brown patches there are some wisps or small clumps of green grass.

longer. Roses in medium texture soil may need watering about once a week, those in coarse-sandy soils may need water at about four to five day intervals. It takes much longer and more water to soak through a heavy-clay soil, less time and water through the medium type soil, and least time and water through a coarse-sandy soil.

Next step is to hand pick off the bush and ground all the infested leaves, then spray with a fungicide the nurseryman recommends. Spray all parts of the infested rose bushes above the soil, then finish spraying the soil all around the plants. Repeat the sprayings as recommended on the fungicide container directions label.

TOMATOES, too, are susceptible to fungus and bacterial diseases. That's why one of the farm advisors, (bless them for all the good they do to help agriculturists and horticulturists solve their growing problems to improve crop yields,) dusted his tomatoes at weekly intervals with a vegetable dust containing insecticide and fungicide recommended for food crops use. His plants were pest-fungus free.

Dr. Fritz Went when at Cal-Tech in Pasadena, some years ago, conducted test plantings of tomatoes for Sunset Magazine. This was done along the coast, inland, and foothill areas. His final results were reported in that magazine. It summed it up but not in exact wording as ours — tomatoes thrive on warm nights and hot days.

Q. Enclosed are leaves from columbine. Please explain why they are turning this color.

Those brown color mildew-like spots indicate leaf miners, which are grubs of a small fly that makes winding tunnels, (mines) between upper and lower epidermis of leaves. Spray with a stomach type spray, and also spray the ground.

Q. For the first time in seven years that we've live at this location, our 20-year-old apricot tree labeled "Royal" has finally produced a fair quantity of apricots. Years ago in Pomona we had three acres of Royal apricots, they were freestone. Our tree produces a cling variety which very much surprised us. Could loiation, or lack of treatment cause this condition? Size and color of fruit seem to be the same, however.

A. Yes, lack of treatment, sparse deep waterings, and lack of nutrients can cause this condition. Our "Royal" acts similarly. The fruit is like a cling variety. Our tree's condition is due to intentional neglect. Its purpose is to provide summer shade for container plants.

Q. My tangerine tree doesn't seem to set flower buds for the fruit setting. A man sprayed it, but is doesn't seem to be doing too well. I fed it, and hope it will help. Should I put a mulch around the trees? I also have two lemons, two juice oranges, one tangerine, an apple and a fig. I would appreciate your advice.

A. Yes, fertilizing the trees would help them all. "Mulch" means to put a layer of manure over the top of the ground. Soil must be watered well around the trees a day or two before applying the mulch. Water well after the mulching.

Q. Enclosed is sample of my tomato plant. Can you tell me if this is the result of inferior plants, soil, or disease? I have dusted with tomato dust, sprayed to keep aphids off, yet the leaves don't mature; they look curled. What can I do for them?

A. Look for my answer in my garden column in this issue. Briefly, tomatoes must be dusted with a vegetable dust that contains insecticide and fungicide, and should be dusted at least once each week, until the fruit is well formed. Water deeply, but don't keep the soil constantly wet. Tomatoes planted at this time produce the most bumper crops of fruit, due to warm nights and hot days! plants are susceptible to nematode infestation.

Q. Our hillside lot overlooks Lake Elsinore. It is hot, sunny, dry, sometimes very windy, gets practically no rain. It is covered with tan weeds, and southwest exposure. Until we can sell it or build on it, we would like to plant a few shrubs, or trees, and some groundcover, preferably colorful. We could water it about once a month, (or more at first). What are your suggestions?

A. Your best bet ground cover that is drought resistant, deep rooted, and has white flowers, is Cistus cobiariensis (hybridus). It is also listed as fire retardant!

CHICAGO — It was between games of Friday's Fourth of July doubleheader with Chicago Lefty Phillips, the Angels' manager, was sitting in his office talking about the Halos' new-found hitting.

It made sense since the Angels had just riddled a dozen hits, including Jay Johnstone's first big league grand slam homer, in lacing the White Sox, 7-3.

"We're hitting a lot better now," the manager was saying. "We've lost some tough games but we're hitting better."

With that the Halos

ANGEL OF DAY

JAY JOHNSTONE slugged grand slam home run to spark 7-3 win over Chicago in first game.

went out and managed only four singles and lost the nightcap, 3-1. It deprived them of their first doubleheader sweep in more than a year.

For Johnstone, it probably was the biggest day of his major league career. He was on base five times in the first game, had one of the four Angel hits in the second game, and finished with four hits and five RBI for the day.

Lefty acknowledges Johnstone is a streak hitter. He wasn't in one of his hot streaks when the manager benched him for nine games during the last Anaheim Stadium stand.

Since returning to the lineup Johnstone has batted at a .444 clip (12 for 27) and over-all has improved his batting average to .235 (57 for 243).

Since his return to the lineup he's batted in nine runs in eight games.

Johnstone's big blast in the opener turned out to be the winning margin, allowing Rudy May to post his first win since May 28.

"I was trying to hit the ball someplace," Johnstone explained. "I didn't think it was going out, but I knew it would get one run home."

At the time the one run was big since the Angels had only a 2-1 edge. But Jay's bomb — the first slam by an Angel in almost two years (Aug. 23, 1967) made it a breeze.

Even Ken Tatum, who bailed Eddie Fisher out of a tight spot in the eighth and then whizzed through the ninth, got into the action with his first homer — and only his second hit — in the majors. It came in the ninth.

"The rest must have done Jay some good," Phillips analyzed. "Since he's been back he's been tough to get out."

"Sometimes that's the best thing," Jay said as he towed off after a between-games shower. "When you're going bad like I was maybe it's best just to get out of the lineup."

Jim McGlothlin, the Angels' starter, ran into more tough luck trying for his fifth win. He whirled through six strong innings, allowing one run. When he left the Angels hadn't done a thing against young Paul Edmondson. The Halos got Mac off the hook with a run in the seventh, then unloaded for five in the eighth.

It wasn't quite the same in the second game. Joe Horlen went all the way, allowing the Angels only a first inning tally when Johnstone singled home Bill Voss.

Disgusted Billie Jean Vows, 'I'll Be Back'

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Friday was the fourth of July and there were plenty of fireworks in Billie Jean King's dressing room. And tears, too.

When the chunky American from Long Beach, Calif., shuffled off the court after the loss to Ann Jones in the women's Wimbledon singles final to face the press, it was hard to tell whether she was angrier with the needling center court crowd or herself after being upset 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

The 30-year-old Mrs. Jones, twice a beaten finalist and eight times a semifinal loser at Wimbledon, was not to be denied on her 13th attempt. She took advantage of numerous lapses by Mrs. King and steadied her game in the last two sets to score the biggest victory of her career.

Mrs. King was attempting to become the first woman player in 30 years to win four consecutive Wimbledon championships, a feat previously performed by Helen Wills Moody from 1927-30.

Inside the dressing room fellow players said Mrs. King blinked back the tears and let loose with a "few choice words" about her game and the way the Wimbledon multitude blemished a record of sportsmanship almost a century old by rattling her.

"I knew they would be for Ann," she told reporters. "I prepared myself mentally. What I didn't like was the way they were calling some of my shots 'out'. It got so I didn't know if their linesman or the crowd were calling the shots."

So bad mannered was the crowd even the overjoyed Mrs. Jones was driven to say she was "more than a little embarrassed."

"I wanted to beat her fair and square," said Mrs. Jones. "I didn't want the crowd to put Billie Jean off."

Put her off, it did. Billie Jean would not admit it. But the press gallery, almost to a man (or woman), agreed the antics of the crowd rattled her in the third set and may have affected the outcome.

At one point Mrs. King turned and cursed to the crowd. It looked like a mocking gesture, but she said she meant it simply as an appeal for quiet. The throng roared on for her defeat.

Even in a country which prides itself on sportsmanship, Billie Jean said, "You have to expect the crowd to back the hometown girl, and that's the way it should be."

"Crowds are fickle. Even the English. They come up to you and say 'Jolly good luck, old girl' and I know they're really thinking: 'I hope Billie Jean gets killed.'"

The second time Billie Jean cursed was before a British princess, Queen Elizabeth's daughter Anne. But the once happy-go-lucky girl from California was thinking a very American thought.

"All I could think was how it was the Fourth of July and how I really wanted to win Wimbledon four times in a row and do something for the good old USA," said the dethroned Mrs. King, almost choked with emotion.

Being a champ, she said, "Is tough because they expect you to win every little and big tournament and you have to put up with a lot."

"But I'd rather still be on top," she said. "And I'll be back next year."

Many of the spectators who jammed themselves around the center court had spent the night sleeping on the pavement outside the gates to insure getting a ticket for the match.

Some were there again Friday night, waiting for the men's singles title match which highlights today's closing program. It pairs two Australians, Rod Laver and John Newcombe, against each other. Laver is the defending champion.

Newcombe and Tony Roche, still another Australian, combined to retain their men's doubles crown by defeating Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., and Tom Okker of The Netherlands, 7-5, 11-9, 6-3.

The women's doubles will be a U.S.-Australian affair.

Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif., and Margaret Michel of Pacific Palisades, Calif., will be playing the Australians Margaret Court and Judy Tegart, the No. 1 seeds.

Redlegs On the Move; So Are Dodgers -- Backward

BY FRED CLAIRE
Staff Writer

A reporter, looking for Cincinnati manager Dave Bristol prior to Friday's game at Dodger Stadium, asked directions of Red outfielder Pete Rose.

"Just look for the guy jumping up and down," replied Rose. "He's probably taking infield or playing pepper some place. Never stops moving."

A man on the move. It's a worthy description of Dave Bristol, who lives with the goal of moving the Reds into first place in the hectic Western Division of the National League.

The Reds took a step in that direction Friday with their second win in a row over the Dodgers, 4-1.

After scoring 19 runs in a game at San Diego last Saturday, the Dodgers

DODGER OF DAY

now have 20 runs to show for their last six games. They have lost three in a row.

The Dodgers are one loss removed from matching their longest skid of the season. "We went through a period like this about a month ago and bounced back," said Claude Osteen (10-7), who lost his bid to become the first lefthander in the NL to reach 11 victories. "We'll snap out of this thing."

The "Thing" has been an inability to hit with men on base. The Dodgers have left 30 runners stranded in losing three in a row.

The Reds bounced Osteen for a dozen hits as two former reserves for the St. Louis Cardinals—outfielder Bobby Tolan and catcher Pat Corrales—drove in two runs.

Tolan had three hits, including a run-scoring double in the third and a run-scoring single in the ninth. He ran his RBI total to 57, tying Tony Perez for second place on the club behind Lee May's 58. All three Reds rank among the leaders in the NL.

Tolan raised his average to .321 in continuing a fantastic season in which he has 104 hits (leading the Reds) with 16 doubles, 8 triples and 14 homers.

Corrales had two doubles and increased his average to .357, yet he can't break into the starting lineup, which shows six players with batting averages higher than .300.

The reason Corrales can't get off the bench is Johnny Bench, who is batting

Giants' Sweep Tightens Race

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bobby Bonds drilled three homers and second-stringers Bob Burda and Dave Marshall added key hits Friday as the San Francisco Giants swept the Atlanta Braves, 7-6 in 10 innings, and 7-3.

The sweep, combined with Cincinnati's 4-1 win over the Dodgers, left the spread between the first place Braves and fourth place Giants at 4½ games in the National League's Western Division.

Ron Herbel survived a shaky start to go the distance in the nightcap and gained his fourth win in five decisions. The Braves reached him for nine hits, but only four over the last six innings. It marked the first time in four years that Herbel has chalked up two complete games in a row.

Bonds' third homer of the day, in the third inning of the second game, and a five run sixth inning rally featuring two walks, singles by Bonds, Jim Hart, Marshall and Hal Lanier and a wild pitch, wiped out a 3-0 Braves lead and sewed up the contest.

Marshall's single drove in two of the runs and gave the Giants the lead for the first time in the game.

The Giants reached Ron Reed for all of their eight hits and their seven runs to saddle him with his sixth defeat against seven wins.

Burda was the big man of the opener, hitting a two-run homer in the ninth to tie the score at 5-5 and singling with the CHICAGO — It was between games of Friday's Fourth of July doubleheader with Chicago Lefty Phillips, the Angels' manager, was sitting in his office talking about the Halos' new-found hitting.

It made sense since the Angels had just rifled a dozen hits, including Jay Johnstone's first big league grand slam homer, in lacing the White Sox, 7-3.

We're hitting a lot better now," the manager was saying. "We've lost some tough games but we're hitting better."

With that the Halos

went out and managed only four singles and lost the nightcap, 3-1. It deprived them of their first doubleheader sweep in more than a year.

For Johnstone, it probably was the biggest day of his major league career. He was on base five times in the first game, had one of the four Angel hits in the second game, and finished with four hits and five RBI for the day.

Lefty acknowledges Johnstone is a streak hitter. He wasn't in one of his hot streaks when the manager benched him for nine games during the last Anaheim Stadium stand.

Since returning to the lineup Johnstone has batted at a .444 clip (12 for 27) and over-all has improved his batting average to .235 (57 for 243).

Since his return to the lineup he's batted in nine runs in eight games. Johnstone's big blast in the opener turned out to be the winning margin, allowing Rudy May to post his first win since May 28.

"I was trying to hit the ball someplace," Johnstone explained. "I didn't think it was going out, but I knew it would get one run home."

At the time the one run was big since the Angels had only a 2-1 edge. But Jay's bomb — the first slam by an Angel in almost two years (Aug. 23, 1967) made it a breeze. Even Ken Tatum, who bailed Eddie Fisher out of a tight spot in the eighth and then whizzed through the ninth, got into the action with his first homer — and only his second hit — in the majors. It came in the ninth.

"The rest must have done Jay some good," Phillips analyzed. "Since he's been back he's been tough to get out."

"Sometimes that's the best thing," Jay said as he towed off after a between-games shower. "When you're going bad like I was maybe it's best just to get out of the lineup."

Jim McGlothlin, the Angels' starter, ran into more tough luck trying for his fifth win. He whirled through six strong innings, allowing one run. When he left the Angels hadn't done a thing against young Paul Edmondson. The Halos got Mac off the hook with a run in the seventh, then unloaded for five in the eighth.

It wasn't quite the same in the second game. Joe Horlen went all the way, allowing the Angels only a first inning tally when Johnstone singled home Bill Voss.

Disgusted Billie Jean Vows, 'I'll Be Back'

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Friday was the fourth of July and there were plenty of fireworks in Billie Jean King's dressing room. And tears, too.

When the chunky American, from Long Beach, Calif. shuffled off the court after the loss to Ann Jones in the women's Wimbledon singles final to face the press, it was hard to tell whether she was angrier with the needling center court crowd or herself after being upset 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

The 30-year-old Mrs. Jones, twice a beaten finalist and eight times a semifinal loser at Wimbledon, was not to be denied on her 13th attempt. She took advantage of numerous lapses by Mrs. King and steadied her game in the last two sets to score the biggest victory of her career.

Mrs. King was attempting to become the first woman player in 30 years to win four consecutive Wimbledon championships, a feat previously performed by Helen Wills Moody from 1927-30.

Inside the dressing room fellow players said Mrs. King blinked back the tears and let loose with a "few choice words" about her game and the way the Wimbledon multitude blemished a record of sportsmanship almost a century old by rattling her.

"I knew they would be for Ann," she told reporters. "I prepared myself mentally. What I didn't like was the way they were calling some of my shots 'out' 'out'. It got so I didn't know if their linesman or the crowd were calling the shots."

So bad mannered was the crowd even the overjoyed Mrs. Jones was driven to say she was "more than a little embarrassed."

"I wanted to beat her fair and square," said Mrs. Jones. "I didn't want the crowd to put Billie Jean off."

Put her off, it did. Billie Jean would not admit it. But the press gallery, almost to a man (or woman), agreed the antics of the crowd rattled her in the third set and may have affected the outcome.

At one point Mrs. King turned and curtsied to the crowd. It looked like a mocking gesture, but she said she meant it simply as an appeal for quiet. The throng rooted on for her defeat.

Even in a country which prides itself on sportsmanship, Billie Jean said, "You have to expect the crowd to back the hometown girl, and that's the way it should be."

"Crowds are fickle. Even the English. They come up to you and say 'Jolly good luck, old girl' and I know they're really thinking: 'I hope Billie Jean gets killed.'"

The second time Billie Jean curtsied was before a British princess, Queen Elizabeth's daughter Anne. But the once happy-go-lucky girl from California was thinking a very American thought.

"All I could think was how it was the Fourth of July and how I really wanted to win Wimbledon four times in a row and do something for the good old USA," said the dethroned Mrs. King, almost choked with emotion.

Being a champ, she said, "is tough because they expect you to win every little and big tournament and you have to put up with a lot."

"But I'd rather still be on top," she said. "And I'll be back next year."

Many of the spectators who jammed themselves around the center court had spent the night sleeping on the pavement outside the gates to insure getting a ticket for the match.

Some were there again Friday night, waiting for the men's singles title match which highlights today's closing program. It pairs two Australians, Rod Laver and John Newcombe, against each other. Laver is the defending champion.

Newcombe and Tony Roche, still another Australian, combined to retain their men's doubles crown by defeating Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., and Tom Okker of The Netherlands, 7-5, 11-9, 6-3.

The women's doubles will be a U.S.-Australian affair.

Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif., and Margaret Michel of Pacific Palisades, Calif., will be playing the Australians Margaret Court and Judy Tegart, the No. 1 seeds.

Redlegs On the Move; So Are Dodgers -- Backward

BY FRED CLAIRE Staff Writer

A reporter, looking for Cincinnati manager Dave Bristol prior to Friday's game at Dodger Stadium, asked directions of Red outfielder Pete Rose.

"Just look for the guy jumping up and down," replied Rose. "He's probably taking infield or playing pepper some place. Never stops moving."

A man on the move. It's a worthy description of Dave Bristol, who lives with the goal of moving the Reds into first place in the hectic Western Division of the National League.

The Reds took a step in that direction Friday with their second win in a row over the Dodgers, 4-1.

After scoring 19 runs in a game at San Diego last Saturday, the Dodgers

DODGER OF DAY

NONE. It was that kind of day in 4-1 loss to Reds.

now have 20 runs to show for their last six games. They have lost three in a row.

The Dodgers are one loss removed from matching their longest skid of the season. "We went through a period like this about a month ago and bounced back," said Claude Osteen (10-7), who lost his bid to become the first lefthander in the NL to reach 11 victories. "We'll snap out of this thing."

The "Thing" has been an inability to hit with men on base. The Dodgers have left 30 runners stranded in losing three in a row.

The Reds bounced Osteen for a dozen hits as two former reserves for the St. Louis Cardinals—outfielder Bobby Tolan and catcher Pat Corrales—drove in two runs.

Tolan had three hits, including a run-scoring double in the third and a run-scoring single in the ninth. He ran his RBI total to 57, tying Tony Perez for second place on the club behind Lee May's 58. All three Reds rank among the leaders in the NL.

Tolan raised his average to .321 in continuing a fantastic season in which he has 104 hits (leading the Reds) with 16 doubles, 8 triples and 14 homers.

Corrales had two doubles and increased his average to .357, yet he can't break into the starting lineup, which shows six players with batting averages higher than .300.

The reason Corrales can't get off the bench is Johnny Bench, who is balanced.

Giants' Sweep Tightens Race

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bobby Bonds drilled three homers and second-stringers Bob Burda and Dave Marshall added key hits Friday as the San Francisco Giants swept the Atlanta Braves, 7-6 in 10 innings, and 7-3.

The sweep, combined with Cincinnati's 4-1 win over the Dodgers, left the spread between the first place Braves and fourth place Giants at 4½ games in the National League's Western Division.

Ron Herbel survived a shaky start to get the distance in the nightcap and gained his fourth win in five decisions. The Braves reached him for nine hits, but only four over the last six innings. It marked the first time in four years that Herbel has chalked up two complete games in a row.

Bonds' third homer of the day, in the third inning of the second game, and a five run sixth inning rally featuring two walks, singles by Bonds, Jim Hart, Marshall and Hal Lanier and a wild pitch, wiped out a 3-0 Braves lead and sewed up the contest.

Marshall's single drove in two of the runs and gave the Giants the lead for the first time in the game. The Giants reached Ron Reed for all of their eight hits and their seven runs to saddle him with his sixth defeat against seven wins.

Burda was the big man of the opener, hitting a two-run homer in the ninth to tie the score at 5-5 and singling with the

Weak Winds Plague Transpac

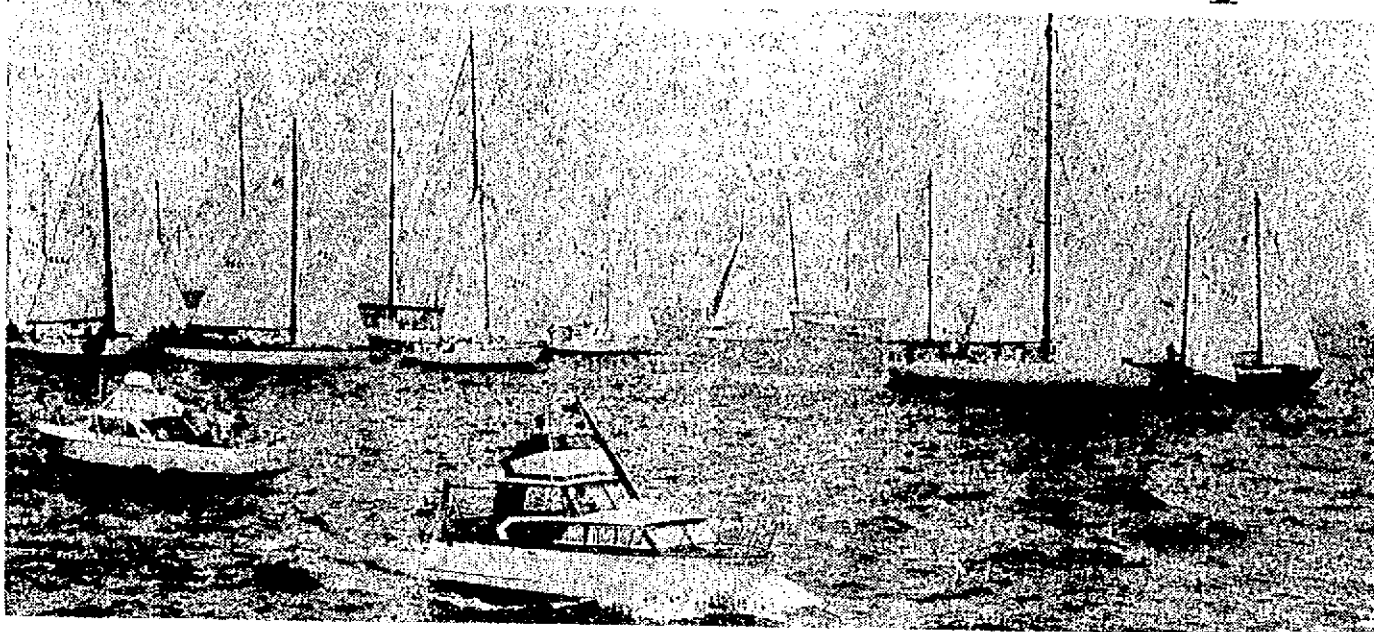

By DONNELL CULPEPPER
Staff Writer

Seventy-two yachts, ranging from the small sloops to the big 70-foot schooners, got under way Friday in a wind that somebody called "six knots," but which seemed to be blowing in no particular direction. Their destination was Honolulu, 2,225 miles from the starting line off Pt. Fermin, in the 25th Transpacific Yacht Race.

Without a doubt, it was the slowest start in many years for the Transpac. In fact, when the magic hour of noon arrived, the postponement flag went up for 10 minutes, then for another 10 minutes.

In the 15 minutes that preceded the normal noon start, sloops, yawls, cutters and schooners were milling around in the converging area so close that some were losing what little wind there was and, no doubt, some others were bumping each other. Had it been a regatta, there probably would have been two dozen protests.

When the starting flag went up, Robert (Boh) Johnson, owner-skipper of Windward Passage, the scratch boat and one of the largest in the race, pointed the yacht's bow westward and took the lead. Taking the lead in such a race — longest in the world — didn't mean a thing except that Johnson, who holds the record crossing in a Transpac, knew exactly what he was doing. Windward Passage is carrying the colors of the Lahaina Yacht Club.

Johnson set the mark of 9 days, 15 hours and 31 minutes in Ticonderoga, known in yachting circles as "Big Ti" and now engaged in charter work in the Caribbean.

Right back of Windward Passage was Warren C. T. Wong's Ranger, a sloop representing the Stockton Sailing Club, and Sumatra,

Albert C. Martin's sloop from the Los Angeles YC.

Blackfin, the big ketch that has given Windward Passage such a bad time in racing, was in the midst of a group of yachts. For a while it appeared that some didn't even know where they were going, but the whole thing finally straightened out and the fleet of yachts disappeared in the haze.

Blackfin is Kenneth DeMeuse's entry from the St. Francis YC of San Francisco.

At 3 p.m. the U. S. Weather Bureau had a cheerful note for the racing yachts. Northwestern winds were building up to 15 and 20 knots between Catalina and San Clemente Islands, where the yachts were presumed to be Friday night.

The Queen Mab, Robert Pringle's big schooner which is always a bridesmaid but apparently never a bride in the Transpac, was the last to cross the mythical starting line.

Long Beach YC has four boats in the race. Those are John McIntire's Baruna, a 72-foot yawl, with Harold Heinmiller as skipper; C. T. McElroy's Moccasin; Ernest E. Chipman's Cygnus, and Barry Berkus' Intrepid II, a Cal-37 that has been gaining quite a reputation.

In addition, Dr. Mort Haskell is sailing his Vivant with the Alamitos Bay YC colors. Lou Comyns' sloop, Ahsante, and Sam Holland's yawl, Tangent, are carrying the burgees of the Cabrillo Beach YC.

Huntington Harbour YC has two entries — J. W. Wyman's Pericus, with William V. Wright as skipper, and Richard K. Smyth's Pleiades. Both are sloops.

If strong winds prevail, there is a bare possibility that Bob Johnson could beat his own record in Windward Passage, a boat that is a real skimmer when the wind is right.

DAVENPORT TIES HURDLES RECORD

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) — U.S. Olympic gold medalist Willie Davenport equalled the world 110 meter hurdles record of 13.2 seconds for the third time in his career Friday night, and this time it counted.

"I ran 13.2 twice before, but tonight is the first time it's official," the former Marine said. The three stop watches indicated 13.2, 13.2 and 13.3 seconds at an international track meet.

Davenport joined Earl McCullough, Lee Calhoun and Erv Hall of the U.S. as record holder. Martin Lauer, the West German hurdler who first set the record 10 years ago at the Letzigrund Stadium here, acted as starter for Davenport's run.

World record pole vaulter John Pennel cleared 17 feet, 7 inches, but failed in three attempts to reach 18 feet. He holds the record of 17-10 1/4.

Davenport finished fifth in the 100-meter dash at 10.4. Minner was Hermes Ramires of Cuba, Fanie Van Zijl established a national South African record in winning the 1,500 meters in 3:41.1.

Yanks Win Crew War from British

HENLEY ON THAMES, England (UPI) — Pennsylvania's powerful varsity eight and Bill Tytus, a 20-year-old student from Seattle, Wash., put on performances that dominated a brilliant American showing Friday in the Henley Royal Regatta.

American boats won eight of their 10 races.

The University of Pennsylvania eliminated Britain's last hope for victory in the prestigious Grand Challenge Cup by beating the Tideway Scullers to set up a meeting against East Germany's Einheit Crew in today's final. Penn held on to win in six minutes, 57 seconds.

But the day's brightest performance was by Tytus, a University of Washington senior, who came from behind to snatch victory from top seeded Ken Dwan of Britain in the diamond sculls. Tytus, who began rowing four years ago, swept past Dwan to record a time of eight minutes, 21 seconds, 19 seconds faster than East German Jorg Bohmer, whom he faces in the final.

For Penn, it was a happy day all round. The freshman crew reached the semi-final of the Thames Cup with a convincing win over Bedford.

Penn was joined by the lightweights from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, whom they must face next, while Harvard completed the trio by easily outpulling the London Rowing Club.

Of the three, Harvard recorded the fastest time with 7:03.

For the first time in its history, the Ladies Plate must leave Britain. Trinity of Hartford, Conn. joined the American parade of winners in one of the day's most exciting races by finishing only one-third of a length ahead of Durham University.

But the U.S. crews will find today much harder going. Einheit rowed the fastest time of the day in beating Nereus Amsterdam, 18 seconds faster than Penn.

In the Thames Cup, Leander bettered Harvard's time by three seconds, even though the Oxford University Isis crew never pressed the defending champion.

U.S. Army specialist Bill Maher was beaten by Bohmer in the diamond sculls. Another casualty was the Cambridge, Mass., Boat Club pair of Henry Hamilton and Dick Lynch, in the double sculls, who were given little chance by Cornwall.

3,000 See Meyer Set Hydro Record

Two records were broken as 3,000 persons watched the 20th renewal of the Independence Day Regatta of circle racing at Long Beach Marine Stadium Friday.

Randy Meyer, Upland, driving Avenger VII in the 266 hydro class, set a stadium record of 69.337 m.p.h. Dick Powell, San Pedro, driving Aquaholic, was close behind in second place.

In the K-Racing Runabout Class, Charles Hamill, Hollywood, set a Stadium record of 72.058 m.p.h. Jim O'Leary, Long Beach, finished in second place. He was driving Leprechau.

There were no accidents and no spills in any of the races.

Yarbrough Dodges Wreck, Wins '400' by Four Feet

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.

(UPI) — Handsome Lee Roy Yarbrough "put on the brakes," waited for the two mangled cars to spin out of his path, then roared through the wreckage to victory Friday in the $90,032 Firecracker 400 stock car race.

"I saw two cars come together," said the get-rich-quick Ford driver. "I felt like they would have to come apart so I put on the brakes and waited. It was the only thing I could do."

The Columbia, S.C., hotshot led Buddy Baker of Charlotte, N.C., over the finish line by only four feet to register his fourth major speedway victory of the season and push his earnings for the year to $120,315. He also won the rich Daytona 500-mile race in February.

With 75 miles to go in the 400-mile grind, watched by defense secretary Melvin Laird and 53,800 racing fans, Baker's Dodge was a half-lap in front of Yarbrough. But Lee Roy picked his way through the five-car wreck, caught Baker under a yellow caution flag and passed him with 13 miles to go.

"I was ready to give it an all-America try for the (green) flag," said the disappointed Baker after he picked up $11,195 compared to Lee Roy's $22,175. "But he was just a fraction of a second faster than I was."

mor, who escaped injury, was given 21st place in the field of 31 starters.

McCluskey finished in 2 hours 40 minutes, with an average speed of 79 miles per hour. Butch Hartman of S. Zanesville, Ohio, was third.

The track temperature was 150 degrees and two drivers — Joe Frasson of Golden Valley, Minn., and Jim Perry of Indianapolis, Ind. — passed out at track side and had to be revived. Both were reported in good condition.

Weak Winds Plague Transpac

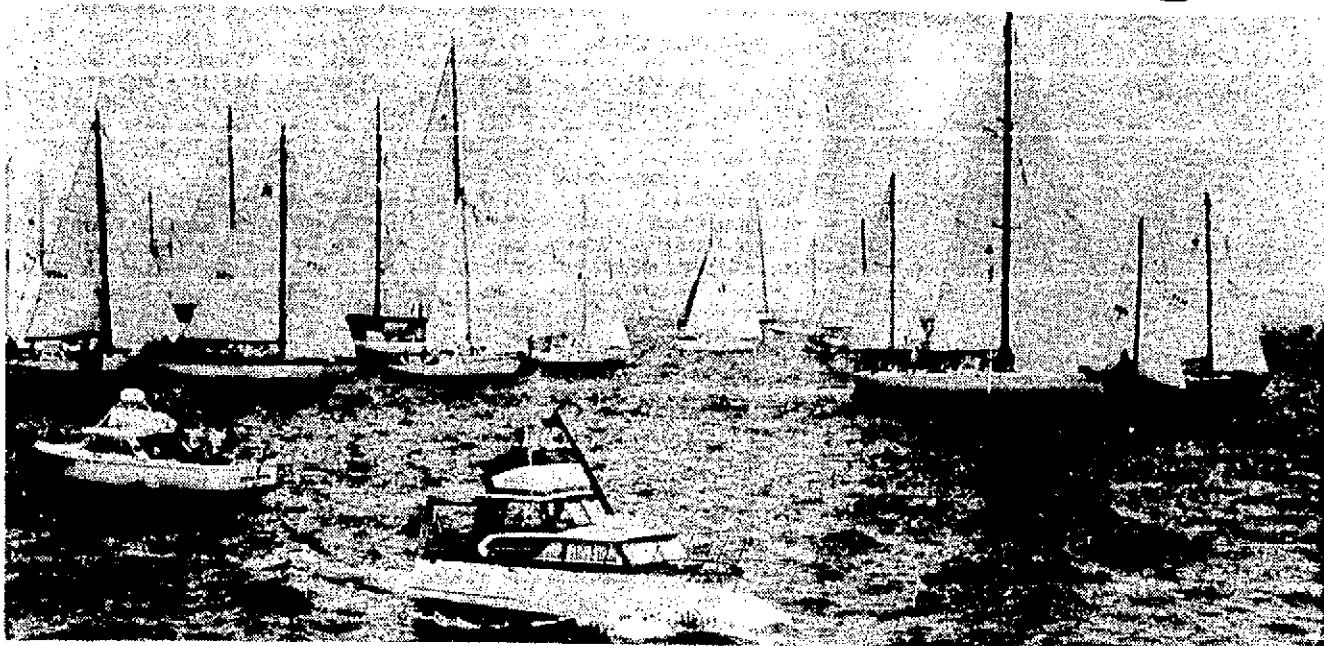

By DONNELL CULPEPPER
Staff Writer

Seventy-two yachts, ranging from the small sloops to the big 70-foot schooners, got under way Friday in a wind that somebody called "six knots," but which seemed to be blowing in no particular direction. Their destination was Honolulu, 2,225 miles from the starting line off Pt. Fermin, in the 25th Transpacific Yacht Race.

Without a doubt, it was the slowest start in many years for the Transpac. In fact, when the magic hour of noon arrived, the postponement flag went up for 10 minutes, then for another 10 minutes.

In the 15 minutes that preceded the normal noon start, sloops, yawls, cutters and schooners were milling around in the converging area so close that some were losing what little wind there was and, no doubt, some others were bumping each other. Had it been a regatta, there probably would have been two dozen protests.

When the starting flag went up, Robert (Bob) Johnson, owner-skipper of Windward Passage, the scratch boat and one of the largest in the race, pointed the yacht's bow westward and took the lead. Taking the lead in such a race — longest in the world — didn't mean a thing except that Johnson, who holds the record crossing in a Transpac, knew exactly what he was doing. Windward Passage is carrying the colors of the Lahaina Yacht Club.

Johnson set the mark of 9 days, 15 hours and 31 minutes in Ticonderoga, known in yachting circles as "Big Ti" and now engaged in charter work in the Caribbean.

Right back of Windward Passage was Warren C. T. Wong's Ranger, a sloop representing the Stockton Sailing Club, and Sumatra,

Albert C. Martin's sloop from the Los Angeles YC.

Blackfin, the big ketch that has given Windward Passage such a bad time in racing, was in the midst of a group of yachts. For a while it appeared that some didn't even know where they were going, but the whole thing finally straightened out and the fleet of yachts disappeared in the haze.

Blackfin is Kenneth DeMeuse's entry from the St. Francis YC of San Francisco.

At 3 p.m. the U. S. Weather Bureau had a cheerful note for the racing yachts. Northwestern winds were building up to 15 and 20 knots between Catalina and San Clemente Islands, where the yachts were presumed to be Friday night.

The Queen Mab, Robert Pringle's big schooner which is always a bridesmaid but apparently never a bride in the Transpac, was the last to cross the mythical starting line.

Long Beach YC has four boats in the race. Those are John McIntire's Baruna, a 72-foot yawl, with Harold Heinmiller as skipper; C. T. McElroy's Moccasin; Ernest E. Chipman's Cygnus, and Barry Berkus' Intrepid II, a Cal-37 that has been gaining quite a reputation.

In addition, Dr. Mort Haskell is sailing his Vivant with the Alamitos Bay YC colors. Lou Comyns' sloop, Ahsante, and Sam Holland's yawl, Tangent, are carrying the burgees of the Cabrillo Beach YC.

Huntington Harbour YC has two entries — J. W. Wynman's Pericus, with William V. Wright as skipper, and Richard K. Smyth's Pleiades. Both are sloops.

If strong winds prevail, there is a bare possibility that Bob Johnson could beat his own record in Windward Passage, a boat that is a real skimmer when the wind is right.

3,000 See Meyer Set Hydro Record

Two records were broken as 3,000 persons watched the 20th renewal of the Independence Day Regatta of circle racing at Long Beach Marine Stadium Friday.

Randy Meyer, Upland, driving Avenger VII in the 266 hydro class, set a stadium record of 69.337 m.p.h. Dick Powell, San Pedro, driving Aquaholic, was close behind in second place.

In the K-Racing Runabout Class, Charles Hamill, Hollywood, set a Stadium record of 72.058 m.p.h. Jim O'Leary, Long Beach, finished in second place. He was driving Leprechau.

There were no accidents and no spills in any of the races.

115 hydros—(1) Code di Gollo, Curley Williams, Alfa Loma, 51.29; (2) Ramon, Andre, Fenev, San Clemente. Fourteen boats entered the 155 hydro racing, and 12 of those were Long Beach boats. There also were 10 Long Beach drivers.

Crackerboxes—(1) Howard Smith, Seal Beach, 62.56; (2) Lemon Crate, Art Field, Gardena, who lost by 13 seconds. This race put the two men in a tie for national honors with 3,459 points each.

250 hydros—(1) Hollification, Joe Schulte, Playa del Rey, 61.85; (2) Tonaleat, Ken Abrahams, Bell.

E-Racing Runabouts—(1) Charger, Jon Painter, Redondo Beach, 64.37; (2) Captain America, Bob Parker, Redondo Beach.

225 hydros—(1) Uncle Gummy, Mickey Raymond, Gardena, 63.33; (2) Col-skinner, Fred Valente, Visalia.

Superstocks—(1) Psychologic, Clem McCall, Torrance, 72.53; (2) Angel-mot, Truitt Beal, El Monte.

850 CCs—(1) Double Trouble, Darrel Olson, Wilmington, 53.04; (2) Good Girl Too, Charles Dale, San Diego.

NO. 2 TRIES HARDER

rine Stadium Friday. Field won heat but finished second in over-all competition to drop into tie with Howard Smith in crackerbox class.

Yarbrough Dodges Wreck, Wins '400' by Four Feet

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Handsome Lee Roy Yarbrough "put on the brakes," waited for the two mangled cars to spin out of his path, then roared through the wreckage to victory Friday in the $90,032 Firecracker 400 stock car race.

"I saw two cars come together," said the get-rich-quick Ford driver. "I felt like they would have to come apart so I put on the brakes and waited. It was the only thing I could do."

The Columbia, S.C., hotshot led Buddy Baker of Charlotte, N.C., over the finish line by only four feet to register his fourth major speedway victory of the season and push his earnings for the year to $120,315. He also won the rich Daytona 500-mile race in February.

With 75 miles to go in the 400-mile grind, watched by defense secretary Melvin Laird and 53,800 racing fans, Baker's Dodge was a half-lap in front of Yarbrough. But Lee Roy picked his way through the five-car wreck, caught Baker under a yellow caution flag and passed him with 13 miles to go.

"I was ready to give it an all-America try for the (green) flag," said the disappointed Baker after he picked up $11,195 compared to Lee Roy's $22,175. "But he was just a fraction of a second faster than I was."

Cale Yarbrough of Columbia, S.C., who started from the pole position in his 1969 Mercury, led for 50 miles before a broken valve forced him out.

Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala., finished third in a 1969 Ford followed by David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C. and Richard Petty, Randleman, N.C., in Fords. Others:

6. Dave Marcis (West Salem, Wis.) 1969 Dodge $1,500; 7. Richard Brickhouse (Rocky Pt., N.C.) 1967 Plymouth $1,325; 8. Dr. Don Tarr (N. Miami Beach, Fla.) 1967 Dodge $1,550; 9. James Hylton (Homer, S.C.) 1959 Dodge $1,125; 10. H.B. Bailey (Houston, Tex.) 1969 Pontiac $1,200. Time of race: 2 hours 29 minutes, 11 seconds. Average speed: 160.875 miles per hour. Firecracker 400 record is 167.247 miles per hour, set last season by Cale Yarbrough in a 1968 Mercury.

McCluskey Maintains USAC Stock Car Lead

WENTZVILLE, Mo. (UPI) — Roger McCluskey maintained his lead over A. J. Foyt in the USAC stock car standings Friday by winning the mid-America 200.

McCluskey of Tucson, Ariz., was about 35 seconds in front of Foyt, of Houston, Tex., at the finish of the 71 laps on the 2.86-mile asphalt course.

There was one accident. The car of Gene Marmor of River Grove, Ill., overturned after the driver finished the 37th lap. Mar-mor, who escaped injury, was given 21st place in the field of 31 starters.

McCluskey finished in 2 hours 40 minutes, with an average speed of 79 miles per hour. Butch Hartman of S. Zanesville, Ohio, was third.

The track temperature was 150 degrees and two drivers — Joe Frasson of Golden Valley, Minn., and Jim Perry of Indianapolis, Ind. — passed out at track side and had to be revived. Both were reported in good condition.

DAVENPORT TIES HURDLES RECORD

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) — U.S. Olympic gold medalist Willie Davenport equalled the world 110 meter hurdles record of 13.2 seconds for the third time in his career Friday night, and this time it counted.

"I ran 13.2 twice before, but tonight is the first time it's official," the former Marine said. The three stop watches indicated 13.2, 13.2 and 13.3 seconds at an international track meet.

Davenport joined Earl McCullough, Lee Calhoun and Erv Hall of the U.S. as record holder. Martin Lauer, the West German hurdler who first set the record 10 years ago at the Letzigrund Stadium here, acted as starter for Davenport's run.

World record pole vaulter John Pennel cleared 17 feet, 7 inches, but failed in three attempts to reach 18 feet. He holds the record of 17-10 1/4.

Davenport finished fifth in the 100-meter dash at 10.4. Minner was Hermes Ramires of Cuba. Fanie Van Zijl established a national South African record in winning the 1,500 meters in 3:41.1.

Yanks Win Crew War from British

HENLEY ON THAMES, England (UPI) — Pennsylvania's powerful varsity eight and Bill Tytus, a 20-year-old student from Seattle, Wash., put on performances that dominated a brilliant American showing Friday in the Henley Royal Regatta.

American boats won eight of their 10 races.

The University of Pennsylvania eliminated Britain's last hope for victory in the prestigious Grand Challenge Cup by beating the Tideway Scullers to set up a meeting against East Germany's Einheil Crew in today's final. Penn held on to win in six minutes, 57 seconds.

But the day's brightest performance was by Tytus, a University of Washington senior, who came from behind to snatch victory from top seeded Ken Dwan of Britain in the diamond sculls. Tytus, who began rowing four years ago, swept past Dwan to record a time of eight minutes, 21 seconds, 13 seconds faster than East German Jorg Bohmer, whom he faces in the final.

U.S. Army specialist Bill Maher was beaten by Bohmer in the diamond sculls. Another casualty was the Cambridge, Mass., Boat Club pair of Henry Hamilton and Dick Lynch, in the double sculls, who were given little chance by Cornwall.

For Penn, it was a happy day all round. The freshmen crew reached the semi-final of the Thames Cup with a convincing win over Bedford.

Penn was joined by the lightweights from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, whom they must face next, while Harvard completed the trio by easily outpuling the London Rowing Club.

Of the three, Harvard recorded the fastest time with 7:03.

For the first time in its history, the Ladies Plate must leave Britain. Trinity of Hartford, Conn. joined the American parade of winners in one of the day's most exciting races by finishing only one-third of a length ahead of Durham University.

But the U.S. crews will find today much harder going. Einheil rowed the fastest time of the day in beating Nereus Amsterdam, 18 seconds faster than Penn.

In the Thames Cup, Leander beltered Harvard's time by three seconds, even though the Oxford University Isis crew never pressed the defending champion.

U.S. Army specialist Bill Maher was beaten by Bohmer in the diamond sculls. Another casualty was the Cambridge, Mass., Boat Club pair of Henry Hamilton and Dick Lynch, in the double sculls, who were given little chance by Cornwall.

CLAY DRAFT CASE--THE YEARS GO BY

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Cassius Clay draft evasion case has wallowed in legal entanglements for more than two years, and at least one judge is beginning to grow tired of it.

The former heavyweight champion's fate has bounced around from draft boards to courtrooms to the quiet halls of justice in Washington, and is now in the hands of U.S. dist. judge Joe Ingraham in Houston.

Ingraham must decide whether any part of the evidence used by the government in obtaining its draft evasion conviction two years ago was obtained from wiretapped conversations.

Fleck in SoCal Tourney

Pros Lead Field at Recreation

Former U.S. Open winner Jack Fleck and touring pros Ronnie Reif and Jerry Steelsmith will play in the Southern California PGA tournament which begins next week at Recreation Park.

Mae Hunter of Riviera, the 1967 champion, and Bill Nary of Bonita, who holds a PGA record, also filed entries for the $15,000 event, which is the largest and richest match play tournament in the country.

Fleck will be making his first appearance, having earned his SoCal membership with the completion of a full year as head pro at Mission Viejo Country Club.

The Iowa native stunned the golf world in 1955 when he charged from behind to tie Ben Hogan in the U.S. Open, then beat him in a playoff the following day at the Olympic Club in San Francisco.

Reif won the SoCal PGA four years ago, was runnerup in 1968 and recently joined the tour, where he has made enough money to make expenses.

Steelsmith, of Glendale, has been on and off the tour for nearly 10 years, and this has been one of the more lucrative seasons for the veteran.

Nary, of Bonita, is in his 50s, but he has gained the quarterfinals twice in the last three years and is playing well. In 1952 he shot a round of 60 in the El Paso Open which still stands as a PGA 18-hole record. Six have tied it.

Hunter beat Tommy Jacobs, who has entered this year, in the 1967 title match but lost in the second round a year ago.

FIVE-UNDER 65 Weakley Leads Meadowlark Golf

Steve Weakley of Pomona fired a five-under-par 65 to take the first round lead of the Meadowlark Invitational golf tournament Friday.

Weakley's 65 included five birdies. He shot 33 on the front nine, and finished the back half in 32.

He is closely followed by a host of golfers, including Bill Selman of Santa Ana at 66. Selman fired a 33-33 for his four-under round.

Bill McCormick of Skylinks shot a 69 and finished in a tie for fifth with eight others, including Larry Benson of Skylinks, and Fred Good, formally of Skylinks, now playing out of San Diego.

45—Steve Weakley (Pomona). 65—Bill Selman (Santa Ana). 66—Bill McCormick (Skylinks). 69—Larry Benson (Skylinks). 69—Fred Good (San Diego). 69—Larry Benson (Skylinks).

Japan Nine Forced Off Airplane

CARACAS (UPI)—Twenty-six Japanese baseball players were forced to disembark from a Viasa DC-8 Friday morning as the Miami-bound plane was about to take off from Matiquetia International airport.

The pilot of the plane, which had already taxied down the runway and stood ready to depart, was advised by radio from the control tower that the Japanese could not leave due to a court order forbidding their departure.

The Japanese, members of the Global Baseball League, said that they had been almost airborne in their attempt to join other league teams in the United States, before authorities intervened.

Caracas hotel-owners, who claim the league owes them around $70,000, requested the court order that blocked the players' departure. The Japanese, who were not

RAIN ON THIS PLAIN

RAIN HALTS GOLFERS

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI)—Repeated heavy rains forced cancellation of the second round of the $125,000 Buick Open Friday after only one two-some had finished their tour of the 7,001-yard Warwick Hills golf course.

The round will be played today and the field will now have to go 36 holes Sunday to complete the event. The field will be cut after today to the low 70 scores and ties for the finale.

Only one of the leaders, R.H. Sikes, was affected by the storm. He had played seven holes when the downpour began, equalling par for the stretch to remain seven-under for the tournament and in a tie for first place.

The other first day leader, Homero Blancas, had not begun his second round.

400 Hopefuls Target on Women's Track Crowns

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—More than 400 entries were to compete today and Sunday in the Women's AAU track and field championships featuring dual battles in the 100 and 220-yard dashes between top-favored Margaret Bayles of Eugene, Ore., and Barbara Ferrell of Los Angeles.

The 18-year-old Miss Bayles will be defending in the century and will be after the 220 title won last year by Wyoma Tyus, who since has retired from track competition.

One of the other competitors in the 220 as well as the 440 is Esther Stroy of Washington, D.C., who Thursday took the girls' 440 event here in the record time of 54.1 seconds.

Back to defend in the 440 is Jarvis Scott of Los Angeles.

Another competitor in both girls' and women's action is Kathy Schmidt of Long Beach, Calif., who hoped to do as well in the senior action as the junior competition. She won the girls' javelin event Thursday with a record 170 foot, 3 inch effort.

Miss Stroy and Cathy Hamblin of Albuquerque, N.M., who entered the 440 high and long jump events, were members of last year's U.S. Olympic team.

Other defending champions included Doris Brown of Seattle, 880; Jane Hill of Frederick, Md., mile.

Mamie Rollins of Chicago and Pat Van Wolvenhaere of Renton, Wash., hurdles; Willye White of Chicago, long jump; Maren Seidler of Plainfield, N.J., shotput; and Olga Connolly of Culver City, Calif., discus.

Division finals will be held this morning and afternoon, and the semi-finals in the evening. The finals are Sunday afternoon.

Leftyhander Tim Brady will pitch for Salta Pontiac tonight at 7:30 when the Long Beach team meets San Fernando in a California Collegiate Baseball League game at Blair Field.

Salta is in third place with a 6-5 record.

A Sunday doubleheader at Downey, starting at 4:30 p.m., will cap a busy four-game week for Salta; Downey defeated the Long Beach club, 11-8, Tuesday.

Your driver's license is all you need to play LUCKY DRIVER

167 Lucky Winners! $3000 TOTAL CASH PRIZES!

7 DAILY CASH PRIZES ($50-$100)

A total of $3,000 in daily and weekly cash prizes will be awarded. Lucky drivers' licenses (numbers) will be published every day, except Saturday and Sunday, starting July 1. There will be 7 cash winners weekdays, July 1 through July 31. The first number drawn will be worth $50. The next six drawn will win $19 each. A total of 167 winners!

WEEKLY CASH PRIZES ($100)

Everyone is eligible for this one... including those who have already won daily cash prizes. A weekend drawing will be held at the end of each of the five contest weeks to determine that week's special $100 winner. Lucky driver's license number will be published on the Sunday following each contest week.

GRAND PRIZE

Win a trip for two to fabulous JAMAICA

All those playing LUCKY DRIVER are eligible for this drawing... including those who have already won cash prizes. Lucky Winners will get to Jamaica... to enjoy sun-swept white sand beaches, star-filled Caribbean nights, and that famous service with a British accent.

HERE'S ALL YOU DO TO PLAY "LUCKY DRIVER":

- Nothing to buy, no puzzles to solve.
- Write your name, address and California Driver's License number on a post card and mail to: Lucky Driver, Independent, Press-Telegram, P.O. Box 230, Long Beach, California 90801 OR simply complete, clip and mail the coupon below.
- All lucky numbers will be selected by drawing.
- Only one entry per person will be accepted but your single entry will remain eligible for all drawings.
- Lucky license numbers will be listed in the pages of the Independent, Press-Telegram, every day except Saturday, July 1 through July 31. Winners must claim their awards in person at the Independent, Press-Telegram cashier window, Main Floor, 604 Pine in Long Beach. They must present their driver's license and some other proof of identity. Prizes must be claimed no later than 4:30 p.m. (Mon. thru Fri.) within 10 days after license number is published. If not claimed within that time, prize will be forfeited.
- Judges' decisions will be final on all matters pertaining to these cash awards and grand prize.
- Employees of the Independent, Press-Telegram and Orange County Evening News, their immediate families, are not eligible to play LUCKY DRIVER.
- Tour and transportation portion of Grand Prize trip has no cash equivalent.
- No purchase necessary.
- Lucky numbers may also be examined in copies of the newspapers at the Business Offices of the Independent, Press-Telegram.
- PLEASE... PLEASE DON'T MAIL YOUR DRIVER'S LICENSE.
